

"Let our Just Censures"

Attend the True Event."

BY JULIAN A. SELBY.

COLUMBIA, S. C., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 8, 1874.

VOLUME X—NUMBER 198

DECEIT OF SONG WRITERS.—The man who wrote "Home, Sweet Home," never had a home.—Exchange.

No, of course not. All his folks at home say he didn't. Nobody who writes about anything ever had it. If a man is out of anything he immediately goes and writes about it. No man writes so many "headings" as the man who is out of his head.

Certainly he didn't ever have any home. The man who wrote the "Old Arm Chair" never had an arm chair in all his life. The best he had was an old split-bottom chair without any back to it.

The author of "Take Me Back to Switzerland," never was in Switzerland. The nearest he ever came to it was sitting in the William Tell saloon, eating Swiss cheese—kase why, that was the best he could do.

"Mother, I've Come Home to Die," has not spoken to the old woman for years, and wouldn't go near the house. Besides, he is of that class of spiritualists who don't believe they will ever die. His health was never better. His mother is nothing but a mother-in-law, and she is dead, anyhow.

There is the author of "Old Oaken Bucket," too. There wasn't a bucket on the old farm, water being drawn with a tin pail and cistern pole.

"If I Had But a Thousand a Year" stated privately to his friends that he would be contented with half that sum, as he was doing chores for his board and three months' schooling in the winter.

The author of "Champagne Charley" never drank anything but 10 cent whiskey.

The man who wrote "Mary Had a Little Lamb" knew very well that it was nothing but a little lamb fry.

"Shells of Ocean" is a lumbung. The plaintiff poet, who represents himself as wandering, one summer eve, with sea-beat thought, on a peninsula, was raised in the interior of Pennsylvania, and never was ten miles away from home in all his life.

"Gathered shells," did he? All the shells he ever gathered were some egg-shells back of his mother's kitchen.

"Hark, I hear the Angels Sing," spent all his evenings in a beer saloon. Angels, indeed!

The man who wrote the "Song of the Spirit" hadn't a shirt to his back, wearing a wampus for the most part.

"Oft in the Stilly Night" used to get on a spree and make the stilly night howl till daylight.

The author of "We Met by Chance" knew very well it was arranged beforehand. He had been weeks contriving it—and she admired his contrivance.

The author of "I Know a Bank," &c., did not know one where he could get his note discounted. The only check he ever held was a white check on a faro bank. He never held a red check in all his life.

"What are the Wild Waves Saying?" knew very well they were reproaching him for running away from Long Branch without paying his hotel bill.

"Who Will Care for Mother Now?" Who, indeed? You took the old woman to the poor house just before writing the song, and there is nobody but the poormaster to care for her now.

"Hear Me, Norma," was deaf and dumb. He couldn't make his pa hear, nor ma.

"My Mother, Dear," used to thrash the old woman within an inch of her life.

The author of "Rain on the Roof" always slept in the basement, except when he slept out of doors.

"Let Me Kiss Him for His Mother" got mad because his mother wouldn't love him, and whipped her little boy within an inch of his life.

"I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls" used to cheat at marbles when a boy, and his dream was a horrid nightmare, brought on by the remorse at the recollection of fraudulent marble hands.

"I'm Saddest When I Sing" was ticked almost to death if invited to.

"Happy be Thy Dreams" sold benzine whiskey. You can fancy what kind of dreams were produced.

The medical society of the city and County of New York has just issued its first notice to the quacks. It quotes the new anti quack law in full, and requests every practitioner in that city to fill up a blank form with his name and residence, place and date of graduation, the name of the society granting license, with date of the same, and to make return to the Secretary of the Board of Censors. This is deemed a necessary preliminary step, though it can hardly be expected that every regular physician in New York will respond to the demand. It will at least enable the society to trace out some of the quacks who are preying upon the community. It is said the new law, though strong in some respects, is weak in one part; it does not offer sufficient inducements for any person to pre-empt a quack for the unlawful practice of medicine and surgery. The officers of the medical society are the only persons authorized to prosecute offenders, and this at their own expense.

