TREATING AT ELECTIONS.

The citizens of Richland District are tired of this practice, as may be seen by reference to the proceedings of a meeting held in Columbia, on Monday the 4th instant, "to devise some plan to suppress the odious and demoralizing practice of treating at elections." Well may the people rise up en masse to put down this abominable custom, suited better to a barbarian age than to that of science and civilization. Apart from our predilections in the temperance cause, we are opposed to the practice on principle of morality, sound policy, and economy; believing that treating at elections tends to corrupt our people, and to destroy the purity and blessings of our glorious ballot-box privileges, more than all other causes combined. The very thing itself is opposed to law and order, and ought to be stopped by the strong arm of law, if nothing else can effect the object. At the ballot box all men are equal: the vote deposited there by the rich man will count the same as the poor man's vote. But how many men are led up to vote, and cheated out of that vote. Destroy a man's faculties by drenching him with liquor, and is he a fit and proper one to exercise this right? He has no capacity to discriminate, and is unfit to decide in the choice of men for office. The following preamble and resolution were unanimously adopted at the meeting in Columbia, having been advocated by Col. D. J. McCord, in the strongest terms; also by other gentlemen of the bar.

Whereas, The elections in Richland have assumed such a character that some action is required on the part of the citizens to preserve the morals of the District, and restore the purity of the elective franchise. Therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of thirty be appointed to consider of and recommend suitable measures to reform the conduct of our elections and promote the peace and character of our District, the said committee to report through the newspapers of Columbia, within the space of one month.

Upon this committee, gentlemen of the highest character and respectability were appointed. We hope they may "devise some plan by which the morals of the District may be preserved, and the purity of the elective franchise restored." What will Ker-haw do likewise!

THE BURNING OF THE ST. JOHN.

We have received from the hands of a friend a copy of the Alabama Journal, containing an account of the burning of the Steamer O-line St. John, about 4 miles above Bridgeport, on the Alabama River, having left Mobile on the evening of the 4th, containing the melancholy intelligence of the loss of many of her passengers, and among others, of our fellow-townsmen, James R. McKain and his mother:

THE ST. JOHN.—The burning of the St. John with the accompanying loss of life, is the most disastrous casualty which has occurred on our waters since the bursting of the boilers of the Gen. Franklin. The scenes, say the passengers, were terrific. The ladies and children, it is said, might have been saved from the stern of the boat, except from the hasty and insubordinate conduct of some of the crew, in taking of the yawl some distance down the stream, where they landed. As in their haste, they had neglected to take the oars, the Captain when he found the yawl, had much difficulty in reaching the boat, and could not do so in time to save the ladies. He, however, rescued six persons who were clinging to the rudder. The engineer remained at his post in the midst of the fire, although severely burned, until the boat struck the shore; he then had the precaution to raise the safety valve and stop the engine, which saved many who were floating, from being swept into the current and drowned. Mr. Carson was lost in endeavoring to save his son. Judge Lindley was not seen after the boat landed. The ladies remained at the stern of the boat until their clothing was nearly consumed, and were then forced to spring into the river.

A passenger described to us the instantaneous spread of the flame, "as rapid as fire in a dry shuck-pen or a dry grass prairie"—in three minutes the cabin had fallen in.

The register of passengers was lost. We are furnished, however, by the Clerk of the boat with a list of the casualties, as far as ascertained. Lost.—Mrs. Hall, and daughter, (supposed of Augusta, Ga.; Mrs. Vaughan, Miss Vaughan, Mrs. McKain, Mrs. Haley, Mrs. Wright, and one or two others; Messrs. McKain, of South Carolina, T. B. Carson and son, of Dallas co., Judge Lindsay, of Mobile; Thomas Stephens (printer), of Camden Ala., four others names unknown; Hugh Hughes, 2d Mate; Peter, (steward); Easter, (Chambermaid); 2d Cook; and eight negroes.

SAVED.

