A young lady at a social gathering the other evening, who was overcome by the heat of the room and fainted gracefully away, inspired the poet of the occasion to the following tender effort:
Take her up tenderly, lift her with care,
But whatever you do, don't disturb her back hair,
Since though now pale and lovely she
tranquilly lies,
Touch her hair and she'll get up and scratch out your eyes.

The Brooklyn Argus: "The most quiet and unobtrusive female can create a considerable sensation when a frightened cockroach mistakes her leg for the nearest way home." The Brooklyn scandal has so thoroughly demoralized the newspapers there that they now talk about female legs with a freedom and flippancy that would suffice with a blush the cheek of a cast-iron mermaid.

It is a little singular that Col. Wheeler, who opened the mint in Charlotte in 1835, (forty years ago,) should be there now, in 1875, to close it up.

There are in the United States 8,654 Blue Lodges, 543,474 Master Masons, 496 Encampments and 40,410 Knights.

Seven female clerks are employed in the New Orleans post office.

They pay seventy-five cents a bushel for dead grass-hoppers in Missouri.
