handsome appearance, when it can be afformost economical, first because they are substantial, and need but little attention or repair for a long time; and, second, because the land saved, in my opinion, with proper cultivation, will more than pay is great danger that it will be so overcome for the fence, as often as it will have to be by heat and fatigue as to be permanently inrenewed; and thirdly, because there is no trouble to keep them free from briars and ruined in this way. Only the most careful bushses. If however, plank fences are drivers should have charge of the team when thought too expensive for the time being, then I would, as the next best, if timber is and full work should not be expected for the plenty, make the Jefferson or stake and cap first fed days. If timber is plank sawed two inches thick and eight or are led to the spring at noon ? ten inches wide; cut the base four feet long The plank being cut the proper length, there should be three battens, one at each end, two of which should be long enough to receive a pin out side of the post. Much has been said and written in favor well where the farm is uniform in quality; but where a farm is undulating, having some and most fertile portions will bear more, and the less fertile will bear less cultivating, and " consequently should be more or less in grass. I therefore have not been able in my practice to adopt this system. .The next thing, after the farm is properly - arranged, is thorough plowing, This should be done with not less than three good horses or mules, first because less power than this will not be able to plow deep enough, nor can it be turned as well; and second, because it is otherwise more economical in saving time and labor, for three horse plows will do as much work in a given time, as three twohorse plows, thus saving the labor of one CAPITAL, hand and doing little work. Thorough plowing is indespensible to the improvement of the land, as well as for the producing of the present crop. By deep plowing the soil is deepened, less liable to wash away, to suffer from drought or excessive wet, as the water will quickly soak away from the root of the plant and yet be retained in the ground to be supplied when needed in a succeeding drought. It is not only necessary to plow deep and thorough, but the ground should be thoroughly pulverized before the seed is deposited ; so that the root of the plant in search of nourishment may have opportunity to draw a little from every particle with which it comes in contact. which it cannot do, if the land is hard and cloddy. 'To accomplish this, replowing, thorough harrowing, and rolling is of the greatest advantage. This is the method I adopted in the commencement of my farming, operations, and is to some extent the secret of my success. When I commenced farming, my first object was to improve my farm, and the accumulation of property was entirely

But it is often the case that the farmer's ded. This, with a bucket, may easily be set in the wagon and taken to the field ; and the team should be permitted to drink at least once every of the five field system, and it may do very half day, and oftener if the weather is warm. # Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous, and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a
