

Help Me, Cassius, or I Sink.

We are under many obligations to Senator Whittemore and those who supported his concurrent resolution, asking Congress not to reduce the regular army, and thereby necessitate the withdrawal of Federal troops from this State. We are glad to have this confession of fear and apprehension of receiving their just deserts from the people whom they systematically plundered, made by the legislative band, of which Whittemore is one of the chiefs. It explains to all the world why the vast preponderating majority implores the strong arm of the Federal Government to protect them. It is a good thing to have them confess that their anxieties and fears are aroused. It is an admission of guilt, it is a proclamation that they tremble for the consequences of their crimes. This will do poor South Carolina good in Washington. This will open the eyes of the blind. Men will ask, are we forever to bolster this South Carolina iniquity? Are we to keep up a regular army there to enable those who rule and ruin that State, to continue their depredations under the protecting folds of the national flag? Inquiry will be instituted, and they will discover that there is no disorder, no collisions among the people, and nothing that threatens to disturb the public peace. The garrison and officers, while welcome personally, and of some advantage to trade, accomplish nothing in the world in the way of promoting order. The only effect of their presence is to give confidence to a set of bad men, who insult the people, depreciate their character, appropriate their property, cut off their children from the advantages of education, and persistently drag the good name of the State into the mire of filth and contempt. South Carolina prays to be delivered from them. She begs to have the tax grabbers stand before the country unmasked and unprotected by extraneous power. She wishes no longer the sort of protection under which they flourish like the green bay tree.

Remove the troops; leave the people of all classes and conditions, who have a permanent and genuine interest in the prosperity of the State, free to come together and strike hands once more in the cause of honesty, just government and economical administration of affairs. There would, of course, be much shaking and trembling of knees. The air would be filled with lamentations of the receding hosts, who would be compelled to leave when the soldiers were withdrawn, but it would become purer for those who remained behind. The interests of black and white, of native and foreign or Northern population, would become harmonized upon the basis of honesty, good laws, broad toleration, active industry and a fair field to enterprise, vigor and thrift, from whatever quarter they might come. As a matter of feeling and association, we should be pleased to have the troops remain. But their departure is much to be desired on public grounds. We can never get relief from oppression and corruption until those who inflict them are made to feel that they must face the consequences. That they dare not do. The United States Government will find it the easiest and most practicable form of relief which they can extend to the people of South Carolina, to leave them to themselves. We are willing, few as we are, to take the consequences. Whittemore and his confrères, many as they are, are not willing to take the consequences. We have nothing to fear, but they dread the day when they shall be left in their nakedness and hideousness. It will be a day of account to an outraged people, a day of terror such as they cannot stand. They will make themselves scarce, and the mourners over their departure will be few indeed. Whittemore's piteous appeal to Congress to sustain the rotten artificial and un-republican government of South Carolina and prop it up against the moral sense, not only of its own people but of the whole world, will convince all who look below the surface of things, that its days are numbered, and that it is self-condemned.

AN EMPIRE.—The London Times has completed a careful review of the census of 1871, of the British Empire. There are 38 persons to a square mile in the Empire; 200 in the United Kingdom, 201 in India, and 1.41 in the colonies. It should be observed, however, that in some parts of India the density of population more than equals that of England. The Queen rules over 134,762,593 souls; her people dwell in 44,142,651 houses; the area of the lands they inhabit is not less than 7,763,449 square miles.

The Bottom Dollar.

Treasurer Cardozo told the army of attaches, yesterday, that the tax levied by the General Assembly to meet their expenses was entirely insufficient, and that only two-thirds of the amount levied has been received in the State Treasury. He had paid the expenses of the extra session, amounting to $75,000, and had just finished paying off the members for the session now concluded, amounting to $103,000. The treasury was empty. He had no funds on hand. It was not his fault. He hoped and trusted that the County Treasurers who had failed to report would do so within the next week. When he was in funds, he would liquidate their claims, as far, at least, as the means on hand would allow. He was ready to endorse their pay certificates, but money was out of the question. Governor Moses appeared upon the scene, and explained Treasurer Cardozo's explanation, but no money was forthcoming. One desperate colored "snatchee" offered a resolution, to appeal to the United States Government to establish military rule and give them their rights.

