aris correspondent of the New York cial Advertiser gives rather a chilling of the inauguration of the great French

tion. He says: e inauguration of the Exhibition took on the 15th, the appointed day. Neither ceremonial of the occasion nor the appeare of the building, nor the value and workompared to the World's Fair in Hyde Park. The weather was dull and very raw, with threatening rain, only one-quarter of the articles were arranged and in their places, 20,000 boxes and packages yet remaining to be opened. The programme was very short, lasting hardly a quarter of an hour, consisting of a short speech by the Emperor, in reply to Prince Napoleon, and two pieces of music; while the arrangements af the police plainly showed the extreme haste in which the whole affair had been conducted. The pageant of the Emperor arrived, surrounded by his munificent mounted b dy guard, and the cont d' wil of the attentive and highly-dressed galleries, during the delivery of the discourse of jesty was coldly received, and not a single shout marked the conclusion of his speech. He and the Empress walked several times through theedifice, by passages fenced in from the crowd and excited the usual curiosity but very few acclamations. It must certainly be allowed that this long-expected day fell very far short of realizing the anticipations that had been formed of it. The Patrie, in speaking of the Palace and its contents, begins by adjuring its readers to forget the London Exhibition if they can, for a comparison of the two would mortify their national pride. The stock fell the day after one and a quarter per cent."

"I ought to have said, while the English embassy had as many tickets of admission as it asked for, and while Prince Napoleon gave 4,000 with his own hand, the American embassy received exactly nine!

"The exhibition was thinly attended yesterday of the most striking of these: but is doing better to-day."

FRANCE. - The correspondent of the New York Herall gives the following account of the execution of Pianori:

Pianori, the man who fired at Louis Napoleon has paid the penalty with his life. He was decapitated on Monday morning, at 5 o'clock, in the usual place of execution of the prison of tors were not many at that early hour, and it was only on the evening before that orders were sent-round to the police agents to be ready. The Advocate-General visited him an hour before his execution to learn whether at that terrible moment when the world was about to close upon him, he had any disclosures to make. To the questions of the Advocate he answered by a stern and single negative. He died and made no ign. He was led to the scaffold, which was in the square of the prison, in the costume of parricides-a black veil thrown over his face, a long shirt covering him, and his feet naked. He was must have been strong which produced that calmness, for on his cheek bone was a bright heetie rpot, which told what passed within. As he stood on the scuffold he cried "Vive la Republique," and the plank to which he was bound turned the moment he was about to repeat the ery. Yet Pianori cannot be considered, even by the most ultra party, a political martyr. He ho had already committed crimes sufficient to earn such a doom. In the faubourge it is rumored that it was not Pianori, but a manniquin, that was guillotined, and that the real person (who, of course, was a police agent) has been sent out of the country with a passport.

KANSAS TERRITORY-ITS PROSPECTS .- We had the pleasure of meeting with Col. Crosson during the present week, and from him learned many particulars concerning the state of things in Kansas. Col C. was lately of Newberry District, and Editor of the Sentinel, and is a man of high character and intelligence. He is just from Kansas, and says that the prospects for maintaining the vantage ground now held by the Southern States is decided. Kansas will be a Slaveholding State, or no State of this Union. They are determined on it. He says that the Northern abolition papers have grossly slandered the Missourians. That notwithstanding the great excitement existing in Missouri, they are determined to carry their point orderly, though with unfinching tenacity.

The lands are represented as very fine, and the country is well adapted for a slaveholding State. Col. C. remarked that one of the most efficient men in turning the tide of opinion in favor of slavery in Kansas, was an emigrant from Mussachusetts sent out by the free-soilers. He and many others discovered, on reaching Missouri, the gross lies which abolition had taught them in regard to the condition of the negro, and the institution of slavery in general and they have wisely determined to go for a slaveholding State rather than a free negro State.

TELEGRAPH RELAY STATION .- We learn from the Savannah Georgian, that at a late meeting of the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, it was resolved that the President be instructed to address a letter to the Hon. Amos Kendall, at Washington setting forth the general advantages which would ensue from the removal of the Telegraphic Relay Office from Columbia, South Carolina, to Augusta, Georgia.

