THE VILLAGE CHURCH .- It should not Sook like a bara or a storehouse. It should be a building, the very sight of which would cause devout feelings in the breast. A well-carved cross should point to heaven'; massive paneled doors should impress the visitor with the solemnity of the place into which he is entering; stained glass should throw a mystic light athwart the aisle; pulpip altar ceiling and galleries should be ornament ed with figurative mouldings, and the columns that support the gallerier, and the balusters that rail them in should be of classic patterns. Any congregation wishing such a church should send their orders for finishing material to Mr. P. P. MR. EDITOR: As no juvenile matematician has sent you a solution of your poeticomathematical puzzle published on the 6th inst., I send you the following. I am no poet; excuse prose. The puzzle may be solved somewhat in the same way the Chinese philosopher solved the enclosed, which was published some months ago, as I send it to you. Perhaps some of your legal friends can say whether or not the Chinaman was right .-But to your puzzle. Suppose that the suitor for the lovely May brings one basketful of apples to the alter. Let us add to it one apple; then the share of the porteress will be half a basket and half an apple, kaving half a basket and half an apple. Next of this latter Sensechal gets one-half or one-fourth basket and one-fourth an apple, leaving the same quantity of which the maid gets onehalf or one-eighth basket and one-eighth an apple; leaving finally for lovely May one apple. Summing up, we find that the suitor has disposed of 1, 1, 1 of a basketful, and basketful and apple. It is evident, therefore, that 1% apples is equal to & of a basketful, or that the basket contained fifteen ap-

A Chinaman died, leaving his property by will to his three sons as follows: To Hum Hum, the eldest, one half thereof; to Nu Pin. his second son, one-third thereof; and to Ding Bat, his youngest, one-ninth thereof. When the property was inventoried, it was found to consist of nothing more or less than seventeen elephants; and it puzzled these three heirs how to divide the property according to the terms of the will without chopping up the seventeen elephants, and thereby seriously impairing their value. Finally they applied to a wise neighbor, Sum Punk, for advice. Sum Punk had an elephant of his own. He drove it into the yard with the seventeen and said, "Now, we will suppose that your father left these elighteen elephants. Hum Hum, take your half and depart." So Hum Hum took nine elephants and traveled. "Now, Nu Pin," said the wise man, "take your third and git." So Nu Pin took six elephants and left. "Now, Ding Bat," said Sum Punk, "take your ninth and be gone." And Ding Bat took two elephants and absquatulated. Then Sum Punk took his own elephant and drove home again.

Query-Was the property divided according to the will?

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST'S DAY-MASONbe present and deliver a lecture upon Masoury. Bishopville Lodge, No. 104, our nearest neighbor, had been invited to participate with us in the celebration, and everything was done to make the occasion one of of the session of the Presbyterian church, pose of the lecture, a competent choir ob-becoming honors. Bro. Bruns, Crand Master, and Bro. J. B. Kershaw, Deputy Grand Master, arrived on Saturday night, the one from Charleston and the other from Lancaster, so that Kershaw Lodge was enabled to have with them the two highest officers of the Grand Lodge. At eleven o'clock A. M. the Lodges assembled at the Lodge room and Bres. Bruns and Kershaw were received in due form .-After attending to certain business, the Lodge was closed and the procession formed, Bro. E. M. Boykin acting as marshal. The procession moved up Broad to DeKalb st's., thence to the Presbyterian Churchwhere the ranks opened and the brethren entered the church in reversed order, as is customary, the organ pealing forth a march. Having seated themselves and an ode was sung by

Master of Kershaw Lodge, then introduced Bro. Bruns, the orator of day. In a quiet yet impressive manner, Bro. Bruns commenced his oration. He commented upon the extreme age of Masonry, claiming that it had existed for a longer period of time than any order known among men : since its foundations great nations had risen to power only to sink into oblivion, while Masonry yet lives and increases until she numbers her High Priests by thousands and her votaries by millions. Masonry was universal, known wherever man dwelt. It was first only operative, but now it has exanded into a grand speculative science. We point with pride to the great works of our N. Y. operative beethren, as manifested in the pyramids of Egypt, the grand pillars, monuments and temples of the East, and to our silent though beneficent labors as bestowed upon worthy objects of charity and the teachings of friendship, morality and brother-

With much other learning and under a great many beautiful figures, Bro. Bruns de-Daily, Tri-Weekly or Weekly Charleston picted in glowing colors the harmony sym metry and the vast attractions which are to be found by the student in Masonry.

