DEATH OF NAPOLEON.

The last act in the drama of the lives of great men is possessed of more than ordinary interest. That of Napoleon we have never seen alluded to, except so far as to describe his last moments, without any reference to his views of the future. We find in Campbell's Foreign Monthly Magazine, a short article from the (Br.) Evangelical Magazine, which contains many interesting observations of the maker of Empires on religious subjects. The article concludes as follows: "It may even be said that he 'confessed Christ before men.' In a familiar but solemn conversation he exclaimed, with the expressive accent and emphatic brevity which had an electric effect, 'I know men; and I tell you that Jesus was not a man. His religion is a self-existent mystery; and it proceeds from a mind not human. There is in it a deep peculiarity of character which has produced a succession of doctrines and maxims till then unknown. Jesus borrowed nothing from human knowledge. Only in himself is found completely the example or the imitation of his life. Neither was he a philosopher; for his proofs were miracles and his disciples from the very first adored him. In fact, science and philosophy are powerless to salvation; and the sole object of Jesus, in coming into the world, was to unveil the mysteries of heaven and the laws of mind. Alexander, Caesar, Charlemagne, and I, have founded empires; but on what have we rested the creations of our genius? Upon force. Only Jesus has founded an empire upon love; and, at this moment, millions of men would die for him. It was not a day or a battle that won the victory over the world for the Christian religion? No; it was a long war, a fight of three centuries, begun by the apostles, and concluded by their successors, and the flow of the Christian generations that followed. In that war all the kings and powers of the earth on one side; on the other side I see no army, but a mysterious force, and a few men scattered here and there through all parts of the world, and who had no rallying point but their faith in the mysteries of the cross. I die before my time, and my body will be put in the ground to become the food of worms. Such is the fate of the great Napoleon! What an abyss between my deep wretchedness and Christ's eternal kingdom, proclaimed, loved, adored, and spreading through the world! Was that dying? Was it not rather to live? The death of Christ is the death of God."

DARBY AND THE RAM.

"It was one of those days when the sun in its perpendicular altitude looks at two sides of the hedge at once—a lovely mid-summer day—when nature was laughing till her sides ached, and mother earth, in her gayest mood, was lavishing her promises and her smiles to her often ungrateful children, the lambs were skipping to and fro in their enclosed pastures, and the cows, with grave and matron aspects, were loling in the sun, and ruminating their already gathered repast—everything seemed happy except the shepherd Darby. Poor fellow! "A green and yellow melancholy," had settled on his family cheek; his grief he revealed not, but let "concealment, like a worm in the bud," pray upon his spirits; he stalked about the field like a ghost, or leaned upon his crook in silent despair. Lord Amplefield and Squire Buckthorn were riding past to dinner. "I wonder," said his lordship to the squire "what can be the matter with my shepherd Darby. He seems in a galloping consumption, and were I to lose him I would not see his like again for many a long day. He is the most honest, steady, careful creature in the world, and never told a lie in his life."

"Good! Why my lord do you really believe such nonsense?" "Decidedly I do. I know your opinion is not very favorable as to the moral character of our dependants, yet there are some among them not unworthy of trust."

"They now advanced nearer, and his lordship held up his whip as a signal, and ever bounded Darby. "Well, Darby, that shower we had last night served the pastures."

"It did my lord, and the cows will give a larger meal, and require milking earlier this evening, through means of it."

"Darby, bring over my favorite ram, that this gentleman may see it."

"Yes, my lord. Hallo, Sweeper, away for Ballface."

In a few minutes the dog hunted the ram up from the flock. "That's a clever turn my worthy, said the squire; 'there's half a crown to drink."

