The Hebrew girl, with glowing brow, The banner-blush of shame, Sinks at the Saviour's sinless feet And dares to breathe His name. From the full fountain of her eyes The lava-globes are roll'd—
They wash His feet, she spurns them off
With her ringlet-scarf of gold.

The Meek One feels the eloquence Of agonizing prayer,

The burning tears, the suppliant face,
The penitential hair;
And when, to check her brimming woe, The ointment box is riven—
"Rise, daughter, rise! Much hast thou loved, Be all thy sins fergiven!" Dear God! the prayers of good and pure,

The canticles of light,
Enrobe Thy throne with gorgeous skies,
As incense in Thy sight;
May the shivered vase of Magdalen

Soothe many an outcast's smart, Teaching what fragrant pleas may spring

From out a broken heart!

A boy of Cohoes, fifteen years of age, and another of Pottsville, sixty-nine years of age, were married the other day, the bride of one being thirteen and that of the other fifteen. If Congress is going to do nothing to tone down the trundle-bed trash of the country, it had better adjourn.

"If this jury convicts my client," said a Missouri lawyer, rolling up his sleeves and displaying his fists, "I shall feel compelled to meet each one and hammer justice into his soul through his his head." Verdict of not guilty.

A Macon gentleman, who has a hard name to pronounce, was black-balled in a secret society—whereupon he held the President responsible. The President declined, and now they are hunting out the black-ballers.
