VOLUME XI-NUMBER 31

GLIMPSES OF THE SPIRIT WORLD, Mrs. Rachel Walcott, a trance mediur, lectured at 92 Baltimore street, last night, before a large audience, composed of leading spiritualists and others, upon the "experience of Jacob Weaver as a spirit." Mr. Weaver in life was an undertaker. The lecturer went in a "trance" at once, and with closed eyes held her hands before her as if reading from a book. She com-menced with the life of Mr. Weaver, when he was a boy and received a whipping by his mother, and traced his career up to his death. She said he was present at the Masonic Temple when services. were held over his body, and could see and hear as well as in life. A sweet and indescribable joy filled his spirit as he witnessed the "grand demontration" on the oc-casion. When his body was placed in the vault, "the whole atmos-phere from Greenmount to Heaven was filled with ethereal forces," which led to a sweet bower, where his angel wife and his angel chil-dren and grand-cdildren met him. Then roses were strewn at his feet that fell to earth, and power was given him by the angel spirits to visit the earth and communicate with his friends. He had often visited the earth since his death, and is able to see all that is going and the time worlds. He has a on in the two worlds. He has a special mission to perform in behalf of spiritualism, and privileges and powers are conferred upon him on account of the high state of perfection he had reached in spiritualism before his death that was never given before to any new spirit. The beautiful casket and the surroundings of his inneral had greatly contributed to his happiness, and had delighted his spirit friends who were assembled in a great throng at the temple and at the vault. The angel world was described as being beyond the comprehension of mortals. The angels are correctly painted with wings, with which they constantly fly from Heaven to earth. He had gathered the tears shed at his funeral and had made them into diamonds. He is perfectly delighted with his present condition; is enjoying himself in the society of his angel friends, and has no desire to return to the flesh.

BREATHING THROUGH THE NOSE-The pernicious habit of breathing through the mouth while sleeping or walking, is very hurtful. There are many persons who sleep with the mouth open and do not know it. They go to sleep with it closed and wake up with it closed; but if the mouth is parched and dry on awaking it is a sign that the mouth has been open during sleep. Snor-ing is a certain sign. This habit should be overcome. At all times, except when eating, drinking, or speaking, keep the mouth firmly closed, and breathe through the nostrils, and retire with a firm determination to conquer. The nostrils are the proper breathing apparatus not the mouth. A man may inhale poisonous gases through the mouth without being aware of it, but not through the nose.

The death of John Harper, of the original firm of J. & J. Harper, afterworld known as Harper & Brothers, is an event in the world of letters. He died Thursday, at his residence in New York, from a stroke of paralysis. He was born in 1796, There were four brothers. As the younger brothers grew up they were taken in the firm. Their success was due not only to great business tact, industry and enterprise but also to the confidence, affection and constant unity be tween the brothers. It is said in a sketch of them in one of the New York journals, that if the question was ever asked who was the head of the house, who was the Harper, and who were the brothers, the answer was, "Either one is Harper, and all the rest are the brothers."

The lusiness of the firm has gradually fallen into the hands of the next generation, and five sone of the original members of the firm Fletcher Harper is now the sole survivor of the original set.

A Colorado editor, who has seen the handkerchief of Willim Penn, which is to be exhibited at the Philadelphia Centennial, says of it: The handkerchief is in a tolerable fair state of preservation, with the exception of a hole in the centre. The morning Mr. Penn went out under the tree to conclude his celebrated land-grabbing operation with the Indians, the forest-foliage was laden with a heavy dew, and, as the young Indian chiefs and maidens put on the brass rings and glass beads, which the conscientious William had given them in exchange for their broad groups.

The symptoms of Liver Complaint ar uneasiness and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general costive, and sometimes alternating with lax. The head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation, considerable loss of memory, accompanied with painful sersation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. Oftencomplaining of weakness, debility and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times, very few of them; but the Liver is generally the organ most involved.