"Done!" said his lordship, and the squire set out on his life-making expedition. He soon ascertained the cause of Darby's melancholy. There had been a quarrel between him and the girl of his heart, the lovely Cautcheon. Pride prevented a reconciliation, though both would have given the world to be in each other's arms. To her the Squire bent his steps, succeeded in drawing out the secret that she loved Darby with a heart and a half, and then artfully upbraiding her unkindness in neglecting the "worthy young fellow," who was dying for her, contrived to inveigle her, by a series of falsehoods, into a plan to get reconciled to Darby, and while in the height of his happiness, to coax the ram from him. It succeeded next to admiration, and the laughing girl tripped home, leading the animal with a kerchief taken from her snowy bosom.

Darby was left now to his solitary reflections. The hour was rapidly approaching when his lordship usually took his round, and he would inevitably miss his favorite ram. What was to be done? To tell a lie appeared to his honest mind the very essence of degradation—to equivocate was meanness execrable—yet an excuse must be had! A sudden thought seized him—he resolved to see how a lie would look before he told it; and planted his crook in the field, and placing his hat on it, in order to personate himself, he retired a short distance and in the character of his lordship, hailed the effigy as follows:

"Good morning, Darby." "Good morning, my lord." "How are the flocks to day, Darby?" "Pretty fair, my lord."

"Darby, I don't see my favorite ram—where is he?" "Oh, my lord, he—he—he—he!" "He what, Darby?" "He was drowned—my—my lord."

"Darby if I did not know your general character for carefulness, I should feel exceedingly annoyed, but I presume it was an accident. Send the fat and hide up to the castle."

"That won't do," murmured Darby, slowly turning away. He resolved to try again. "Good morning, Darby." "Good morning, my lord."

"Are the flocks well to day, Darby?" "Bravely, my lord."

"And my ram Darby, where is he?" "My lord, he—he—he—he!" "Is there any thing wrong? tell me at once."

"He was stolen, my lord."

"Stolen! stolen! I saw him this morning as I was riding past. When was he stolen?" "That won't do either," exclaimed the poor shepherd, as he turned away the second time. "Cruel, cruel Cautcheon!"

Something whispered to him. "Try if perhaps the TRUTH will do!" Fresh courage seemed to animate his desponding mind, and wheeling about, he commenced the colloquy, and coming to the usual interrogation "where's the ram," he dropped on his knees and exclaimed, "Oh! my lord, I had a falling out with my sweetheart, and she would not make it up with me unless I made her a present of your lordship's favorite ram. Discharge me my lord; do with me what you please, but I could not bring myself to tell your lordship a lie!"

"That will do!" shouted Darby, springing from his knees, and walking up and down with a feeling of honest exultation. He had scarcely time to compose himself when his lordship and the squire appeared. Darby on the usual interrogation being put, dropped on his knees, and told "the truth and nothing but the truth," and instead of seeing a frown gather on his lordship's countenance, he beheld him turn with a look of triumph towards the squire while he exclaimed, "An honest man's the noblest work of God."

THE ACADEMY BUILDINGS.

THE Cheraw Academical Society is now in debt about $1600. Since its establishment it has expended, for lots, buildings, and repairs, about $5000; besides large sums of money in making up to teachers from time to time deficiencies in their salaries, arising from inadequate receipts for tuition. Though the Society has heretofore received considerable aid from citizens and others not members; yet the principal burden and the whole responsibility (previous to last year) has always rested on those who were. The Society now consists of few in number; and at a meeting convened this day, it was resolved to sell the Academical Lots and Buildings for the purpose of paying the above debt; unless some measures are promptly adopted by the community to discharge the same. Most, perhaps all, the members of the Society are understood to be willing to co-operate with their fellow citizens in this matter; but they are not disposed to do it without their assistance. The 16th day of next month is fixed for determining upon the sale; unless, before that date, the people (with such arguments as satisfactory creditors) put their veto upon it. By order of the Academical Society, J. C. COIT. Cheraw, Thursday, 19th January 1843. 11

VINEGAR! VINEGAR!!

PURE Cider Vinegar, White Wine Do. For Sale by A. P. LACOSTE. July 12, 1842. 35

RIGHT ABOUT FACE!

