COTTON MARKET.

Charleston, Oct. 18, 1853. The transactions to-day were to some 625 Tales, extremes ranging from 8 to 10 3-4c. The market was depressed and prices were very irregular.

Frost.

During the past week we have been visited by several pretty sharp frosts. The effect is perceptible upon pota to vines.

Religious Revivals.

Our exchanges have come to us for some time passed, freighted with notices of religious revivals in different parts of this State and Georgia, Sumterville has had a share in the blessing and the protracted meeting of the Methodist Episcopal congregation, which we noticed three weeks ago, only adjourned on Thursday last, after adding over fifty members to the church, and a large number to the list of professing christians. Let the good work go on.

Temperance Lecture.

We had the pleasure on Thursday evening last, of listening to an able, and eloquent address on the subject of Temperance, delivered in the Hall of the Sons, of Temperance in this place by W. R. HUNTER, Esqr. of Charleston, and formerly of Darlington. Mr. HUNTER is an excellent speaker and we hope this is not the last time he will favor us with his presence. While upon this subject it would be well to say that we are informed by several gentlemen of the order in this place that Judge O'NEALL is sustained by them in the position he took in visiting the "Worlds Temperance Convention," at New York. We believe no one attaches any blame to the Judge for attending the Convention; it was only a regret with some, after the meeting of that body and its character made known, that South Carolina was represented at all.

Large Cotton Stalk.

We have received from Mrs. WARN-ER MACON of this place, a limb from a Cotton stalk growing in her garden. The boles are larger than any we have ever seen and numbers thirty on the limb before us. We are sorry that this cannot be taken as a specimen of the erop in the district, which from an average one.

Homicide.

A man by the name of MEREDITH WELCH was lodged on monday in the Sumterville iail charged with kill ing Robert L. McELVEEN in Lower Salem on the evening of the 15th inst. As the case will undergo judicial tic cheers. investiga ion at the next term of the Suster Court, in the absence of any satisfactory, statement of the affair, we forbear further comment.

Coiton Market.

At the commencement of the sea son, we encouraged our farmers to hope for and anticipate a good and remunerating price for their cotton and nothing has since occurred to change our views. Recent accounts from the large cotton growing regions of the far West, represent the crop, as far short of that of last year and here at home there will be undoubtedly a great falling off from the bright anticipations formed in July, and August, and one would naturely suppose that such a state of affairs would produce an upward tendency in the market, and are astonished to see that on the contrary there has been a slight decline, and depression. This is certainly owing to the uncertain state of European politics, and the probability of a war between Russia and Turkey. But this cannot long continue, and if these powers must fight, we see no reason why it should affect the price of cotton except by increasing the demand, for in the advent of a general war we shall certainly look for heavy demands from the manufacturing countries, who would doubtless prepare early against the probabilities of an embargo or blockade. There are several causes, which we may prove at present depressing to the cotton market and not the least of these, is the failure of the grain crop in England and the tightness, of the money market in several of our large cities. These we hope and believe to be only ten porary and still say to planters, hold on.

Some sixty odd feet of the Bridge over Brunswick River, belonging to nah; R. E. Coke, of Alabama, and the Wilmington & Manchester Rail Rufus Fish, of Montgomery, Alabama. Road, were destroyed by an accidental fire on Friday evening last. The injury will soon be repaired. Loss pro-bly $2,500.

5th Regiment Cavalry.

On last Friday our citizens had an opportunity of witnessing one of the finest military parades, we have ever seen in this vicinity. The 5th Regiment, 3rd Brigade of Cavalry, composed of the following troops, Richland Light Dragoous, Captain Kershaw Troop, Capt. Jones.

Claremont Troop, Capt. WEBB. Clarendon Troop, Capt. Bennow. Free Trade and State Rights Troop, Lt. Brown.

Salem Troop, Capt. SHAW. Black River Troop, Capt. Davis., turned out in full numbers and in their well adjusted uniforms, with the chiv alrie spirit displayed, and fine horses formed an imposing and stirring scene. The evolutions, though to unpractised eyes scemingly difficult and intricate, were executed with a regularity and precision, we have seldom witnessed. and reflects great credit on Col. T. M. BAKER, who together with his field officers acted on this occasion for the first time in their respective commands and we are happy to state proved themselves "old soldiers." The Colonel we have always heard spoken of as an accomplished Cavalry officer, a reputation to which, it is no idle compliment to say he is justly entitled and which it would be difficult to find any one now to dispute. The two last troops named in our list have just been formed in this district and with their well chosen uniforms, and new equipments lent much to the brilliancy of the array. During the parade our attention was frequently called to the presence of a lit tle trooper among the Richland Light Dragoons, who, not more than thirteen years old, and mounted on a poney of corresponding size, by his soldiery bearing and correct movements attracted much attention and made

