

ridiculous humbuggery of their "Log Cabins" and "Cider Barrels," we imagine the meeting must have been quite a grand affair. We judge, so, from the following extract of a letter under date of the 17th inst. from a gentleman on the spot. He says—"The great HARRISON meeting came off on Thursday last, and I think I speak within the bounds of truth, when I say that the number of people congregated in this city, amounted to 14,000, the finest looking men I ever saw. Not the least disorder occurred, nor was there any drunken men to be seen in the streets. Such an assemblage of such men never met South of Mason and Dixon's line. Although political opponents, I am proud to say that I am highly gratified to find they can muster so many gentlemen; and only wish they were engaged in a better cause than that of foisting an old federalist of the Black Cockade stamp to the presidency of this glorious republic. We do not, however, by any means despair, but are determined, with renewed energy, to put our shoulders to the wheel, and if possible, give them a Waterloo defeat in October next."

EGG PLANT.—We found on our table, the other day, an enormous Egg Plant, from the garden of Mr. C. H. DAVIS, placed there we suppose, for the purpose of having it immortalized. It measured twenty-seven inches in circumference.

GENERAL HARRISON.

We continue this week, "our brief extracts," in relation to the character of the venerable whig candidate for the presidency. The following extract is from Niles' Register, published in November, 1813, 5th volume, page 172, and shows the value which the Common Council of New York, placed on the services of General HARRISON, when they were fresh in their minds, as compared with those of DECATUR and PERRY.

"At a special meeting of the Common Council of New York, a motion was made to present Major General Harrison with a sword and the freedom of the city, as the like had been bestowed on Decatur, Perry, and others. But the motion was NEGATIVED—Ayes 5—NOES 12."

THUNDER STORM.—The Columbia papers give an account of a severe thunder storm which visited that city on Thursday night the 20th inst. Three buildings were struck by lightning, Mr. S. BOATWRIGHT's, the Theological Seminary, and the Arsenal. No material damage was done however to any of the buildings. At the Arsenal the fluid passed down the rod until within 4 1-2 or 5 feet of the ground and then broke through a brick wall about 20 inches thick, at one of the staples and coursed along the different rows of Cannon, passing from one gun to another until it reached the end of the row, when it glided along the floor and out of the door. One gun carriage was shattered a little, but no serious damage was done. We are indebted to the Temperance Advocate for the particulars we have noted.

THE LADY'S BOOK.—The September number of this interesting publication is on our table, with rather more than its usual promptness. It is embellished with a large and beautiful engraving on steel of the "Schuylkill Water Works," besides two pages of Music.

The Rev. Messrs. Fielding and Constantine, with their wives sailed from this port yesterday, in the packet ship Saluda, bound to Africa. Messrs. Fielding and Constantine go out under the patronage of the Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, and we understand are destined to labor in the valley of the Niger. Previous to their departure a large number of persons assembled on board the ship and religious services appropriate to the occasion were performed by the Rev. Mr. Breed and the Rev. Mr. Hume.—Norfolk Beacon, 4th inst.

FOR THE JOURNAL.

Mr. Editor: As the time is rapidly approaching when the people will be called upon to elect some suitable individual to represent them in the next Congress, it has occurred to a number of your fellow citizens that it would not be amiss to enlarge the field for election, by adding to the nomination already before the public. In doing so we explicitly disclaim any desire to do violence to individual feeling.

We would therefore take the liberty of nominating JOHN G. BOWMAN Esq. as a gentleman in every respect qualified. Whatever objections may have been once entertained to Mr. Bowman, it is believed they do not operate at this time. He is now, and has been for some time, in the ranks of the great Democratic party, lending us, as far as his opportunities allow, the aid of his powerful talent, in upholding the principles and policy of the present Administration. We, in common with many others, regard Mr. Bowman as having eminent claims upon the confidence of the District,—such as we know the people will not overlook. His talents are admitted by all parties to be of the highest order, and to these, he unites the accomplishments of the scholar and the orator—qualifications which will enable him triumphantly to meet the most potent artillery of the modern manufactory falsely vaunted whig.