I HEREBY give notice, with great reluctance, that I shall not, after the first day of January next, open a single running account in my Books, for any description of goods, except for Bagging, Rope and Twine, and for 90 days. Merchants and other citizens of the town, who may be disposed to order goods from my Stores, are informed, that their orders will be gratefully received, and promptly filled at low prices, upon the condition, that their bills may be presented in ten days, for payment. This course I am compelled to take, to meet my own engagements, and I hope will not give offence to any, for I find by experience, that it is much easier to sell goods, than to collect, and that accounts and notes be they ever so good, will not pay the debt of my contracting. As I shall sell goods for CASH, it is almost useless to say, that I shall sell very cheap. A. P. LACOSTE. Dec. 13th, 1842. 5

CREDIT GIVEN FOR WOOD.

TO THOSE Customers, who have paid me once a year for Wood, I tender my thanks, and shall be grateful to receive their orders, and shall not trouble them but once a year for a settlement. Those who are unwilling to settle once a year, or have not paid at all, must excuse me if I refuse to work for them. A. P. LACOSTE. Dec. 13, 1842. 5

THE PLANTER.

Devoted to Agriculture, Commerce, News, &c. THE above is the title of a Paper which is proposed to establish at the capital of South Carolina—J. J. DeBose, editor—DeBose & Johnston, publishers—weekly, and twice a week during the session of the Legislature—on an imperial sheet—price $2 50 a year.

THE PLANTER will be the organ of the State Agricultural Society and its auxiliaries; but will not be devoted exclusively to Agriculture. The attention will be paid to general news and the state of the Columbia and Charleston markets, which the growing trade and consequence of our town require, and the proceedings of the Legislature reported in a condensed form. The editor will endeavor, by giving a due portion of his columns to literature, morals, science, &c., to make his publication a pleasant and useful family paper. Payment to be made on the receipt of the first No. to the publishers or any of their agents in the different Districts. 9

A CARD.

DR. JOHN LYNCH having permanently located himself in the town of Cheraw, respectfully tenders his professional services to the citizens of this place and the adjoining country. He hopes by a diligent attention to his profession, to receive a liberal share of public patronage. He can always be found at his father's (Conlaw Lynch) residence on Market Street. Cheraw, July 1st. 1842. 34

THE AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.

A. B. ALLEN & R. L. ALLEN, Editors—SAXTON & MILES, Publishers, 205 Broadway, New York. THE American Agriculturist is published monthly, for one year, at the price of ONE DOLLAR per annum, payable always in advance; SIX COPIES will be sent for FIVE DOLLARS; THIRTEEN COPIES FOR TEN DOLLARS. Editors who will give this card a conspicuous insertion, with some of the notices which follow, will be entitled to receive one year's subscription gratis, on sending their paper containing such notice to this office. Agricultural Societies that wish to give this work as a premium, will be entitled to a discount of twenty-five per cent, or handsonely-bound volumes at the subscription price.

This work will be devoted to the various pursuits of the agriculturist throughout every section of the United States, and will contain THE LATEST INTELLIGENCE ON EVERY BRANCH OF THEIR OCCUPATION; the best seeds; modes of tillage; character of soils; improved implements; and the various and best BREEDS OF CATTLE, HORSES, SHEEP and SWINE. Each number consists of THIRTY-TWO PAGES, double column, royal octavo, and the work will be embellished with CUTS, illustrating the different subjects on which it treats—making a volume of 384 LARGE PAGES yearly for the low price of ONE DOLLAR.

Seven numbers of this work have already been published, and as it is stereotyped, subscribers may commence with the back or present numbers at their option. From the general testimony in favor of the manner in which this paper has been conducted, from the public press and the most experienced Farmers and Planters throughout the country, there is every reason to believe it will prove universally acceptable, and remunerative to its readers ten-fold for their subscription. No man at this time who aspires to the noble occupation of an American agriculturist, should be without one or more periodicals, exclusively devoted to his interests.