An Illinois woman has presented her ninth husband with a boy.

ENGLISH ETIQUETTE UNDER DIFFICULTIES.—In connection with the late death of the distinguished author, Jules Janin, the Mexican journals give, probably from French sources, the following anecdote, "which well illustrates the English manners." Jules Janin seated in a London eating house; an Englishman also taking a "grog," an Englishman calls pleguatically to a waiter, "Boy, who is that gentleman who is smoking a cigar and reading a newspaper?" "I don't know, milord." And so successively the Englishman inquires of different people, but without any result. So he goes to the person himself and says in the Mexican version: "Caballero, you who smoke a cigar and read a newspaper, what is your name?" "Jules Janin." "Very well; Mr. Jules Janin, your coat is burning."

An Atlanta letter in the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel says: "William Guinn, quite a famous negro—oct—roon—has been in the city for a week or two. He was formerly a slave, owned by Rev. Mr. Wade, of Screven County. After the war he went North, obtained employment in some of the leading hotels; afterward attended the World's Exposition in London, where he had charge of articles from Georgia. Thence he went to the Vienna Exposition, where he learned to speak the German language. He is said to be an unflinching, uncompromising Democrat, is a fluent and entertaining speaker, and is said to be no ordinary poet. He has delivered several lectures up North in which he declared himself a Democrat. He was an assistant at the Kimball House during the Fair. He left for Savannah to-day."

If all the members of the legal fraternity who have been engaged on the one side or the other of the scandal suits take anything like an active part in the trials, it is fair to presume that there will be a clashing of legal opinions such as has not been seen before in this country. On Mr. Beecher's side have been retained William M. Everts and Judge Porter, late of the New York Court of Appeals, while rumor has it that Senator Conkling is to sum up for the defence in the Tilton-Beecher suit. Tilton's counsel refuse to state who is to lead in his suits, but common fame assigns that position to Charles O'Connor; W. O. Bartlett, Mr. Abbott, (a law author,) Judge Fullerton, and others are on the list, while there is no doubt that Ben. Butler will take care of Mr. Monilton's side in that gentleman's suits, if he don't assist Mr. Tilton's lawyers.

Little Johnny wanted to go to church. His mother was afraid he would make a noise, but his father said, "Johnny knows better than to make a noise in church." So he went. He kept very still till the last prayer. By that time he had grown tired of sitting still, and was standing on the pew cushion with his back to the pulpit. When the lady in the next seat bowed her head for prayer, Johnny thought she was crying. He leaned over and said to the lady, in a tone which was meant for a whisper, but which was only too plainly heard, "Poor lady! What ee matter? Do oo summat ache?"

THE CHINESE GAZETTE makes the astonishing announcement that Cincinnati is no longer pure, but adulterated with molasses, sugar of starch, fuel oil and the poisonous carbide. The Commissioner of Agriculture, in his report for 1865 says that Prof. Mapes, of New York, analyzed the beer from a dozen different breweries, and found all of it adulterated. Cocaine, Indicus and nux vomica entered largely into its composition.

J. C. SEEGERS guarantees his beer to be pure and reliable. He does not adulterate it, but brews from the best barley, malt and hops.

It Pays to Buy Good Medicines. It pays to use Heintz's KINA CHILL CURE. It pays to use Heintz's BLOOD AND LIVER PILLS. It pays to use STANLEY'S COUGH SYRUP. It pays to purify your blood with QUEEN'S DELIGHT. It pays to use the COOK'S BAKING POWDER. It pays to use the QUAKER LINIMENT. It pays to use Mother Darling's INFANT CORDIAL for children. It pays to buy your medicines at E. H. HEINTZ'S Drug and Medicine Store.
