

POETRY.

"YET A LITTLE WHILE."

BY H. BONAR.

Beyond the smiling and the weeping, I shall be soon; Beyond the waking and the sleeping, Beyond the sowing and the reaping, I shall be soon.

Beyond the blooming and the fading, I shall be soon; Beyond the shining and the shading, Beyond the hoping and the dreading, I shall be soon.

AGRICULTURAL.

TREATMENT OF MILCH COWS.—I look upon a cow as similar to a steam boiler. No matter how good they may be, unless the boiler is supplied with water and good fuel, also well attended to, the supply of steam will be short, or it will be in proportion to the fuel and attention.

Another very important matter with cows is that they should be protected from storms and bad weather. They should be fed and kept under shelter when the nights are wet and inclement; this more particularly in the early season, when the cow is fresh and in full milk.

MACHINE FARMING.—We find in an agricultural exchange, an admirable illustration of what may be accomplished by the use of machines in farming. Mr. O. Dalrymple, of Minnesota, raised, this year, a crop of 42,500 bushels of wheat, on 1700 acres of land.

COMPLETELY "COWED."—Our friend, John L. Addison, meets us on the square, and asks us if we "know how to cow a steer." We put the two words, "cow" and "steer together (Is a steer a cow? A cow is not a steer), and take it for granted that our friend is in travail with a pun—that most horrid and unpardonable of all things. But not so; he has no such flagrant idea. He is talking good hard sense. He read some weeks ago a circulating newspaper paragraph about trimming the lower eyelashes of cattle to break them from jumping; and he has been trying the trick. He reports that he has had the out jumpiest steer (the phrase is ours, not his) that ever was; and that a few days ago he trimmed the jumper's lower lashes as an experiment, and that, ever since, the jumper has been completely "cowed"—scarcely creeping, let alone presuming to jump. A new wrinkle! and a useful one!

AN EFFECTUAL CURE FOR THE EAR ACHE.—Take a small piece of cotton batting cotton or wool, making a depression in the centre with the end of the finger, and fill it with as much ground pepper as will rest on a five cent piece, gather it into a ball and tie it up, dip the ball into sweet oil and insert it into the ear, covering the latter with cotton wool, and use a bandage or cap to retain it in its place. Almost instant relief will be experienced, and the application so gentle that an infant will not be injured by it, but experience relief as well as adults.

CHEAP VINEGAR.—A first rate vinegar may be made by the following cheap and simple process. Boil a pint of corn till about half done for three gallons. Put it into jars or jugs, and then fill them with hot water, sweetened with a pint of syrup—perhaps less would do. Set them in the sun, and in one or two weeks, it will be first rate vinegar. No one need buy a poor article when a good one can be made with so little trouble.

PEPPER.—Pepper is almost a universal condiment. Black pepper irritates and inflames the coating of the stomach. Red pepper does not; it excites but does not irritate. Consequently it should be used instead of black pepper. It was known to the Romans, and has been used in the East Indies for time immemorial, as it corrects that flatulency which attends the large use of vegetable food. But to those weak, languid stomachs, it is manifold more healthy to use cayenne pepper at meals, than any form of wine, brandy or beer, that can be named, because it stimulates without the feaction of sleeping or debility.
