The cotton factors of St. Louis have united in the following circular in the hope of influencing the growth of food products in the South the coming season. Sr. Louis, Mo., February 24, 1883.— To the Merchants, Farmers, and Tenants of the Cotton Belt: The South is now on the eve of planting another crop, and after ar experience of seventeen years it seems advisable that some change should be made in the manner of farming, and we call your careful attention to the following facts, which are offered with the sincers hope that the people will give

There is a cause for these troubles, and we, as cotton men, whose interest is closely identified with yours, believe we are in a position to note many of the cylis that exist, and offer, without presuming, the following suggestions: 1. The credit system, as at present in vogue throughout the South, is disastrous to the planters and tenants, forcing them to pay extravagant prices for supplies, and causing their crops to be forced into market with such rapidity and in such quantities as to break prices almost invariably below cost of production.

2. After noting for years the effect of large crops of cotton, we find that the over-production of this staple is the keynote to the situation, and we strongly advise all parties interested in the prosperity of the South to discourage the day. ty of the South to discourage the plan ting of a large acreage this year, and degrain, cattle and hogs, and give the balance of their time to the culture of cot-

This policy will bring good results in many ways; for instance, many small farmers, and large ones also, are so heavily in debt when their cotton is ready for sale that they are compelled to let it go, sie worth; while if they had supplies at home, produced, and not bought on credit, they could afford to hold their cotton until they felt justified in selling. The price of cotton today is fully 15 per cent. below the average of the past five years, while, on the other hand, corn is 33 per cent. and provisions 50 per cent. above the average. Thus are you losers both ways both ways.

With the production of enough provis ions on each farm, cotton would become a surplus, and soon the incubus of debt would be lifted from your people, and each year would record rapid strides in

Decreased production of cotton, and in-creased production of bread, meat and other necessaries will bring about a more prosperous condition of affairs for the South, and instead of sheriff sales to entisfy the mortgages that the poor laborers must now give, we would see poverty bamshed forever, and pienty would pour in upon you.

We ask that the merchants and playters of each State, by calling a conven-tion, or in some practicable manner agi-tate this question until the influence is felt throughout the entire oution belt. ?

Capt. Jones was well known and much esteemed thredgloot the county, where he had resided nearly the whole of his life. In November, 1861, he raised a company and volunteered its services 'for the war' bitween the States, and served throughout the war, having been captured by the enemy in 1864. After the war closed, he returned to his home, where he has been engaged in agricultural pursuits ever since. In 1880, he was appointed trial justice at Liberty Hill, and held that office at the time of his death.

(Republished by Request.) OLD TIMES IN CAMDEN.

PEN PICTURES OF THE PAST.

Prior to 1760, new enterprise, spirit ad lice were imparted to the Quaker settiement around Camden, by the arrival of the family of Kershaws from England. Cultivated and improved men, with some capital, they brought with them, or soon imported, improved labor. Cel. Joseph Kershaw, the head of the family then, and the fountain from which has flowed so much of excellence, honor and flowed so much of excellence, honor and usefulness to this community, was very successful and prosperous in business; laid out the town of Camden on his own lands, named it in honor of that noble whig, enlightened statesman, profound inter--Mr. Lamar Starke, of Columbia, died the old Testament, at 7½ p. m., same day. Charles Pratt, Lord thancellor of England, and Earl of Camdes. Col. Kerslaw introduced into this State the cultivation of wheat, and erected on Pine Tree Creek, just below the present town flouring mills, which soon not only supplied the vicinize with flour, but was sent to Charleston, and shipped in considerable quantities to the West Indies.

Kershaw who introduced the cultivation and manufacture of wheat. We confidently expect these descendants, in their turn, to achieve success. We cannot expect them to "strike oil," for that is out of their latitude and far from their bear-

Ings.
The Kershaws prospered greatly until the Revolution, when, being among the wealthiest of our people, they suffered terribly from the possession of this town and vicinage by Rawdon and Cornwallis. Their slaves were taken off and sent to the West Indies: their horses cattle. the West Indies; their horses, cattle. hogs, grain, etc., were appropriated and consumed; their mills were burned; and one of the brothers, Capt. Ely Kershaw, was sent a prisoner to Bermuda. Bu persecution and oppression failed to chili the patriotism of a family who have ever proved themselves good knights and true. A singular fatality has attended the name of Kershaw. Of the three antename of Kershaw. Of the three anteseendants in the male line living, save Col. Joseph Kershaw; and from him, in each generation, only one man of the name lived to bear its duties and wear its honors—but well did that one per-form his silotted task.