We have not consulted Mr. Bowman, and consequently do not know whether he will permit his name to be used, and, in thus nominating him, we wish it to be distinctly understood that we do so from no objections to our present, faithful, and Patriotic Representative. On the contrary, we shall support him if Mr. Bowman should not be in the field.

MANY VOTERS.

FOR THE JOURNAL.

Mr. Editor:—The following translation of the beautiful and appropriate address to the DeKalb Rifle Guards, which appeared in your last Journal, is by request submitted for insertion.

TO THE DEKALB RIFLE GUARDS.

For you, ye gallant Volunteers,
Apollo animates my strain,
Ye, whom pure sentiment endears,
Are join'd by the fraternal chain;
Your patriotic chivalry,
Forms for you a puissant tie;
The law which binds your generous hearts,
Is that respect which history.

To every patriot's memory,
A sacred tribute impart.

Glory inhuman bravely shun,
Such as when victors' conquests show
The fields their brutal courage won,
With direst terror and with woe.
But trophies of true glory's mood,
As pure in thought as brave in deed,
Which gives to earth repose,
Is that to which your zeal aspires,
That which heaven itself inspires;
And makes of men true heroes.

When freedom claims in wars alarms,
Protection of his sacred laws
Defended by the God of Arms,
Win honor in the cause!
See! along your high career,
Your type of valor, thro' 'mid air,
The Eagle near the solar fires!
Think of your great national strife:
The Fathers of your civic life;
And be worthy of your sire!

Guard well in sacred trust
The fame of that so pure a mind
Whose valor and whose wisdom must
Prove models to mankind:
To the sage and hero may
Mankind grateful homage pay
That their benefactors claim;
Let the hallow'd name, august,
Of Washington the great and just,
Light your souls with glory's flame!

On DeKalb and LaFayette,
Friends, good and true of Liberty,
Who fir'd with noble ardor, met
To aid your nation's destiny,
Honors, for deeds of arms, await;
Their lovely virtues imitate
Which ornament the skies,
Laurels entwine their brows elate:
Their names your feasts will consecrate
And be precious in your eyes!

LAW BLANKS

NEATLY PRINTED AND FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

JUST PUBLISHED,

By P. THORNTON, and for sale at the Post Office, Camden, a new work called the

TEARNS GARDENER

And Receipt Book.

IN several departments, all bound together, making a volume of 300 pages, arranged in the following manner:—First department commencing with Directions for Gardening, containing Instructions for Working a Kitchen Garden, alphabetically arranged.

As the author has devoted much of his time and attention to gardening for upward of twenty years past, and has taken pains to make the instructions plain and simple; and this being his third edition on gardening, he has made some additions and alterations—so that no family, who is fond of the comforts of a good garden, should be without a copy. The time for sowing and planting is calculated to answer for Camden and the adjacent country for thirty or forty miles; but in a southerly and westerly direction it may answer double the distance.

The second department contains about one hundred and twenty receipts in the cooking department, selected from some of the best late authors.

The third department contains upward of one hundred receipts in the household department, and other domestic matters, very useful, with an index.

The fourth department contains upward of one hundred valuable receipts on the cure and prevention of diseases incident to mankind, carefully selected from the most approved public works.

The fifth department contains nearly one hundred articles on farrery, and the diseases incident to horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, &c., selected from the best late works. The whole made plain and simple, and accompanied with an index, alphabetically arranged.

As the author was several months carefully selecting his receipts and matter, and has published no article but such as he thinks will be valuable and useful, he is confident the work will prove satisfactory to all, and meet with great demand.

TERMS.—The work is printed on the paper, and handsomely bound; and sold at $1 per copy. To persons who will take fifty copies or more, they may be had for seventy-five cents each, by applying to the subscriber. The books will be carefully packed, and sent agreeable to any direction.