We wonder if they will also set forth the dis.

advantages of said removal, arising principally from the general unhealthiness of Augusta, its liability to epidemics, yellow fever, &c. Should it leaked out through some of the company, who It be removed to Augusta, we doubt if a dozen despatches would be received by our cotempo-President Kendall, if he consults the interests

> CURIOUS FACTS ABOUT THE PRESIDENTS .-The Boston Transcript is great on statistics: Its last effort in this line is the compilation of some curious coincidents noticeable in contemplating the names and lives of the first seven Presidents of the United States-Washington John Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, John J. E. Ryerson, of Canada West, and others, with His Quincy Adams, and Jackson. We quote some

In respect to the names of all, it may be said in conclusion : The initials of two of the seven were the same-and the initials of still two others were the same. It is said that no decision was come to in regard to any of the questions before them, but to suggest the division of service which the prayer book will allow. The unanimous opinion of the Bishops present was not to make any change in the prayer book or rubrics They adjourned to meet in a year, during which interval each member, upon the information received from interrogatories addressed to the clergy, will prepare an opinion, and upon a comparison of these views, a general report will be so, and we have yet to meet the man, who was not laid before the next convention.

DEATH OF REV. B. C. WEBB .- We are grieved with the sad intelligence that Rev. B.C. Webb late pastor of the Protestant Episcopal congrigation in this village, died at Wilson's Springs. N. C., on Sunday evening last, after a lingering illness of several months. He leaves a family, and many friends here to whom he had peculiarly endeared himself by his many noble virtues, to mourn his loss. But he was evidently a man of faith, and his death may be lamented only as a loss to those who survive .- Abbeville Press.

The New Orleans Delta of Sunday says: "There have been a number of deaths by cholera in the city during the week, and considerable alarm has been manifested by our citizens. #### Our Visit to Charleston.

We have never before visited Charleston with as high expectations of pleasure, and with as much confidence that we should be pleased. On Tuesday last we left Camden in Company with several brethren, and at Kingsville joined a number of distinguished and worthy advocates of the cause in which, now, so much true talent and patriotism is engaged. Here we met M. W. P. Tilley, of New Brunswick, Rev. Honor Judge, O'Neall, G. W. P. Townsend, and a host of "Sons" good and true, all on their way to the Four of the seven were from Virginia. Two grand and glorious convocation of Temperance to assemble on Wednesday, of which so much has been written and said; arrived at Branchville we received large and strong reinforcements of delegates from Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, &c., among whom was Col. Buckley, a native orator, whose eloquence it is said almost equals that of the orator of Ashland.

In Charleston, the most ample and elegant arrangements were made by the Committee of Arrangements, of which B. C. Pressley, Esq. was Chairman, for the reception and entertainment of the National Division. as the guests of the Grand Division of S. C., and for the accommodation of delegates generally to the meeting. All elegantly and luxuriously quartered at the Mills House. Here we met several of our old and esteemed friends, and a more earnest, warm, and genuine gratulation of all parties could hardly have been magined. Our limits will not allow us to particularze, for we might be invidious without intending it, and to say all we saw, heard, and felt, would occupy the whole side of our paper. We pass on.

On the evening of Tuesday, the Grand Division metand initiated twenty-one new members, and the evening was pleasantly passed in social communication, and a free and easy conference upon the subject of Temperance generally.

On Wednesday the 6th inst., the great movement airly commenced, and here we are entirely at a loss to know how we shall communicate an adequate idea to our readers, of the vast and magnificent display of that occasion, it could only be properly appreciated and understood by seeing for one's self, but we will tell our tale the best way we can. It is quite a compliment to the occasion to quote the language of an old and leading journal of the City, which in its faithful and excellent report of the proceedings says, "the result fully justified the expectations of the most sauguine friends of the cause." It was most emphatically pleased and delighted with the whole proceedings. A procession was formed at the Hall of Palmetto Division, which marched under escort of the Citadel Cadets, whose appearance and exercises would lose nothing by comparison with the best drilled Corps in the Union. The whole under the command of Capt. J. J. Lucas, Grand Marshall, assisted by Messrs. T. Tupper, Jr., and J. D. Wylie.