Col. Joseph Kershaw married Miss

Mathis, a sister of Samuel Mathis, "the first male born in Camden." and there fore, of course, our article on the Qua-kers and their descendants was in error in not including the descendants of the "Mathis family."

Col. Joseph Kershaw, the son of Col. Joseph Kershaw and the father of our distinguished fellow citizen, Gen. Joseph Brevard Kershaw, died about the year 1820. He was a member of Congress 1812-1814, but devoted his life mostly to private pursuits and to extricating his fathers's estate from the wreck of the Revolution and the result of a change from the cultivation of wheat to that of cotton, by which the mill interests of the section were destroyed; but he was universally beloved and esteemed and was very prominent as a citizen and a Mason. Our favorite ci Izen, Geu. Kershaw, i the only male of the name of his generation; and his son, Rev. John Kershaw, the only male of his. And in the fe.nale line, descendants of this noble family are married a daughter of Col. Joseph Kershaw. The descendants of that large family are few and none of the name now live here. Messrs. Henry K. Du-Bose and Edward C. DuBose, are the only members of that branch of the family living here. That eminent man and distinguished -The new flat for the Camden Ferry will probably be completed to-day. It is Alfred Brevard-and a daughter-Mrs. Benjamin T. Elmore; all cultivated and accomplished people. Edward and Eugene died in early manhood. Mr. and Mrs. Elmore moved to Columbia, and afterwards to Alabama. Dr. Alfred Bre-vard, an accomplished scholar and gentleman, died at comparatively early age, leaving quite a large and most interesting family, over the too early graves of most of whom many who read these sketches have sadly mourned. Of all Judge Brevard's descendants, in this third generation, but two remain with us.

Public spirit, enterprise and patriotism have ever been marked characteristics of this family. Col. Kershaw was of a Parish of the Church of England here. The church was located on the west of South Broad street, where the family burying ground is still kept up.

The ferry across the Wateres was chartered by Col. Kershaw and Mr. Samuel Wyley at the site of the present bridge; and Col. Kershaw, who owned the lands on the western branch, which descends to the Western Branch, which descends to the Perkins family, built a small town over there, "Westerham," which has shared the fate of many other projected cities. A few traces only have been visible "within the memory of the oldest inhabitant." The Revolution was obtained to the Church for in all almost as fatal to the Church, for in addition to the impoverished condition of the people, the Church of England was viewed with some prejudice by the pat-riot whigs, and it was a half century be-fore an Episcopal church again existed in Camden. We have devoted more space to this family than we can, in these sketches, devote to any other; but it may proper y be excused, as the success, the tone and prosperity of this community are more indebted to this than any other one family, as high as have here. ily, as high as have been the achieve mente of others. Time and opportunity were afforded the founders of the family office at Ridgeway? Two or three of our subscribers at that office have receive Tax Gazztz regularly. Will the postmaster look into the matter without forcing us to the necessity of making complaint to the department at Washington?

—It is given out that ladles will wear vests precisely like the gentlemen's this summer. When a married man goes to bed, he will have to put a chalk mark on his vest, or next morning he may slip on his wife's and not discover his mistake until he inserts his thumb and foreaftinger in his right hand pocket for a pinch of finecut, and finds nothing but a piece of chewing-gum, and the stub of a soft black lead pencil. Then he will suddenly remember that there was a roll of the dollar greenbacks in the left hand pocket of hall year that is, if he is not an editor he will—and he will rush back home in Rarus' time.

In the private walks of life they have been most exemplary; in society, genial and accomplished; in patriotism, abread of the foremost; and its honors, nor time, nor change have diminished. At a bar where Brevard, Bianding, Mc-Willie, Mill, Withers, DeSauissure, &c., have wen honors, that family has furnished the poer of any; and a district which did its whole duty in the Revolution, in the war of 1812, in the Florida war and in the glorious Mexican campaign, and proudly cherishes the memory of all its heroes in those wars, can point to none of her sons with so high and just a pride as the representatives of the Kershaws in the late war.