ACTS APPROVED.—The Governor has signed and approved the following Acts and Joint Resolutions:

Acts to authorize the Commissioners of Horry to collect an additional tax; to regulate the time of holding the courts in the Fourth Circuit; to exempt from attachment, levy and sale all poor farms, poor houses, hospitals, court houses, jails and all other public property of whatever description that are actually used as such, for debts due by the County in which they are situated; to amend the statutes in relation to the Aiken County Manufacturing Company; to incorporate the Attucks Light Lumber and other companies; to amend Section 2, Chapter 39, Title 7, of the General Statutes; amendatory of the Charleston Land Company, the charter of a certain ferry from Hamlin's wharf; Act relating to the militia, and for the better government and organization of the same; to incorporate the Congaree Real Estate Building and Loan Association; to amend an Act to provide for the administration of delinquent estates; to confer the right of legitimacy on certain children; to incorporate Lone Star Debating and Charitable Club, of Columbia; to incorporate Richland Rifle Club, of Charleston; to regulate public printing; to designate places for collection of taxes in Fairfield; to authorize and empower H. R. Box, Joseph M. Lawton and others to erect and continue for a term of four years two gates across Savannah and Augusta road; to change names of certain individuals therein mentioned; to regulate service of legal process upon railroad and express companies; to incorporate the Union Hotel Company in Union; to incorporate the Camden Independent Fire Engine Company No. 1; to amend an Act to re-charter the ferry over Combahee River, known as the Combahee Ferry; to establish a public road in Orangeburg; to authorize and require County Commissioners of Newberry to build a bridge across Tiger River; to punish persons for ill treating children, apprentices, idiots, servants and helpless persons; to incorporate Hartsville Agricultural Association, of Darlington; to amend an Act entitled "An Act for the relief of persons killed because of their political opinions," approved March 13, 1872; to repeal joint resolution to require the Governor to communicate with the proper authorities of Georgia, with a view to a re-adjustment of boundary line between the two States, and authorizing the appointment of three commissioners; to charter the Georgetown and North-western Narrow Gauge Railroad Company; to regulate the number and pay of officers, attaches, clerks and laborers of the General Assembly, and to provide the manner of electing, appointing and paying the same; to amend the Act making appropriations for the expenses of the fiscal year, as relates to the clerks, employees, etc.

Joint resolutions to authorize the County Commissioners of Fairfield to levy and collect a special tax of 1 1/2 mills on the dollar for the payment of the past indebtedness of said County; requiring all persons holding claims against the County of Charendon to file a list of such claims in the office of the Clerk of the Court; to change names of Horace H. Moses, Emma Henrietta Moses, his wife, and Mabel and Isaac H. Moses, their children, to Horace H., Emma Henrietta, Mabel and Isaac H. Harby, respectively; to authorize and empower the trustees of the Greeley Institute in Anderson to elect three special trustees, and to convey property belonging to them in trust, and for other purposes therein mentioned; to require the County Commissioners of Union to apply the proceeds of one mill of the tax of three mills, levied by this General Assembly at its present session for County purposes, to the payment of the past indebtedness of said County.

The woman suffrage movement appears to be making more progress in the West than in the East. The Iowa Senate has, by a vote which lacked but one of being unanimous, adopted the House joint resolution for a constitutional amendment giving women the right to vote. The West seems to be a favorite theatre for trying political and social experiments. It led the way in the wholesale divorce business.

NEWSPAPERS AS SCHOOL BOOKS.—We clip the following from an exchange: "The pupils of the Dover, N. H., high school are examined at regular intervals on topics which involve a careful reading of the daily and weekly newspapers."