All the crew with the exception of the 2d Mate.

Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.

WASHINGTON, March 7, 1850.

The interest felt in Mr. Webster's course on the great question of the day drew to the capital, at an early hour this morning, a vast crowd. The ladies obtained possession of the chamber before the hour of meeting, and of course were not dislodged from their seats, though some of the Senators were. Among the eminent persons without the bar were the British minister and Gen. James Hamilton. The Senators and the whole of the vast and brilliant auditory were profoundly attentive to Mr. Webster's speech, which occupied about three hours and a half.

The speech was admirably adapted to promote a liberal and rational sentiment at the North on the territorial and slavery question, and to expose some of the errors and fallacies in the views of the modern South—and to bring the two sections together upon terms of liberal compromise—not by repudiating any principle, but by acknowledging and carrying into effect well established principles.

Mr. Webster has got as far as expected, and further than most of his Northern friends wished in concessions, as they deem them, to the South. But I do not consider either those he proposes which may be properly considered as concession on either point. He gives to both sections their just and Constitutional due.

To the South he offers; first, the execution, in good faith, of the compact made by the terms of the annexation of Texas; the rigid enforcement of the stipulations for the surrender of fugitive slaves; while at the same time, he rebukes the abolition agitation, and utterly rejects the Wilmot proviso.

In the North, he claims nothing but this—that California and New Mexico—the whole country acquired from Mexico—shall be, what God and nature have destined it for, non-slaveholding territory. He simply asks that human law and human folly shall not interfere to contravene or to strengthen the acts of God. Of course he referred only to African slavery—not to predial serfdom.

His broad ground is that the character of every foot of land belonging to the Union is already fixed—as respects the question of slaveholding or non-slaveholding territory—by irrevocable law.

Mr. Calhoun, who was an attentive listener, expressed his gratification at some portion of Mr. Webster's speech. He differed with him as to the question whether States could secede, and some historical points.

The exact difference between them I will state hereafter. As I alluded to some startling information from France, I will mention that from private and authentic sources it is known that Louis Napoleon has fallen into a condition of helpless imbecility, both mental and physical. He has been persuaded by a committee of leaders of parties to abdicate. He will consent to renounce his authority in favor of the restoration of the monarchy, in the person of the Duke of Orléans, with a reservation in favor of the Count de Paris.

IMPORTANT TO STEAMBOAT OWNERS.—A very important decision was given lately by Judge Strawbridge, fixing the responsibility of damages accruing to cotton by exposure to the weather.

A suit was brought by the steamer Concordia against a commission house of New Orleans for amount of freight on a lot of cotton shipped on said boat—bill of lading signed in good order. The cotton was landed upon the levee in wet weather, and exposed there for several days, and finally proved damaged. Defendants offered bill of damages as an offset to freight bill. The testimony showed the cotton to have been shipped in a storm of rain, with the banks of the river very muddy, and to have been landed in bad weather, and no damages to have occurred on the boat.

The Judge decided that the boat was not responsible for the damages, not being liable for the weather, not being liable for the effect of weather upon the cotton, particularly after it had been left on the levee, with notice to the consignees, constituted a delivery, and the responsibility at the boat then ceased. The Judge, in strong terms, upon the manner in which cotton was often shipped in rain and mud, and exposed for many days on the levee at the city, and expressed his surprise that more suits of a similar nature were not brought. He decided that boats had the right to go back their bills of lading, and show the actual condition of the articles shipped.

A Physician's Remedy

For affections of the Lungs, Shortness of the Breath, &c. &c. &c. Sussex co., N. J. Nov. 8, 1847. Dr. S. W. Fowle.—Dear Sir: I have been induced in consequence of the benefits received from your medicine, to add my testimony in favor of its extraordinary healing properties. Having been afflicted for several months with a severe lung disease, under which I labored with shortness of breath, and great "cough weakness," I was recommended by a Physician of H. Clinton, N. J., to try Dr. Wista's Balsam of Wild Cherry, which not only gave me relief, but restored my failing strength, and imparted new life and energy to my system. I can therefore cheerfully recommend to all afflicted with lung disease, to try this Balsam of Wild Cherry.