The Regiment was reviewed by His Excellency Governor MANNING and place and for the love we bear our Staff, and General Nelson and his readers give it them. It is "pay the staff, when being formed "en masse" the Governor in answer to a call addressed them in his usual pointed, eloquent, and forcible manner, calling upon officers and men to continue with unabated zeal, their efforts for the improvement of this arm of the militia service and urging the keeping up and maintainance of the present organization and militia system of the State, best accounts must fall far short of alluding also in the course of his remarks to the recent action of the ad- ney. ministration in the Koszta affair, which he approved of. His speech through out was listened to with marked attention, and owing to the Governor's excellent voice, not a word was lost

General Nelson, being next called upon, made an appropriate and happily chosen speech in which he returned his thanks to the regiment for the pa t they had taken in elevating him to his present rank of Brigadier GENERAL of Cavalry, expressing his pleasure and gratifica tion at w tnessing so fine a turn out of the troop and sold crlv parade, complimenting especially the old Claremont troop as the school from which he had drawn his first lessons in Cavalry tactics and which he now saw so largely augmented in numbers and im proved in appearance "a prominent lesson to the younger troops that age and beauty are not incomp., tible."

The day passed off without an accident and to the delight and pleas-

Giving Advice.

There is not a stronger duty inculcated upon mankind, than that of advising and counselling each other and though all would seem to be fond of, very few understand how, when, or where to give it. We once heard a distinguished gentleman of South Carolina say, that he never received advice from any one for gave it, yet few men were fonder of an interchange of opinions with all and he eagerly sought it on all occasions and would delight especially in counselling with the young. This is the true secret of giving advice and when carried out has ten-fold the effect of the common form; "you should do so and so or "I advise you to this and that." The reason is obvious; the person to be benefitted sees the cause of his acting as you would wish him his vanity is not burt by the idea that he is only a toole earrying out another views and frequently flatters himself that he owes to his own per ception the fruits of your suggestions for in humanity wheresoever found there is no stronger passion, than that of pride, or one that can be more easi ly acted upon. Again advice should never be out of place or season, but a careful selection of the time made, when the person to be advised desires or is in a nrood to receive it and be careful that it be to his private ear else you perchance again offend his vanity and your words fall upon a steeled heart and deaf turned ear. Another important point is, that you be well acquainted with the subject you would speak upon; this you cannot be with another man's business, as well as he is himself, so beware there. Beware also that you never advise a Doctor, to the remedies he should give least you you one day require his aid and he pays you for your arrogance, above all things, steer clear of editors, nor say unto them, "I think a little more original matter would benefit your paper &c. &c." this is dangerous ground and might bring you to a rusping ov er in his next editorial. There is tary spirit and interest in the drill as printer," Price of the Sumter Banner two dollars a year in advance. or three dollars at the expiration of that time. Now as many of our subscribers are among those who might be denominated "delinquent;" we would thank some of them in return for what we have show to advise us of some method of buying paper, Ink. oil and machinery, pay printers and keep the "Devil" quiet without mo-A Useful Machine.

A writer in the Charleston Mercury, over the signature of "Agricola," notices a new invention by a worthy eitithe ingenuity of the inventor and promises to be of good and general use in preparing our several Southern Staples for market and will prove of the utmost importance to the Rice, Cotton, and grain growing regions of the South and Southwest. By a machine con-tructed with a single shaft and counter shaft, rice is thrashed, ground, pounded, winnowed; cotton ginned and moted; and corn, wheat, rye, or other grain, ground; and these several processes may all be carried on together, at one and the same time, or separately at different times. A single horse power is sufficient to gin three bags of cotton, or to grind fifteen bushels of corn or other grain per day; a ty o horse power to pound four rounds | month, of rice per day; but, in case all the processes are carried on at the same time, a five horse power is necessary. Mr. Bossard is about applying, for letters patent, and has our warmest,

Dr. K. S. DARGAN, formerly of this district las, we are pleased to learn by the South Carolinian, made the necessary arrangements and will open his hotel at this Spring 1st November next. Dr. D. will be assisted by Mr. EUGENE DUNBEE formerly of Aiken, S. C., who is spoken of as a capable and popular, manager. The following is the Carolinian's description of the Spring. "The Orange Spring is sitren of fifty miles area. This gives it consumptives, as it is shut in from the a dry and uniform temperature. Col. F. J. Moses submitted the fol owing preamble and resolutions :

Whereas, since the order for this paade, Death has visited the ranks of our Regiment, and snatched from among us one endeared to all who knew him, y the noble and generous impulses which ever actuated his course, and although it is proper and becoming to bow with submission to this affecting dispensation of Providence, it is a mournful privilege to those who survive, to record the virtues of one who in life adorned the position which he pecupied as a citizen and officer.
