secure office, state and federal. It was not difficult for these men, controling as they did every office in the territory, federal or otherwise, to drum up a few thousand votes in places like San Francisco, Monterey, and San Jose, in favor of a convention and the constitution. We have conversed with many, very many persons from California, and have never yet seen a solitary individual who voted for the constitution, or a few members of the convention to form it. And the view we have here presented of the proceeding is in perfect accordance with all the reliable information we can gather from that quarter.

[Montgomery Advertiser.

SLAVES IN CALIFORNIA.—The Natchez Free Trader, says that slavery can be profitably employed in California. It adduces the following instances:

A gentleman from Adams county had two slaves with him there, and having been truly successful and secured as much of the precious dust as he wanted, he brought back the slaves with him. So well had they done for him that he was offered two hundred a month for each of them, if he would leve them behind. This he refused, as he did not wish to leave his faithful slaves under the care of those who might not treat them as he would.

Gen. Parmenas Briscoe, the father of the famous Briscoe Bill, of quo warrant against the swindling Mississippi banks, has gone to California, with probably the largest slave force that has ever been taken there by one owner. His energy and enterprise will, we doubt not, settle the question, and Gen. Briscoe is but one of the large number of Mississippi planters who intended to test the value of slave labor in mining.