Each number consists of one sheet and will be subject to newspaper postage only. Postmasters are permitted by law to enclose money for subscription free of postage. Below are a few of the many favorable notices of the above work, from the American Press: "The Agriculturist appears to be edited with that kind of ability and practical knowledge, that must place it among the foremost rank with similar periodicals in our country."—Wayne County Record, Indiana.

"The number we have is rich in ably written and well selected articles. The Editors are well known to the readers of agricultural periodicals as able writers, and will, we are sure, greatly benefit the country by their present undertaking."—The Union, Raleigh, N. Carolina.

"The Agriculturist is well filled with well written, well digested, and highly practical articles on subjects pertaining to rural industry. The conductors of the work, the Messrs. Allen, are not only well versed in the practical operations of cultivating the soil, and breeding domestic animals to the best advantage, but they wield ready and graphic pens for the discussion of these important subjects in a style both clear and attractive. Regarding the science of agriculture and gardening, as by far the most important study that engages the attention of the American people, we cannot withhold our earnest commendation of the 'American Agriculturist' to the great farming interests of the country."—Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, New York.

"The American Agriculturist is printed in the city of New York, in 32 neat, medium octavo pages, and illustrated with engravings, and ably edited by the Messrs. Allen, who are well and favorably known to the agricultural community, as practical and enlightened farmers."—Republican Banner, Nashville, Tenn.

"We have seen the first number, and it bids fair to be a highly valuable paper to any section of the Union. The editors are celebrated throughout the United States for their enterprise in the stock line, as well as in other matters tending to improve the condition of our husbandry."—South Western Farmer, Raymond, Miss.

"I have examined the three first numbers, and from the specimens which they afford, as well as from a personal acquaintance with the editors, I have formed a very favorable opinion as to the usefulness of this work, and the ability with which it will be conducted. It is intended to be a national work."—Judge Beatty, of Washington, Kentucky.

"The editors are well known as practical breeders and agriculturists, and as gifted writers. They have the aid of some of the most able writers in the country, and it can hardly fail to take its place at once in the front rank among the best publications of its class."—Spirit of the Times, New York.

HOLIDAY GIFT FOR 1843. CHRISTIAN FATHER'S PRESENT TO HIS FAMILY.

The most Splendidly Illustrated and Cheapest Work on the American Continent; CONTAINING MORE THAN FIVE HUNDRED ENGRAVINGS Entirely New and Original, Designed and Executed by the most Eminent Artists of England and America.—Cost of Preparing the Work, $5000.—PRICE, 2, 50.

BIBLE BIOGRAPHY, Or, THE LIVES AND CHARACTERS OF THE PRINCIPAL PERSONAGES

Recorded in the Sacred Writings; practically adapted to the Instruction of Youth and Private Families; for the use of an Appendix, containing Thirty Dissertations on the Opinions of Divine Revelation, from Timpon's Key to the Bible; being a complete Summary of Biblical Knowledge, carefully condensed and compiled from Scott, Doddridge, Gill, Patrick, Adam Clarke, Pool, Louth, Horne, Wall, Stowe, Robinson, and other Eminent Writers on the Scriptures.—Robert Sears, Editor.—Embellished with several hundred Engravings on Wood, illustrating of Scripture Scenes, Manners, Customs, &c.

The demand for this work is unprecedented, and orders are pouring in from all parts of the United States. It is called "A CHRISTIAN FATHER'S PRESENT TO HIS FAMILY," and has received the unqualified recommendation of all the leading papers, both political and religious. No mere advertisement, however, can give the reader any idea of its beauty and value—it must be seen to be admired, and read to be duly appreciated. The annexed extracts from the "Opinions of the Public Press" will satisfy all of the intrinsic excellence of this SLENDID GEM IN MODERN LITERATURE—the like of which has never appeared in this or any other country. A careful perusal of the following "Recommendations" will justify us in making use of such strong language in favor of so useful a work:

"A work of great attraction and value. This volume must find a welcome at every fireside throughout the country; its contents are an interesting as they are important and instructive; and the judicious and talented author has here contrived to present us with one of the most attractive, and at the same time useful books, that have appeared this side of the Atlantic. We trust the public will reward its enterprising publisher."—U. S. Literary Advertiser, for June, 1842.