Meeting of the City Council.

COUNCIL CHAMBER, COLUMBIA, S. C., March 12, 1874.

Present—His Honor the Mayor, and Aldermen Lowndes, Carroll, Mitchell, Young, Carr, Williams, Cooper and Griffin. Absent—Aldermen Hoge, Carpenter, Thompson and Taylor.

On motion, the reading of the minutes of the last regular and two special meetings were dispensed with.

PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS.

The following was received, and on motion of Alderman Cooper, Council agreed to sell at $1.50 per foot:

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 11, 1874.

To the Honorable Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Columbia—GENTLEMEN: I desire to purchase fifty feet of the dressed rock belonging to the city, lying near the jail. I would, therefore, wish to know the price for about fifty feet, more or less. Yours, &c.

CHAS. LOGAN.

The following was received:

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 12, 1874.

To the Honorable Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Columbia, S. C.—GENTLEMEN: You are respectfully invited to be present at the exhibition to be given by the junior class of the University of South Carolina, this evening, at the campus. The exercises will begin at 8 o'clock.

CHARLES BABBITT, W. M. DAVE, O. F. CUMMINGS.

On motion of Alderman Lowndes, the same was received as information, and the thanks of the Council extended to the parties for their courtesy.

The following, on motion of Alderman Griffin, was received as information:

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 10, 1874.

To the City Council—GENTLEMEN: This is to inform you, that the frame-work of City Almshouse and Hospital is completed and raised, and now ready for inspection by whatever committee you may see fit to appoint for inspection of the same. Yours, most respectfully,

P. S. BOATWRIGHT, Contractor.

The following applications for tavern licenses were received and referred to the Committee on Licenses: D. G. Thompson, Romanstine & Jones and A. Tarkenton. REPORTS OF CITY OFFICERS.

Report of Overseer of the Poor, as follows, was referred to the Committee on Almshouse:

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 10, 1874.

To His Honor the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Columbia—GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit to your honorable body my report as Overseer of the Poor for the month of February, 1874.

City Hospital: There has been admitted, February 26, Peter Staggers, (colored.) One death has occurred here during this month—Peggy Parker, (colored,) February 19. Number of inmates, 27. City Almshouse: Nothing has transpired here worthy of any notice. Number of inmates, 17. All of which is respectfully submitted to your honorable body. I have the honor to be and remain, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

CHARLES SCHULTZ, Overseer of the Poor.

Report of the Chief of Police for the month of February was presented, and referred to the Committee on Guard House and Police:

OFFICE OF CHIEF OF POLICE, COLUMBIA, S. C., February 23, 1874.

For the month of February, all grades of crime and offenses committed within the city limits were 73, of which 70 were males and 3 were females; 25 were whites and 49 colored. The following report shows the various grades of crime and offenses for which persons were arrested and dealt with according to law, to wit: Intoxication, 31; disorderly, 10; disturbances, 3; using profane language, 1; driving on side-walk, 2; receiving stolen goods, 2; petit larceny, 5; grand larceny, 1; fast riding, 1; violation of Sunday ordinance, 1; suspicious characters, 4; violation of an ordinance concerning fencing, 1; interfering with police, 2; vagrancy, 1; selling spoiled fish, 1; passing counterfeit money, 1; violence to toll bridge keeper, 1. The following disposition was made of persons arrested during the month: 6 served their time at work, of which they worked 34 days; 19 were discharged by His Honor the Mayor; 5 were turned over to Trial Justices; 1 turned over to garrison; 2 cases continued. The following statement shows the amount of fines collected from persons arrested by the Police Department for the month of February, to wit: Total amount assessed, $77.49; total amount collected, $27.40.

In conclusion, I would say that the members of the police have good health, with the exception of two. There has been a good deal of petty stealing in the city, but we have been very successful in arresting most of the parties.

