the National Guard and the Government will also find fuel in the inflammable materials on all sides by which the parties are surrounded. The jealousy in the department towards a central Jacobinical authority in Paris is another circumstance which causes disquietude and alarm, as among the signs of an approaching domestic struggle.

It is to be apprehended, in fact, that if the approaching party struggles in France should lead to scenes of violence and acts of bloodshed, the cause of general liberty would be irrecoverable damaged throughout Europe. The effect of such a re-action would not only throw back the cause of political improvement, but afford pretexts to crowned heads for circumscribing within carrow limits popular privileges. Even in France anarchial excesses will lead to another military despotism, to escape the horrors of of civil convulsion. Every thing appears to turn, therefore, on the character of events in France for the next three mo: ths. She is on the verge of great internal perils. On the elections to the Constituent Assembly every thing depends. If the moderate republicans acquire a majority in that assembly, there remains some hope of a tranquil settlement of the questions which are now agitating the public mind to its profoundest depths. But the indications in favour of this result are very unpropiti ous. The purpose of the violent republicans in wishing the elections delayed, is by political organization to inflauence the elections in the Department and by ren lering the machinery of clubs more complete within Paris, to control the deliberations of the Constituent A-ssembly .-It is impossible to say what may take place in the short interval before the elections. The violent republicans, under the lead of LEDRU ROLLIN, have forced the Provisional Government to a modification, in the most important particulars, of the policy of its administration. It the latter should give way all is lost for France and for the general cause of liberty throughout

From the European Times, March 25th.

Various rumors are actively circulated by our cotemporaries respecting certain changes which are meditated in the English cabinet. Without giving undue or premature credit to these reports, we may remark that it has been long felt that no essential difference of opinion exists between the members of Lord John Rusel's administration and the Leading friends around Sir Robert Peel. The animosity, amounting to personal rancor, which still prevails against the ex premier amongst a large section of the House of Commons, must perhaps for a long period of the Right Hon. Baronet from taking office, even supposing he felt so inclined. But as the events passing around us press upon the conviction of every reflecting man daily increasing necessity for a strong and united administration, we should rejoice to see the fusion of the most capable and intelligent supporters of Sir Robert Peel into the Present cabinet. The administrative talents of Sir James Graham, and his great influence in the House of Commons, point out naturally his admission in to the new ministry. Lord Lincoln was at first offered a seat in the cabinet; but perhaps the personage who would most probably represent Sir Robert Peel in the new arrangement would he his activeally, Mr. Cardwell. LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET Report for the Week ending March 17. The perchases of Cotton in this market are confined to the smallest quantity that will keep the mills going at their reduced consumption; and of course, light as the stock now is, and likely to be some time, prices are still giving way. We have to report this week a reduction of 1-8d to 1.4d on all kinds of American. Su. rate but slightly changed: Long stapled also very heavy of sale, and lower in price. In the meantime the stocks of manufactured goods and yarns are becoming completely exhausted in every quarter and therefore at no distant day we may probably be overtaken by a demand and a stream of business active and continued in proportion to our long depression. Such, at least, is frequently the sort of turn that attends these cases of extreme revulsion and backward movemen s. 300 Ammerican have been taken on Speculation, and 700 American for Export. The sales for the week amount to 23,365 bales. Geo. Holt & Co.

Report for the week ending March 24. No change for the better has taken place in our market, and it was almost impossible to aggravate the gloom and distrust existing during the whole of last week. We, therefore, can scarcely make any addition to the unfavorable report were obliged to render in our circular of Friday last. And as the same cause which produced the disastrous state of things then in existence, and which were brought under consideration, continue to hear upon our proceedings, we can have no improvement to report. So far as prices go we are worse, being about 1 8d. lower in all qualities of American; long stapled of every kind, including Egyptians, Brazils, &c. are freely offered at easier rates. Sea Island are perhaps somewhat more in demad at former prices, and East India of the better sorts have undergone little or no diminution in value. But vesterdy, and this morning also, we abserve less depression and little more hope and confidence than at any period during the last fortnight; and we may add that within the last hour or two there is altogether a more cheerful market, and less Cotton on sale. 600 America have theen taken on speculation, and 1860 America, 70 Surat, 100 Pernames, and 59 Maranham, for export. - Sales of the week, 24,780 Geo. the Skin and impurities of the Blood. It is composed of four plants indigenous to the vicinity of Charleston, S. C. The plants have been gathe ed with great care by on experienced Botanist and the medicine is now prepared in a scientific manner, and by a new chemical process of extracting the medicinal virtues of plants. Most medicines of this class are administered indiscriminate. ly without regard to disease, restriction in food, diet or exercise and are so mixed up and disguised that their active principles are rendered entirely inert or are destroyed. Not so this " edicine. It contains the curative virtues of the four plants without disguising their natural taste. I would now inform those who desire to use this medicine that it would be entirely useless to do so without strictly adhering to the directions.

It is not pretended that this medicine shall cure all diseaes that humanity is heir to, but a few of

The plants from which this Medicine is compounded have been known to and used by the Aborgines of the Southern States long before the first settlement of the country. The first settlers acquired from the Indians in their immediate vicinity a knowledge of their very extraordinary medicinal propert es and made use of them, separate or compounded with others combined. The recipe from which this medicine is compounded has been used by a respectable family for more than fifty years with great success, in treating all diseases of the most distressing ones, it will be found, will yield like magic to its restorative energies. I know that the idea of a new medicine to come intocompetition with the many preparations of Sarsaparilla and other alterative medicines, may seem to many presumptuous, or to say the least absurd. The proprietor places it before the public to stand or fall upon its own merits.
