A MOTHER OF CRIMINALS .- We find in the New York Times the following record of a family of criminals that lived in one of the Counties on the upper Hudson, in New York. Says the Times:

Some seventy years ago, a young girl named "Margaret" was left adrift in one of these villages--it does not appear whether through the crime or misfortune of others. There was no alms-bouse in the place; but she was a subject of out-door relief, probably reveiving occasionally food and cloth-ing from the officials, but never edu-cated, and never kindly sheltered in a home. She became the mother of a long race of criminals and paupers, of her unhappy line there were twenty children; of these, three died in in-Iancy, and seventeen survived to maturity. Of the seventeen, nine served in the State prisons for high crimes an aggregate term of fifty years, white the others were frequent inmates of jails and penitentiaries and aims of the 900 descendents, through at 25 per cent, has been requested by the seventeen at 25 per cent, has been requested by the seventeen at 25 per cent, has been requested by the seventeen at 25 per cent, has been requested by the seventeen at 25 per cent, has been requested by the seventeen at 25 per cent, has been requested by the seventeen at 25 per cent, has been requested by the seventeen at 25 per cent, has been requested by the seventeen at 25 per cent.

Of the 900 descendants through six generations from this unhappy girl who was left on the village streets and abandoned in her shildhood, a great up in full. number have been idiots, imbediles, drunkards, lunatics, paupers and pros-titutes; but 200 of the more vigorous has transmitted, hundreds of thou-sands of dollars in the effects she the antold damage she has inflicted on property and public morals. When we think of the moltitude of wretched beings she has left upon the earth; of the suffering, degradation, ignorance and crime that one ohild has thus transmitted; of the evil she has caused

THE LOSS OF THE COSPATRICK -Shipwreck at sea, is one of those cala-mitica which modern spience seems in vain to endeavor to prevent. Precau-tions against fire may reduce the number of fires at sea, but of late there have been two signal instances which show how impossible, it is to obtain perfect safety. The first was the Japan, and of the particulars of the loss of that steamship even the Pacific Mail Company, which owned it, does not yet appear to be fully informed. The second example is the destruction by fire of the British ship Oospatrick, which was burned at sea on November 17, during a voyage from Londou to Auckland, New Zesland. Nearly 500 persons are supposed to have perished, and only three are known to have sur-vived. The horrors which these fortunate survivors endured may be inferred man blood and eating human flesh, taken from the bodies of others, their companions, who had died in the boat." It is impossible to realize the extremity of hunger, to which these sailors must have been reduced, nor is it adviseble to dwall too how any too h bart of the horrible story.