He closed with a beautiful and fouching tribute to the ladies, who though, as he said, were debarred entrance into our mysteries, yet have the proud satisfaction of knowing that they reigned supreme in our hearts .--After the oration, the choir sung another ode with sine effect, and the Chaplaia having offered prayer, the procession was reformed, the organ playing a march. Having reached the hall, the brethren were dismissed until 8 o'clock, P. M. when a regular meeting was held for the dispatch of busi-

At 3 o'clock the fraternity could be seen gathering in considerable numbers about the Kershaw House; soon afterwards dinner being announced the craft sat down to an elegant feast, to which ample justice was done.

After the removal of the cloth, the following sentiments were given and responded to. The Day we Celebrate-Dear to every Masonie heart. May its each recurring anniversary find us better and brighter Masons in addition of 1, 1, 1 and 1 apple, making 1 after the similitude of its patron saint. Responded to by Bro. John R. Shaw.

The Orator of the Day-A distinguished ornament of the craft. May blessings attend him. Responded to Ly Bro. P. S. Bruns.

The Grand Lodge of S. C .-- We are proud of its record, and elecerfully obey its mandates. Responded to by Bro. W. J. Gerald. Masonry-A perennial plant; age increases its beauty and developes its strength. Responded to by Rev. Bro. A. J. Stokes.

Kershaw Lodge, No. 29-May we continue a band of friends, among whom no contention should ever exist, but that noble contention, or rather emulation, of who can best work and best agree. Responded to by Bro. J. R. Goodale.

Woman-The first and best of God's gifts to man; no society of human origin guards and protects her more sacredly than ours. Responded to by Bro. W. L. DePass.

South Carolina-Honored in the past and dear to us in her misfortunes. May her future be bright and prosperous. Responded to by Bro. T. H. Clarke.

Charleston-The "City by the Sea," distinguished are her sons in the records of the craft. Responded to by Bro. R. S. Bruns. Many were the volunteer toasts and sentiments, songs, stories, &c., which caused two or three hours to glide away very pleasantly. As the sindows of night approached, the fraternisy, with many cordial greetings, dispersed after a day of thorough enjoyment. Resolutions were adopted by the Lodge on Monday night, thanking Bro. Bruns for his oration, and the ladies and gentlemen who conducted the music for their excellent per-

Then come two mountain pictures, "View in the Surenen Pass, Switzerland," and "The Loffler Peak, Tyrol," and another full-page illustration, "A Shipwreck on the Coast of Dieppe," after T. Weber. From John S. Davis we have "Blowing Hot and Cold." a charming glimpse of child-life, to which the engraver has not done full justice; and from C. E. THE ALDINE possesses one advantage as regards its Literature, which no other magazine can claim. The feature of the July number is Mr. W. L. Alden's 'After the Comet." It claims to be a lecture read before the New York Historical Society in 1932, to be a veritable record of a great catastrophe that befel the earth sixty years before. We smile at the notion, of course, but as we read on the verisimilitude of this record, and its circumstantiality of details, puzzle and startle us. Dr. Wm. H. Tutt: Dear Sir-In my young days I was rather wild, and become the victim of a leathseme disease. I was treated by an emineut physician, and thought I was cured. After moving to this State I was horrified at finding that the disease was making its appearance again, in a secondary form in my month and on different parts of my body. I also became afflicted with severe Rheumatism. I employed different physicians, and used various patent medicines for months, all to no purpose. What The Graphic is among English | . A PITIFUE CONDITION.—It is a sad thing to pass-through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of lauguer and debility. They complain of no specific disease; they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure. In nine cases out of the ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the enwaste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food, every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now, what does common sense sugges under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterward into a more pitiable condition than over (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant were resorted to,) be radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given.