"This volume, we should say, well deserves to be regarded as the Christian Father's present to his family." Several hundred very good wood engravings enliven its narratives, and illustrate its solemn truths to the understanding and feelings of the young; and from the numerous testimonials which accompany the volume, we should say, it may safely be surrendered to their hands."—Magnolia.

"This work is an attractive one, not only for the very numerous neat engravings which pervade it, but from the interesting and useful matter which it comprises. This work is in large octavo, highly decorated, and handsomely bound, and will no doubt meet with a popular demand."—Chris. Intelligencer.

"The engravings, from new and original designs, are well executed. The design of the work is excellent; and we cheerfully recommend it to the notice of our readers."—New World.

"This is a very valuable, cheap and convenient book. The public will soon find it one of the books they must have. May the publisher supply the land with many ten thousands."—N. Y. Tribune.

"This is the name of a valuable work just published in the city of New York. It is most justly called 'A CHRISTIAN FATHER'S PRESENT TO HIS FAMILY.' The five hundred engravings are executed by the first American Artists, after pictures of the most celebrated Painters. If this work meets with a circulation commensurate with its merits, it will be found in every dwelling in the Union."—Boston Times.

"This is one of the most finely illustrated and beautifully ornamented volumes ever issued from the press. The typography is clear and plain, the paper and binding handsome, while the golden figures give it a rich and tasteful appearance. The literary portion of the work is well written, and the whole illustrated with several hundred new and elegant engravings. Mr. Sears has made a popular book—conferred a great favor upon the young, and indeed merits the patronage and thanks of all classes."—Boston American Traveller.

"We cheerfully commend the book to the readers of the Advocate, as a work of much merit, furnished at a very cheap rate."—Baptist Advocate.

"Altogether it is one of the most elegant works of the season, and must prove the most useful ever issued from the American press."—Boston Transcript.

"We cordially recommend this excellent book."—Boston Daily Mail.

"We cheerfully recommend it to the notice of every Christian parent, as a beautiful gift to present to his family."—Boston Mercantile Journal.

"An elegant work of five hundred pages, and containing about five hundred engravings. The contents of the volume appear to be sound, judicious and interesting."—Boston Daily Bee.

"Persons in the country would do well to procure a subscription book, and obtain at once the names of all their friends and acquaintances, at least, as subscribers to this invaluable literary gem. Will each agent or friend who comply with this request, have the kindness to inform the publisher how many copies will be wanted for his neighborhood by mail (post paid), as soon as possible? It is his intention to spare neither pains nor expense to introduce this entirely new and original volume into every family throughout the Union. Agents—respectable men—wanted in every town and village throughout the United States. Address the subscriber, post paid, without which no letter will be taken from the office. ROBERT SEARS, Publisher, 132 Nassau-street, New-York.

The above work will be found one of the most useful and popular works ever published, for entertaining men to undertake the sale of in all our principal cities and towns. All Postmasters are requested to act as agents. To Publishers of Papers throughout the United States, and British North America. Newspapers or Magazines, copying the above entire without any alteration or abridgement (including this notice), and giving it twelve insertions, shall receive a copy of the work, (subject to their order), by sending direct to the publisher. Will promoters of newspapers throughout the country, when it is convenient, act as Agents, and receive subscriptions? The most liberal per centage given. Agents wanted throughout the Southern States for the sale of the Bible Biography. Address the subscriber, post paid. SILAS HOWE, 52 Broad-street, Charleston, S. C. October, 1842. 2 121