The compliment was a handsome and generous tribute from our gallant and noble young Palmetto's, and was highly appreciated and felt, by every Tempercious and magnificent Hall of the South Carolina Institute, a large concourse of ladies and gentlemen were assembled and the interesting ceremonies witnessed with a degree of earnestness and enthusiasm which we have not seen excelled or equalled, for many a long long day.

After prayer by Bro. Jackson, acting Grand Chaplain, a noble and fraternal welcome was extended to the National Division by G. W. P. Townsend, whose words of earnestness and truth were warmly and enthusiastically seconded by every brother present. The response of M. W. P. Tilley, was the best of fort of the kind that we have listened to, and could only be properly appreciated by being heard.

Mr. Tilley is a strong man, not only in the councils of Temperance, but at home in his own political jurisdiction, occupying as he does, a most honorable and important official station under Her Majesty's Government, being Provincial Secretary of the Colonial Government of New Brunswick-"an active, leading, and influential citizen in political movements, and a most thorough, uncompromising, and distinguished advocate of Temperance."

The next ceremony was the presentation to the Na tional Division, of a beautiful Banner, prepared for the occasion, either by, or under the immediate supervision of Brother G. T. McKenzie, Grand Sentinel, and one of the best and most efficient working tem perance men in the State, who adds most harmoniously to his other qualifications as a temperance man, social qualities of the finest order. The description of the Panner presentation, and a description of the magnificent Banner itself, we can better give in the language of the Charleston Courier;

"The banner presents on the obverse the American Eagle, supporting a scroll, with the inscription—In hec signo vinces. Beneath is the triangle and the star of the order of Sons of Temperance, and the American ensign. Above, are fifteen stars arranged as double crescents-the field is blue and the borders enriched with gilt fringe and tasselling. On the reverse, is a very elegant and richly wrought wreath, embra-The wreath rises on either side from a large sheaf of wheat representing the great Northern and Middle growned above by a Cotton stalk, fit emblem of the South. The pine, the rose, the thistle, shanrock, olive, &c. are all introduced; and within the wreath not say that it was discharged in a fervid, impressive and forcible manner.

The reception devolved on Gen. S. F. Carey, of Ohio, a P. M. W. P., who reached our city yesterday morning in time to gratify the many expectant friends by discharging the grateful task that had been assigned him by the Committee of Arrangements. Gen. Carey apologised partially for the suddenness of his summons, but he had not spoken many minutes before he satisfied all that he comes from a region where off-hand shooting is part and parcel of every man's education. He is free and untrammeled in his orstory -running down tropes and figures in a lavish spirit that scorns all thoughts or fears of exhausting materials by its discursive rangings. To use an allowable figure we must characterize him as one of the most dexterous of orators, with the left hand, which he uses almost to the exclusion of its neighbor and heiping hand."

After the announcement of the proceedings for the afternoon and evening, by Judge O'Neall, the large and interested assembly was dismissed with a benediction by the M. W. Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Ryerson, of Canada West.

In the evening a most brilliant and large assemblage of ladies and citizens welcomed the speakers for the occasion by their cheerful presence, and contributed by this negative act alone much to the enjoyment and interest of the evening. Prayer was made by the venerable Dr. Curtis, of Limestone Springs, and the first speaker Rev. C. M. F. Deems, D. D., of North Carolina, and of the M. E. Church South, was intro. duced by M. W. P. Tilley, whose speech was, without exception, the best that we ever heard. We use the superlative here pretty strong: that is what we mean, but as we are afraid to trust ourself with a description of that speech, being somewhat ultra and zealous as some think, we are content to give the words of others to show that we are not alone in our admiration of this speech on the subject of temperance. From the same source we copy the following in reference to Dr. Deems' speech and that of Mr. Ryerson, of Canada West:

" His mark was set up high by the terms of the ntroduction given him, and by the reports that had reached many, and he fell not below it.

