There are Two Ways to Live on Earth. BY CHARLES SWAIN. There are two ways to live on earth-Two ways to judge-to act-to view; For all things here have double birth-

A right and wrong-a false and true! Give me the home where kindness seeks •To make that sweet which seemeth small;

Where every lip in fondness speaks, And every mind hath care of all; Whose inmates live in glad exchange

Of pleasures free from vain expense; Whose thoughts beyond their means ne'er range, Nor wise denials give offence;

Who in a neighbor's fortune find No wish, no impulse to complain; Who feel not-never felt-the mind To envy vet another's gain!

Who dreams not of the mocking tide Ambition's foiled endeavor meets,-The bitter pangs of fallen pride, Nor fallen Power that shuns the streets.

Though fate deny its glittering store, Love's wealth is still the wealth to choose: For all that Gold can purchase more Are gauds it is no loss to lose.

Some beings wheresoe er they go, Find naught to please or to exalt,-Their constant study but to show Perpetual modes of finding fault ;

While others, in the ceaseless round Of daily wants and daily care, Can yet pull flowers from common ground, And-twice enjoy the joy they share!

Oh! happy they who happy make .--Who, blessing still themselves are blest! Who something spare for others sake And strive in all things for the best.

Agricultural.

To Know Good Guano.

As this substance is beginning to be extensively used by our farmers, and as there are many different kinds of it, and perhaps considerable adulteration practiced, it will no doubt be a benefit to farmers to be able to judge correctly of its quality.

Common guano is a mixture of ammoniacal salts and earthy phosphates, and is composed of the excrements of sea fowl, deposited on islands in the sea, in latitudes where no rains fall. It is brought to the United States and Europe from two different parts of the world, viz: Africa and Peru; the former kind contains a larger amount of phosphates but less ammonia than the latter, and is therefore inferior. Guano contains water, ammonia, ulmic, uric, and humic acids, which are classified as volatile and organic matter, separable at a low red heat, also alkaline salts, such as soda, chloride of sodium, and alkaline phosphates which are separable by boiling water from the aforesaid ash; also earthy salts, consisting of the carbonates and phosphates separable by Lydrochloric acid from the residue aforesaid; also sand which is insoluble.

To analyze guano: 1st, calcine 100 grains in a capsule at a low red heat, until all black particles are birnt away and a white ash is left. Good guano should lese from 60 to 70 per cent. of volatile matter. 2nd, digest the above ash salts, filter them, then dry the residue and weigh it. Good guano should lose from 4 to 6 per cent, of these alkaline salts. (The phosphorie acid can be separated from this solution cassock and a gown in the pulpit. While the by adding sulphate of magnesia and ammonia, doctor was preparing in the ante-room for mirwhich precipitate it as ammoniac phosphate of isterial duties, the beadle entered and offered magnesia.) 3rd, The residue above is then to assist him on with his gown. "Gown sir," digested in hot hydrochloric acid, then filtered replied the doctor, in a voice which nearly and well washed; the loss is carbonate and frightened the beadle out of his wits, "my wife phosphate of lime and magnesia, which are precipitated by ammonia; this, on being dried and submitted to heat, should amount to 15 or 20 per cent. of the whole guano. 4th, The residue is sand and should never exceed four or bed, Jake Take, the burglar, showed the skill five per cent. in good guano. One sign of good guano is, that from fifty to stairs backwards." seventy per cent. should dissolve in a hot solution of caustic potash, with a strong smell of "what's that for ?" ammonia; from thirty to forty-seven per cent. of good guano is soluble in water. It would be well if every planter and farmer had a small laboratory for experiments, always taking care to be as economical of time for out-door business as possible. We advise our young farmers to cultivate a taste for chemistry and ex periment; it is a science founded altogether on experiment. We can tell why two and two makes four in mathematics, but we cannot tell why oxygen and hydrogen combine in certain definite proportions and no others, to form wa- himself," said Jake. ter; we know that it is so by experiment, and the fact is an important one. There are many rage, "there's no Mr. Sullivan here." "I beg your pardon, my lady," said Jake.-

of Scotch snuff, dissolved in a tumbler of water and used on a pottled plant, will make 'it start into life like a May shower. Guano is sold bags of 130 to 160 lbs. each. N. Y. Tribune.

CULTURN OF THE SUNFLOWER. - A " Conestoga" correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph says : I do not think there is sufficient attention paid to the cultivation of this plant. The Sunflower is a native of South America, but is easily cultivated in any common soil, either by sowing the seed early in the spring, or by slips or offsets from the roots. It is now a common and well known production, having long since become naturalized throughout the United States. The manner of planting and cultivating it, is not dissimilar to that adopted in growing corn, and its acreable product exceeds that of the most prolific cereals. The principal uses to which the seed of the sunflower is applied, are the manufacture of oil, for painting and burning, and the feeding of horses, sheep and swine. The oil is clear, thin and inodorous when burnt, though of an agreeable taste. For painting, it is said to be preferable to any now in use. As a feed for hens, it is said to be highly prized. Being of an oily nature it approximates more nearly the character of animal food than any grain that can be fed-to them, and supplies to a very considerable extent, a very efficient substitute for meat. The sunflower requires good soil, and may be managed in the same manner as corn, when grown on soils that are friable, rich and moist.

.... BOMMER'S MANURE .- Bommer's patent manure is made by erecting a square pile of straw, stalks, leaves and other dry vegetable matter, at the side of a vat or reservoir. Liquid manure from the vat is pumped repeatedly on the pile, causing its fermentation. The pile is built on rails and brush, so as to drain freely, and admit the air from below. All surplus drainage passes off into the vat. The liquid manure is made by mixing night soil and other rich materials with water, adding gypsum with some lime, ashes, salt, &c., and Mable washings. Bommer published a useful pamphlet on making manure, not now in market. The patent is generally thought not to be valid .- Country Gentleman.

Dumorous.

NOT VICIOUS BUT PLAYFUL .- "Is your horse perfectly gentle, Mr. Dabster ?"

"Perfectly gentle-the only fault he has got -if that be a fault-is a playful habit of extending his hinder hoofs now and then." "By extending his hinder hoofs you don't mean kicking, I hope?" "Some people call it kicking, Mr. Green--

"I have!" shouted a little "six year old," at the foot of the class.

"Where?" he asked, quite amused at the boy's earnestness.

"On the Elephant!" said he, with a most provoking grin.

THE GOWS .- A talented D. D. belonging to Edinburgh, paid a visit to Newcastle. In the course of his stay, he was invited to preach to the congregation, the pastor of which, in conformity with the custom of his church, wears a
