JOHN R. LOGAN, Editor.

WEDNESDAY, MAR. 15, 1854.

Persons wishing to see us upon business connected with the Paper or Law, can find us at any hour during the day, except from four to five in the afternoon, at our office, just back of Solomon's New Store. All business connected with the paper must be transacted with WILLIAM LEWIS, JOHN S. RICHARDSON, JR., or R. C. LOGAN. Mr. R. C. LOGAN, the Foreman of Banner Office, is our only authorized Agent to receive money and give receipts for the same, and may always be found at the Banner Office. All letters addressed to the Banner must be pre-paid to insure attention.

E. D. PUGH, Esq., is our duly authorized Agent to procure Advertisements and Subscribers for this paper, and to receive payments for the same and give receipts.

COTTON MARKET.

CHARLESTON, MARCH 14.
The sales to day amount to 833 bales the demand having been comparatively quiet—prices remained unchanged—excitements ranging from 7 7/8 to 10 1/4.

Mr. Boyce's Speech.

We were prevented until now by a press of business, from perusing this masterly speech upon the Tariff. Mr. Boyce has proven himself a sound thinker and a deep reasoner. The speech has won him golden opinions on all hands. It abounds with practical illustration and sober thought and conclusively proves that a high protective tariff decreases the revenue as well as the amount of imports, and Mr. Boyce takes the bold and broad ground of its being unconstitutional.

Census of Sumterville.

Persons liable to do street duty . . . 295.
Number of Whites . . . 772.

Free persons of Color . . . 5.
Number of Lots . . . 795.
Total Population . . . 1384.
Assessed value of Real Estate, $190,950.00.
The above Statistics afford food for much sober thought and would like to indulge ourselves with a few just now, but space and time forbid, and we leave each one to his own reflections.

The War.

In the East, every thing looks more and more like a general war. No naval or military action had occurred, but political events of the highest importance are being developed. In reply to the autograph letter of Louis Napoleon addressed to the President, the latter has declined all negotiations. France and England have entered into an agreement which amounts to a declaration of war and it is rumored that England has sent a final announcement to the Czar, naming a definite time, within which, he must evacuate the principalities.

Le Bas Bleu.

The above is the title of a neat and spirited little Monthly, which we find this week upon our table. It is edited by a corps of young Ladies connected with the Johnsonville Female University, located in Anderson District; and judging from its first issue, which evinces industry and talent, is destined to become quite a popular companion with many of the nights of Bachelordom despite their boasted aversion to "blue stockings." The Ladies of course will all be its warm friends. We bespeak for "Le Bas Bleu" the kind regard and well wishes of all of our readers and most heartily welcome the Ladies among the Knights of the Scissors.

Notice the Advertising Columns.

We call the attention of the public to the new and enticing endowments held out by our advertising patrons in this weeks issue. All who wish to know where to get good articles and get them at bargains will find it to their interest to watch the advertising columns. Why don't people notice these things more? It is a department of our papers, which receives too little attention for the good of the community. How are you to know the true value of the different articles you may wish unless you notice at what prices they are to be obtained? People, too, are not going to advertise for the mere fun of it. That is, they are not going to do it unless they have something more than common to offer. Look, then, at what they have to say. We should gladly call attention to each advertisement separately, this week, they are all so good, but it would occupy too much of our time and space. We say, however, they are all worthy of your attention. Look and Judge for yourselves.

Walker's Expedition.

Among the events of the day none stand in bolder relief, for unparalleled impudence and success, none more prominent than the filibustering expedition of Col. WALKER against Lower California. With scarce fifty men to back his intentions, he quietly galloped into the country known as Lower California, sets up a republic, is declared president, publishes proclamations, erects a government, army, and navy, and all out of fifty men and a small merchant sloop. But this is not all. The news of his success has spread, he is reinforced by some two hundred recruits, and caps the climax by annexing Sonora to his Republic.

lic. He may well write his motto, "Valeat res ludicra."

Railroads, Hotels, &c.