After a gracefully appropriate introduction, which arrested and conciliated attention, he proceeded to a discussion of the remedy for intemperance as a public social, and national evil.

The eloquent and impressive address of Dr. Deems occupied an hour and a half, and closed with a glowing portraiture of the glories and blessings awaiting he final triumph of the cause of temperance.

The band in the centre gallery favored the audience with "God save the Queen," in compliment to the next speaker announced-the Rev. J. E. Rveron, of Canada West. Of him, also, confident and exalted anticipations were entertained, and the brief address he delivered left no nearer disappointed.

Mr. Ryerson made, professedly, rather an excuse or not speaking, than a speech, and yet he showed himself a consummate orator in no ordinary or adven. titious sense of the term. He spoke as an American, and appealed to the sense of common duty and destiny, which should unite all Americans in the great noral and political field opened on this continent."

The second public meeting was held on Thursday evening, in the spacious and magnificent Hall of the South Carolina Institute, on which occasion Col. Buckley, of Kentucky, was introduced and delivered a stirring and eloquent address. A cotemporary de scribes him as a noble representative of the Western man-gallant and frank and noble in mien and stature. and honest, free and manly in utterance-a fine repre sentative of the popular oratory of the hustings in its best development of style and manner.

We have only time to announce the different speakers and give the leading topics upon which they dismen and speakers it is difficult to do all justice, for we are apt to have our favorites, and those who are eminently worthy of notice and commendation are of ten the very ones overlooked, but Col. Buckley will make his mark anywhere, and it will be hard to overlook him. He argued most successfully for the necessity of the heart as well as the mind being educated and properly cultured. He dwelt forcibly and eloquently upon the moral sublimity of a pure and rirtuous life, illustrating his positions by instances in our own history-that of Washington, and nearer nome, that of the moral worth and sublime purity of our own honored and beloved Calhoun. Col. Buckley occupied his hour in a manner worthy of his noble theme and honorable to the State of which he is a full-grown specimen, fit to rank among her best lead-

General Samuel F. Carcy of Onio was the acknowledged big our of the Convention: he is regarded. and justly too, among the most prominent and efficient orators in our country, and has been a most zealous missionary of prohibition in many States. No one who has ever heard him speak will question this for a moment. There are few men who exercise such a nowful control over their audiences as does Gen. Carey. We attempt not, to give a just idea of what we heard and saw. He is the best and most unanswerable advocate of the cause that we ever heard or expect to hear, and if there had been the shadow of a doubt upon our mind in regard to the justice and truth of our cause, it would all have vanished as quickly as the vanor before the rays of the sun.

Any man who can speak upon the trite and backneyed subject of Temperance for one hour and a half pefore a Charleston audience, and upon the mere intimation of closing, to be vociferously ordered to go on! go on ! accompanied by perfect storms of applause n our judgment can travel; we can say nothing more about him, for our enthusiasm for, and admiration of his genius, knows no limit, and for fear of making purself extravagant, we will close by simply stating that we have never heard a man that could approach nim either in style or matter. Could he stay a few weeks in our State, it would not be hard to predict

On Friday the Temperance Excursion up Cooper River, and around the Charleston Harbor, came off in style which has not been surpassed we imagine in many a long day, and we regret that our limits here preclude more than a general allusion to it. The whole affair passed off in a manner highly complimentary to the Committee of Arrangements, who have discharged their respective duties in a style which ould not be surpassed. The many and off-repeated expressions of satisfaction from our guests-the mem. bers of the National Division, is an earnest of this.

In the evening a public meeting, and the last, was held at the Hall of the Institute, and a large audience attested the interest which was felt in the cause. The speakers were Mr. Crowley, of Maryland; Mr. Renau, cing and incorporating emblems and symbols of all of Georgia; Rev. J. B. McFerrin, of Tennessee, and sections of our country, and of our national neighbors. Mr. Long of Virginia. All good speeches, but the concluding address by Gen. Carey took everything before it. He was called out by the crowd and alregion, and the Northwest of our country, and is though "not in the bills for the evening," showed him. self in the right place, as on former occasions