Yours, &c. THEODORE J. ALLEN

This world is indeed a world of pain, disease and death, and were it not for the improvements constantly taking place in the medical science, which tend to mitigate these sufferings, life would almost cease to be a blessing. That class of our citizens who are suffering with Weak Backs, Rheumatism, Gout, &c., should lose no time in making use of the celebrated "Jew Davis' or Hebræy Plaster," which is literally sweeping this class of diseases from the land.

The restoring influence of Dr. Osmond's India Chologogue upon constitutions impaired and injured by a residence in bilious climates, is one of its most valuable qualities. There are many constitutions which become gradually undermined by unusual causes without even a day's actual confinement. In such cases the Chologogue acts like a charm—the yellow complexion, loss of appetite, languor, weariness, and depression of spirits, with other unpleasant symptoms which render life a burden—all yield to this remedy if only faithfully used according to the directions of the pamphlet which accompanies each volume.

VARIED COLLECTION OF PIECES, ORIGINAL AND SELECTED,

Which they are happy to say, have been most flatteringly approved of by the "lovers of music," in most of the cities and towns in the U. States and the Canada.

For particulars, please notice the Programme of the evening's performance.
Tickets to be had at the Post Office and at the door.

Should the Æolians be detained by inclement weather or any unforeseen circumstances, due notice will be given of their performance on their arrival, by the distribution of their small Concert Bills.
The following recommendatory notice (which we copy as one of the many) from one of the leading journals of the day, describing the character of the Æolian Minstrels' Concert, we insert for the perusal of the public:
"Those who are fond of vocal and instrumental music—who like something rich, soul-stirring, sentimental, grave, and at intervals remarkably laughable and humorous, will be delighted to witness the performances of the Æolians, who have performed five nights in this place within the week past, before a large and respectable audience, and who received, as they richly merited, the unbounded applause of Christian, Jew and Gentile. There is nothing in the whole performance offensive to the most refined or fastidious taste, and the more you hear them the greater your anxiety to hear them again."

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RANAWAY or stolen, from my residence, on Sawney's creek, Kershaw District, on Saturday night last, the 2d of March, a negro man named LEE, and his wife MARTHA. Lee is about 35 years of age, black, stout-built, 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, a plausible, intelligent fellow. Martha about 33 years of age, light brown complexion, about 4 feet 1 or 2 inches high, easy spoken, with one of her upper teeth broken off. They carried with them all their clothing, &c., which, from its quantity, leads me to suppose they must have been aided in their escape. I will give fifty dollars for proof to conviction that they were carried off by white man, or fifteen dollars if they are lodged in jail, so I can get them.

Beauty Soon Fades

This is too true. Not only personal attractions, but all things beautiful, are at the mercy of Time. But, though beauty must fade at last, there is no reason why it should fade prematurely. No one who has a beautiful complexion should allow themselves to look old and faded before their time. They should therefore pay proper attention to the subject, and discarding all injurious preparations, washes, and soaps, use only JULES HAEL'S NYMPH SOAP, or EAU DIVINE DE VENUS, (in a liquid state,) which will keep the skin beautifully fair, smooth, and healthy; or if the skin is discolored, it will totally eradicate all pimples, blotches, freckles, sunburn, or other eruptions, allaying all inflammation, and imparting to it a radiant whiteness. Many preparations for the skin are said to be injurious in their effects. Jules Hael's Nymph Soap is not only perfectly harmless, but its medical properties are such that it cannot fail to effect a cure of all cutaneous diseases. No Nymph Soap is genuine without its name on the wrapper. Avoid all other articles of the same name. JULES HAEL, 120 Chestnut-st., Philadelphia.
