NEW YORK, September 23.—The Tribune's New Orleans special says: Considerable feeling is caused among the citizens by apparently authentic reports of the determination of the Kellogg party to arrest and bring to trial the leaders of the late movement. Attempts to arrest the State authorities will almost certainly provoke armed resistance and bloodshed, to a greater extent than heretofore, will be the inevitable result. It is understood that the army officers are much opposed to the proposed proceeding, as bad faith towards the surrendered party, and the hope is generally expressed that the President will at least use his influence ugainst it. Trouble is also feared from a threat to search houses for arms. When McEnery surhouses for arms. When McEnery sur-rendered, it was agreed that all State arms in the possession of his followers should be turned over to the United States anthorities. The Kellogg party complains that a large number of arms inspection of all their State troops, and a return of the State arms in their subodshee Mean Spirit. LOUISIANA-JUSTICE TO THE SOUTH WILL GIVE PEACE AND RECONSTRUC TION.-General Butler and Senutor Morton have given us their views upon events in Louisiana. They are repro sentative men in the Republican party. To that party we must look for imme-diate justice to Lonisiana and the South. They give us an idea of what its extreme thinkers will be apt to advise as a forther measure of reconstruction. It may be useful for us to consider how adequate their advice they show, whenever a shot is fired, in may be for the peace and reconstruction of the South. In the light of flying to Washington or the North. this advice, we may consider the pro-position that seems to be acceptable to the country, that Kellogg and his con-cern should resign and permit an their Governors at the Federal mchouest election.

According to Senator Morton, the whole difficulty in the South arises are either "Democrats" or "sympa-thizers with the crimes—sometimes participators." There has been no "war of race, s, "simply a war against "Benublicane of the state at the distance of the state at the state of t by concert of action. He does not think that General Grant has any right to say "whether Kellogg or McEnery shall assume to be Govern-or." "The people," he says, "must, sooner or later, decide in the manner of an election."

Senator Morton appeals to the ignorant passions of the war, madly in-voking the spirit of rapine, with which we became so familiar during the dent should not be able to appreciate dreadful days of strife. There are the moral grandeur of the spectacle none so blind as they who will close their eyes and not see. But it is mournful to find a statesman as influential as and which, nulike himself, does not Senator Morton deliberately ignoring fight it out on this line, or that line, the actual state of affairs in Louisians or aby other line, but has no use for and speaking of the McEnery move- any arms except its legs-if such a Himent as though it were the work of the bernianism is allowable-and has fled Thugs of Iudia or the bandits of Greece. This admission from the Senator's voice is for uncompton man disposed to immederate and an emission for material computation. people, should not the President undo the wrong which he, and he alone, committed when he forced the contri-vance called the Kellogg administra-tion upon that State? The proposi-tion to submit the whole question to a vote by the people is, as our readers will remember, identical with the pro-position accepted by McEnery in a letter from New Orleans we printed on Friday. We, therefore, find Mr. Mc-Enery, who represents the people of Louisiana, and who is certainly sup-ported by all that remains of Confede-rate sentiment in that State, and General Butler, who is the extreme of
