

on in the South of Ireland, and especially in the County of Wick and County Clare, under the supervision of unfeeling landlords. It was stated in a copy of the "Sanctuary and Clare" one thousand houses had been demolished, and the poor tenants were left upon the world to survive or perish, as chance might direct, in the midst of a winter, within the space of a few weeks. A later number of the same paper says that three hundred have since been added to the melancholy list. The very week before the America sailed, twenty three families in Kilrush—comprising more than one hundred human beings, many of them helpless infants and aged persons—were expelled from their homes, which were leveled with the earth by a "wrecking party" under the direction of the landlord, and substituted "in the name of a God of mercy" says the Dispatch, "will no one put a stop to those deeds?" The same paper has the following: "Over one hundred human beings have been cast out on the world's bleak common, from the estate of Sir William Fitzgerald, at Lisconnor. The houses are tumbled, and the unfortunate people are squatted by the roadside in huts. They were under-tenants to a middleman named Sheehan, who was ejected for non-payment of rent."

OUR RAIL ROAD.—The Camden Branch is now finished up to the crossing of the Charleston road, three and a half miles below Camden. We are authorized to state that cotton will be received by the Company at that point, and that freight directed to Boykin's Turn-Out will be delivered there, provided the owner gives notice to the agent at the Turn Out that waggon will be in readiness to receive it at such time as said agent may appoint. [Camden Journal].

Read the following voluntary tribute to WISTAR'S BALSAM, from the Kinderhook N. Y. Sentinel, dated July 31, 1845. "HOPE NEVER DIES." The extraordinary virtues of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, in the cure of pulmonary complaints have been attested by so many persons, that he who doubts its efficacy must be a truthfully sceptic. A remarkable cure of Consumption has recently been effected by this medicine in the town of Chatham, in this County, and which was related to us by Dr. Herrick, an eminent physician of that town, to whom we have permission to refer. A young lady who had long labored under an affection of the lungs, and who had been under the care of several physicians without experiencing any relief, was considered by her friends as beyond the reach of medicine, and she was informed by her medical attendant that she must die. All her own premonitions, also, pointed to the grave. Fortunately, she was induced to send to the Kinderhook Bookstore for a bottle of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. As a last resort in her critical situation. Before its contents were exhausted, the young lady experienced great relief, and two more bottles were successively procured and administered. She is now happy in the restoration of health, and blesses the day when she first resorted to the use of this healing Balsam.
