

2. They are more easily kept in repair, and yield a larger and more certain return to the stockholders.

3. Produce can be carried over them at least twenty-five per cent. cheaper than on railroads.

4. They are particularly adapted to the southern States, because of the abundance of timber here, and the character of the power used.

5. They accommodate a larger number of people, because they can be carried almost to every man's door, while railroads cannot.

6. They tend to sustain a local population, and build up a home market in every neighborhood which they penetrate.

To these I may add that plankroads are better adapted to an agricultural country, because they can be constructed and kept in repair by the planters themselves; and, because the planters can own them and manage them so as to make the transient travel pay the expense of carrying their own cotton to market, and also return a handsome interest besides.

I know, Messrs. Editors, that many of your country readers particularly, look upon every man who advocates the construction of plankroads as a brainless visionary. They contend

1. That the timber will decay so soon in this climate, that the road will be rendered worthless in a few years at most.

2. That the roads will be so narrow as to be perfectly useless for all practical purposes, especially where we have negro drivers.

3. That the planters will not travel upon them in consequence of the tolls charged; but give preference to the common roads.

4. That the country is not sufficiently densely populated to furnish either trade or travel enough to sustain them.

I will answer these objections in order.

1. It will take no more timber to build a plankroad than to lay the superstructure of a railroad, and it will last at least one-third longer upon the former than upon the latter. The objection in regard to the decay of timber, therefore, is much stronger against the railroad than against the plankroads. The weight is so immense, that to render the former safe for heavily laden cars, timbers have often to be thrown away before they are half decayed.— This would not be the case with plankroads. In the northern States the planks used are of hemlock—a soft, sappy wood—and yet they last some ten or twelve years. It is but fair to conclude that yellow pine will last as long at the South as the hemlock will at the North. If this be conceded, the question is settled, because, even in the least densely settled sections of New York these roads are paying from 25 to 40 per cent. upon the cost of their construction, after laying up a reserved fund sufficient to rebuild them every ten years.

2. If eight feet be to be too narrow for these roads at the South, it will be an easy matter, in consequence of the abundance of timber and the levelness of the country, to increase the width to twelve, or even sixteen feet, and still to restrict their cost within the sum paid for their construction at the North. Eight feet at the North, where the population is much more dense, is found to be quite ample. The road is so well graded, so well drained, and kept in such thorough order, that wagons can turn out at any point with perfect convenience.

3. That planters will not pay the tolls to enjoy the benefits of these roads, no sane man can believe. Nothing is plainer than that men pursue their interests, and planters are just as quick to discover their interest as any other men.

4. The idea that the country is not densely enough populated to sustain such a road is equally incorrect. The roads themselves will soon supply the necessary density of population. This has been pre-eminently the case with railroads and canals. The increased value of property along the Erie canal, was more than sufficient to pay for its construction, and this increase was occasioned by the demand brought about by the influx of population.

BLANDING.

The tolls contemplated would amount to the wear and tear of wagons, gear, &c. on the ordinary roads.

Fifty Thousand Persons

Die annually in England of Consumption. In the New England States, it is one in four or five. In Boston, probably, one in four. In the city of New York, sixty-seven died in two weeks in December of this disease. It is prevalent in the more northern latitudes, as Russia, Canada, and among the Alps of Switzerland, where the winters are long and severe, and there are fewer sudden changes.

No theory can be more welcome to the human mind than the one which establishes on good grounds the hope for prolonged existence, if the allegations of those who are at least entitled to veracity may be believed, there is a preventive and a remedy.

The great Author of Nature has provided us with a remedy for Consumption, and the disease leading thereto which are so fearfully common in our country! Has He left us to find relief from that fatal scourge by ransacking other lands? No, the best Nature's own remedy, left our hand. The Wild Cherry and the Pine, furnish us with a cure, where a cure is possible.

One of the most important discoveries of the age, in ameliorating the condition of this large class of suffering humanity, is

DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. Which has been before the public some ten years. This valuable medicine was first discovered and introduced in the year 1833, since which time its success has constantly increased the demand, until it has become one of, if not the most popular remedy for Consumption, in its incipient stage ever known.

Some Genuine unless signed L. H. WISTAR, on the wrapper. Sold in Camden by JAMES B. McKAIN. Wholesale by P. M. Cohen & Co., Charleston, and by Druggists generally throughout the State.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Lancaster Division, No. 36, Sons of Temperance, held on the evening of the 28th ult., the following preamble and resolutions were presented by Bro. Galluchat, and unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

"Whereas, it hath pleased the Almighty Disposer of events, in the inscrutable dispensation of his providence to remove from the earthly scene of his labors and usefulness, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of Lancaster Dist., James R. Massey, Esq., who, though not a member of our order, was nevertheless a long-tryed and faithful friend of the Temperance cause; and whereas, in the 'holy crusade' in which we are engaged, we recognize no 'sectarianism' in our ranks, but hail as brethren and fellow soldiers, all—of every name—who with us make battle against the common enemy,

Resolved 1st. That in the death of James R. Massey, the District has lost one of its brightest ornaments, and the Temperance cause an able, zealous and devoted advocate.

Resolved 2nd. That we sincerely and deeply sympathize with his bereaved family in this most afflictive dispensation of divine providence, and being sensible of the utter insufficiency of all human condolence in this their 'night of sorrow,' would fervently and devoutly commend them to the paternal care of Him who hath promised to be a 'husband to the widow, and a father to the fatherless.'

Resolved 3rd. That in token of our regard for the memory of the deceased, we wear the usual badge of mourning during the ensuing quarter.

Resolved 4th. That a copy of the above preamble and resolutions be forwarded to the family of the deceased, likewise to the Temperance Advocate and Camden Journal for publication.