It is getting fashionable, if it is not already, for editors to write an account of their travels, whenever they take a run from their sanctuaries. We, however, do not profess to be very fashionable and would decline doing so, but that we are inclined to say a little about Railroads, Hotels, &c. Well, just a week ago, after partaking of a nice, hot breakfast, of shad, eggs, &c., at friend MITCHELL's hospitable Harlee House, we took our seat, with some seventy or eighty others, in the W. & M. cars, at peace with ourselves and all the rest of mankind, and showed off for Columbia. We had quite a pleasant ride of it. When we reached the Waterloo Swamp we were wide awake to see what damages the late freshet had done to our road. But, with the exception of a little bursting up of the platform, at the junction of the Camden Branch, we could scarcely tell that, a few days before, all was one vast sea of rushing waters in that now peaceful and quiet swamp. We had heard a great many persons complaining about their detention a few days before, and all seemed to agree that a new and higher and stronger trestle ought to be built across this swamp. We noticed and made inquiries about this matter and can state for the information of all interested, and to stop the mouths of the whining and complaining, that the W. & M. Rail Road Company has taken this matter in hand (and this, of itself, ought to be a sufficient guarantee that it will be well done) and are not only going to build a good trestle, but have actually begun one. The track is already being prepared—the pile driver is there, in the swamp, and they are only waiting to get a little good weather to have, as sailing over there eight or ten feet high in air. When we reached the Columbia and South Carolina Rail Road, there was some little delay in conveying the mail and baggage across the wash in that road, but it was soon over, and all on their way again—some to Charleston and some to Columbia. We were surprised to see how little damage the trestle of the South Carolina Rail Road had sustained, after hearing some of the exaggerated reports of the injury to this road, which had been in circulation a day or two before. When we were there, a week ago, the injury was almost repaired, and the day after the cars ran over as usual. We have made up our mind to put no faith in reports hereafter, especially in Rail Road reports. We sailed off and soon reached Columbia and then JANNEY'S comfortable quarters. We had heard a good deal about JANNEY'S Hotel, his politeness, &c., and we had experienced a little before, but the old fellow is growing better in his profession as he grows older, and we must admit that he has kept his promise and made his Hotel one of the very best in all the country. Call on him when you go to Columbia if you want good eating, clean and comfortable beds, attentive servants and a gentleman to deal with. We spent two or three very pleasant days with him—looked at the improvements going on in Columbia, and of course, among these, at the New State Capitol just being erected, and the preparations of Messrs. GLAZE & BOLTWEIGHT to remove the old buildings. Heard and talked of all we could of any interest—the prospect of PRESTON and ADAMS for the Senate—the business going on in court, &c. Heard that six or seven students had just been suspended for making fires in the campus and giving what we used to know as "the students smile," but it was thought they would all be taken back again very soon. And last but not least we established a correspondence in Columbia—got a good deal of business for our paper, and got back home safe and sound.

Exchanges.

THE CAROLINA TIMES.—This is the title of a new daily paper, published in Columbia by Messrs. GREENER & LAMOTTE, to which we would call the attention of the public. The enterprise and ability displayed by its conductors give assurance that it will take an early stand as a leading State journal.

WILMINGTON HERALD.

—We see that this excellent and ably conducted journal is now issued daily.

Our relations with Wilmington are becoming nearer and more interesting to us as the Wilmington and Manchester rail road progresses towards completion and we rejoice at this evidence of enterprise and prosperity in that place.

FILE AT AUGUSTA.

MARCH 12.
At half past seven o'clock on Saturday evening, a fire broke out in the stable of Mr. Butt, dray contractor, situated near the depot of the South Carolina Rail Road. The stable and barn, with the fodder, were destroyed, but the horses and mules saved. The loss was trifling. The building is owned by the South Carolina Rail Road Company.—Courier.

We learn from the Washington correspondence.

of the New York Herald that it is said a substitute will be offered to the Senate Nebraska bill, by a Southern democrat in the House. The substitute will consist of the bill as originally introduced into the Senate from the Territorial Committee. That bill is precisely the same as the Territorial bill of 1850. The object of this move is to do away with the abrogation, in express terms, of the Missouri compromise of 1820. Col. Benton will make a great speech against the bill. He declares he will not be confined to an hour and if the House insist upon his stopping at the conclusion of that period, he will finish his speech in the rotunda, or in the open air.—Standard.

The Gardiner Trial.

After many months consumed in vain attempts to solve the mystery in which this most remarkable case is wrapped, the jury came to a conclusion on the 3d instant, and much to the astonishment of the whole country returned a verdict against the defendant. Dr. Gardiner was immediately sentenced to ten years imprisonment in the penitentiary. Immediately after sentence was passed, the prisoner swallowed a dose of strychnine, and shortly after his arrival at the jail, he was seized with convulsions, which lasted several hours and ended in death.—Such is the sad denouement of one of the most remarkable cases on the criminal records of the country, affording a striking exemplification of the assertions, that although the deepest schemes of villainy may for a while withstand the combined power of legal acumen and government authority, justice will in the end be triumphant. The unfortunate culprit protested his innocence to the last. He has written a letter and placed it in the hands of his brother, who has thus far unaccountably absented himself. In pronouncing the sentence, Judge Crawford addressed the prisoner in the following words:—

"You have been convicted by a jury of your country of the crime of false swearing, touching the expenditure of public money, and in support of a claim against the United States. Perjury, in its nature and general sense, strikes at the root of all the securities which society is bound to extend to and maintain around the citizen. The particular offence charged upon you, and upon which the jury have passed, whether considered in reference to the complicated plot by which its objects were consummated, or to the amount of money obtained from the Treasury on the award of the commissioners appointed to decide upon the claims under the treaty with Mexico of February, 1848, is one of unusual enormity."

