

TOUCHING TRAGEDY.
That realities the actual events of life are sometimes romantic as the dreams of fiction, and appeal more deeply to the feelings and sympathies, we do not doubt, and have besides a case in point to demonstrate the truth of the title idea.

An inquest was held yesterday upon the body of Mrs. Mariana Lowe, a beautiful German lady, aged 16 years, who had been married but a short time, and who, up to a few days previous to her death, had lived in apparent happiness with her husband. They resided on Thalia street, between Camp and Prytania, and not long after their marriage the exacting love of the wife became alarmed by strange reports of the conduct of her husband, which were confirmed by various circumstances coming under her own knowledge—his altered manner to wards her, his frequent absence from home, etc. Her jealous fears were awakened—she dreaded their confirmation, but she sought and obtained the truth; and that truth brought the conviction with it that she no longer enjoyed her husband's love; it carried despair to her soul. She learned that her husband had formed an illicit connection with a woman in their immediate neighborhood; and last Tuesday evening she traced him to the house and returned convinced of his guilt; she returned home and penned a letter addressed to him, in which she indulged in no reproaches, but expressed her affection for him and her grief at his faithlessness in the strongest terms, declaring that nothing was left her in the world worth living for, and that she would forgive his injustice and die. She then procured an ounce of laudanum from an adjoining drug store, swallowed it, and in a few moments was a corpse.

Edgefield Advertiser.

A CARD FROM FANNY FEES.—We find in the New York Tribune of Monday the following card from Fanny Fern:

"To the Editor of the New York Tribune:
Sir: A few days since a paragraph entitled "The Veteran Printer" was copied in the Tribune, in which occurred the following sentence:

"Three of his children, certainly, are widely known in the world of letters, viz. N. P. Willis, Mrs. Farrington, (Fanny Fern) and R. S. Willis."

So far as the foregoing statement refers to me, it is incorrect. With due reference to Mrs. Grundy and Paul Perry, Esq., I beg to state that several years since, by a sudden reverse of fortune, I was deprived of all my relatives.

MUSKET BULLETS.—A new musket bullet, invented by M. Charin, has been submitted to the English Government through the commander-in-chief, the inventor requesting a fair opportunity for experiment before the military authorities of that country. A Belgian military commission has made a report on the new projectile. Of its merits the report states, that the bullet requires only a fourth of the powder required for the common musket ball, will carry four times the usual distance, and that the cartridge is easily constructed by the soldier himself under all the usual circumstances of an ordinary campaign.

In the Vice-Chancellor's Court, England, Sir John Stewart recently decided that an infant born in New York, whose mother was an American, and her father a naturalized citizen of the United States, born in England, is a subject of the Crown of England. Naturalization, although it conferred the right of an American citizen upon the father, did not absolve him from his duties, or deprive him of his rights as a British subject.

ROADS.—The roads of a country are accurate and certain tests of the degree of its civilization. Their construction is one of the first indications of the emergence of a people from the savage state, and their improvement keeps pace with the advance of a nation in numbers, wealth, industry and science, of all which it is at once an element and an evidence.

Gilispie.

If you seek to make one rich, study not to increase his riches, but to diminish his desires.

Seneca.

If you regulate your desires according to the standard of nature, you will never be poor, if according to the standard of opinion you will never be rich.

Do our readers generally know the reason why the Fourth of March was chosen as the day of the inauguration of the President of the United States? It was selected because the fourth of March in every year, commencing from the first inauguration, cannot come on a Sunday for at least three hundred years.

Child mildly the erring— Kind language endears; Grief follows the sinful— Add not to their tears; Avoid with reproaches Fresh pain to bestow; The heart which is stricken Needs never a blow; Child mildly the erring— Jeer not at their fall; Child mildly the erring— Entreat them with care; Their natures are moral— They need no despair; We all have some frailty, We all are unwise And the grace that redeems us Must come from the skies."

$100 Reward.
RUNAWAY, on last Tuesday the 17th instant, my Boy RICHARD, a white mulatto, about five feet three or four inches high, tolerably stout built, about two years old with straight light colored hair, has a very sulky appearance, and answers quick and short when spoken to said boy has a short thick foot, his hands short and thick, chubby fingers. He had the scar of a blister on his forehead just above the eye-brows, he may try to hide it by wearing his cap or hat down over his forehead. He will be sure to pass himself for a white man for he is very white and has been taking great care of his skin for some time. When he had a cloth cap, black coat and a dark colored pair of pants. He will be sure to change his cap and clothes as soon as he can; he also wears his hair in front straight down to hide the scar of the blister. He is a shoemaker by trade, though he may not go at the business, expecting that he will be so advertised.
The above reward of One Hundred Dollars will be paid for his delivery in any Jail in the State. He will be sure to give himself another name.

Charleston, Feb. 8, 1851.

Notice.
ALL persons who are in my debt a fee, will please to come forward, and pay the same, for I am now out of the indulgent mood, and cannot wait longer, indeed, if I would, I should have got me with harness on back; and soon to try on a very rough track, if my friends don't come forward and give me a lift.
If you're the devil, show, all in a drift, Be fathered on the top, sincerely, bark ye! I'll give you a bit of a hint, mark ye! If you don't pay up, right under your noses, I'll take all your papers, and give them to my wife.
And then, oh, then, you'll get your farm in hand, he'll then you'll like a hern.