J. A. JACKSON, Chief of Police.

The report of the City Clerk and Treasurer for February was presented, and referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Ways and Means, to whom was referred the petition of the Board of Health for pay for services rendered, reported back as follows, and, on motion of Alderman Young, the recommendation of the committee was concurred in:

The committee know no good reason for granting this petition. The Board, in previous years, has served without pay, as does the Council. Their duties are certainly not so arduous as those of the members of this Board, and no pay is given them. The committee recommend that the petition be not granted.

The Committee on Ways and Means also reported back the reports of the City Clerk and Treasurer for November, December and January, as examined and found correct.

On motion of Alderman Lowndes, the report of the committee was adopted.

The Committee on Accounts reported back the following bills and recommended payment: C. E. Plumer, market; Globe Gas Light Company, street lamps; A. Palmer and G. G. Newton, miscellaneous.

On motion, the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

The Committee on Market reported that they had not received the report of the Clerk of the Market, and asked for further time. Granted.

The Committee on Licenses reported favorably on the application of Jacobs & Hoeffler, for tavern license.

On motion, the recommendation was adopted.

Alderman Carr, from the Committee on Lights, reported progress; the posts were being put up.

The Committee on New City Hall presented the contract as drawn with Mr. Cramer as to changes to be made in the Opera House. The committee was granted further time to make a full report.

The Committee on City Schools, to whom was referred the petition of Geo. A. Richmond, reported back the same, with the following endorsement: The Committee on City Schools beg leave to report that they have examined the written petition, and would recommend that the sum of $35 be appropriated for books, to be accounted for by the committee.

On motion, the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

The committee appointed to investigate the city survey of the property of Mr. J. E. Miles asked for further time. Granted.

The following resolution was offered by Alderman Carroll and adopted:

Resolved, That Colonel L. D. Childs, President of the Carolina National Bank, be requested to report to Council, as required by Section 2 of the City Hall agreement between him and the City Council of Columbia.

Alderman Carroll made a motion to extend the time for paying taxes until April 1. Lost.

Alderman Carroll gave notice that he would offer an amendment to the ordinance for raising supplies, as to granting licenses to wheels of fortune.

A motion was made by Alderman Carroll to count the city money the Clerk has in hand, and destroy the same.

Alderman Cooper moved to lay the motion on the table. Carried.

The following bills were presented, and referred to the Committee on Accounts: R. Hannan, J. Meighan, P. Campbell, J. C. Dial, (two bills,) Southern Warehouse Company, Henry Skipper, John Alexander and Cooper & Taylor, Street Department; Cooper & Taylor, miscellaneous; S. W. Hook and John Alexander, Water Works; Cooper & Taylor, bell tower; J. C. Dial and B. F. Griffin, Hospital; E. B. Turnipseed and B. F. Griffin, indigent poor; J. S. G. Mayrant, (two bills,) W. B. Stanley, (three bills,) John D. Bateman, E. R. Stokes, Clerk's office; J. A. Jackson, Owen Daly, W. Steiglitz, Cooper & Taylor and John Alexander, Guard House; J. Alexander, (two bills,) Hopw & Allen, Fire Department; Columbia Gas Light Company, B. F. Griffin, Almshouse; Dr. Trezavant, (two bills,) I. H. Coleman, examination of pauper lunatics.

CHARLES BARNUM, City Clerk.

MURDER AND ROBBERY.—A correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel writes from Batesville, under date of March 16: Mr. Tilman B. Fallaw, a brick mason, whilst on his way home from the circus, (Wooten & Haight's,) on Saturday night last, between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock, was accosted by two negroes, who bantered him for a horse trade. His friend who was with him rode on, and Fallaw dismounted and agreed to take $150 for his horse. After riding some distance, one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the horse that Fallaw had been riding came up to him in a gallop and stopped. He examined the horse and found that the saddle and bridle had been taken off, and he then turned back, and when he came to the spot where he had left Fallaw, he found him lying in the road unable to speak. He then sought assistance to move the injured man, and when he returned the man was still speechless, and continued one or more miles, the