The Gardiner Fraud.

The press everywhere is calling for a full explanation of all who had anything to do with the late Gardiner fraud. The Richmond Enquirer says:—"The chief criminal in this great conspiracy against the public treasury has fearfully expiated his guilt, but his accomplices have not yet been brought to justice. Nobody believes that Gardner was the only agent in the fraud which enriched lawyers at the bar, and judges on the bench, while many contend that he was but the passive instrument of a more influential man. The plot should be traced in all its ramifications, and every guilty beneficiary of the Gardiner claim should be exposed, and he made to disgorge his ill-gotten gain. For the credit of the country, and the ends of justice, we trust the government will not rest content with the conviction of Gardner."

THE GARDINER FRAUD.—Preliminary measures, to recover the money.

Washington March 6th, 1854 Mr. PERKINS, Democrat of Louisiana, offered the following: Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary be instructed to inquire into the propriety of directing legal proceedings to recover any sum of money which may have been paid to any person out of the treasury on the claim of Dr. Gardiner, and Maers, under the commission which adjudicated the claims on Mexico, under the provisions of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo.

Mr. Cutting, democrat of New York, suggested the propriety of an amendment, authorizing the committee to send for persons and papers, in order that the committee may ascertain against whom suit shall be commenced.

Richard Court.

Contrary to general expectation, the Court adjourned on Saturday morning last. Judge Withers has been very assiduous in pushing forward business; and this, taken in connection with the continuance of two or three tedious cases, enabled him to discharge the juries on Saturday forenoon.

INTERESTING TO ADVERTISERS.

A case of interest to advertisers and to the press was decided in our court last Saturday. Suit was brought by Johnston & Cavis against J. C. Janney for recovery of payment for publishing an advertisement fifty one times. At the bottom of this advertisement was a notice to every paper in the State to copy to the amount of five dollars. It was contended by the defendant's counsel that this supplementary notice embraced the paper in which it first appeared. It was not proved that any order was given by the defendant as regards this paper, and it was contended by plaintiffs' counsel that as Mr. Janney was a subscriber to the paper, and therefore probably saw the advertisement every publication, it was his duty to order it out. The verdict was in favor of plaintiffs for the full amount of the account, thus settling the principle that advertisers must specify on the advertisement the number of insertions, or prove its being ordered out, else they will be liable, if subscribers, for the amount charged for every insertion un-til ordered out. For the plaintiff, J. D. Tradewell, esq., for defendant, Messrs. Black and Seymour.

Children of Citizens Born Abroad.

A writer in the American Law Register, for the current month, calls the attention of the public to the State of the law of the United States in reference to the citizenship of children born of citizen parents in a foreign country; and strongly urges the necessity for action by Congress, in order to relieve them from being left in the positions of aliens. He says: "It does not probably occur to the American families who are visiting Europe that their children born in a foreign country are aliens, and when they return home

Motley and Blackledge.

The Charleston Standard, of the 2d inst., has the following in relation to these criminals, who were condemned at the recent session of the Appeal Court in Charleston, for the cruel and inhuman murder of a slave in Colleton District. The prisoners suffered the extreme penalty of the law on Friday 3d inst., at Waterboro'.—"The persons, Thomas Motley and Wm. Blackledge, who were lately sentenced to receive the extreme penalty of the law, for the murder of a slave, were sent from the jail of this District on the evening before the last, to the tower of Waterboro'. They have influential friends, and were greatly apprehended, that an effort would be made to effect their rescue. To avoid the possibility of this, however, a detachment of the Charleston Light Dragoons were started at 5 o'clock, on Wednesday morning, to go by land to the place of execution, while detachments of Artillery and Infantry, having the prisoners in charge, left for the same place on Wednesday night. They proceeded on board the 'Col. Myers,' as far as Jacksonboro' 15 miles from Waterboro', and from that point were to have marched to the latter place where it is supposed they arrived at an early hour on yesterday."

"It is reported that even up to the hour of their starting the prisoner expressed a confident belief that they would be rescued or shot by their friends before they could be hung. The measures for the enforcement of the law are so well concerted and efficient, that evasion or escape is entirely impossible. The cruelties inflicted by these men upon the miserable victims of their lawless and unchristianlike conduct, as to be irreconcilable with any other supposition than that they were frenzied by intoxication. No defiance of this kind, however, was set up, so far as we have heard, and if it had been, would have had little effect in protecting them from the sentence of the law they had so grossly violated, or the stern and indignant sentiment which enforces it."

Yet this is indisputably the case; for it is not worth while to consider the only exception to this rule that exists under the laws of the United States, viz: the case of a child so born whose parents were citizens of the United States on or before the 14th of April, 1802."
