Students of Medicine would do well to notice the Card of the Charleston Summer Medical Institute, which is to be found in our advertising columns, and also to the course of Anatomical Lectures and Demonstrations by Dr. MYDDLETON MICHEL. The plan of study and system of instruction proposed by Dr. MICHEL cannot but be of great assistance to the student.

Rats.

A planter of this District informs us. that the rats are so numerous on a neighbors plantation, as to have attacked a field of cotton and completely destroyed a half acre of well grown plants; the presumption is, that corn must be scarce in that neighborhood.

Important to Travelers.

Our Columbia correspondent writes us, that on and after Monday, Angust 21st, the cars for Charlotte, via Winnsboro' and Chester will leave Columbia every afternoon at 4 o'clock, instead of 7 A. M., as formerly. Travellers then from any point in the W. & M. R. R., can reach Winnsboro or Chester on the same day they arrive at Columbia, or by travelling all night reach Charlotte early next morning.

This change is made to facilitate travel and to accommodate travellers going North or visiting the up country.

Battle of Churubusco.

The survivors of the Palmetto Regiment in this place gave a dinner at Bradford's mills on Saturday, in henor of the Anniversary of the battle of Churubusco. We were not present ourselves, but are inform. ed, that the affair passed off very pleasantly; that a large number of invited guests were present, and the feest enlivened with a flow of wit and humor.

The Grapeshot.

This celebrated clipper ship, concerning which there has been written so many mysterious newspaper paragraphs, arrived in New York on Wednesday, in ballast consigned to George Law. She had on board the whole of her cargo of muskets, which it appears has not been disposed of. There is therefore, still thirty thousand muskets in the market, which are destined yet to make some noise in 'he world.

A New Grannmar.

We have received from the publishers, Messrs. Daniel Burgess & Co. New York, a new work entitled "First Lessons in Language or Elements of English Grammar," by D. B. Towen, A. M., and BENJA TN F. TWEED A. M. The plan of the work is simple and adapted to the understanding of very young scholars. After an examination of the contents of the book, we do not hesitate in recommending it to the attention of parents and teachers as an elementary treatise, well worth a place in every school.

The Spy Glass. This is the title of a neat little sheet, which purports to be published semi-monthly in Columbia at 25, cents a quarter, of three months. The principal purpose of The Spy Glass, at present, is to keep a watch on State politics, public morals, &c.; the next issue may give us a clearer insight into its intentions. Those wishing to subscribe must address editors of The Spy Glass, Columbia, S. C.

Foreign Periodicals.

The Edinburg Review for July has been received and affords abundant interesting matter for the scholar and statesman.

We cannot recommend too highly the patronage of these Reviews, to those, who desire sound profitable reading. The four British Quarterlies and Blackwoods Magazine are re-published in this country by Mesers. Leonard Scott & Co., New York, and furnished to subscribers for $10 per. annum,

Lightning, Weather, &c.

We have never before been visited by so many and such destructive thun der storms, accompanied by high winds, as during this season. The intensity of the heat, we suppose, will account for the electricity and the storms; but who will assign a reason its predecessors, so far as we know, for the duration and intensity of its heat? We have had a long succession of scorching days and sweltering nights, mitigated now and then for a few hours by some wrathful cloud sweeping tempest-driven over our heads, discharging volumes of lightning and floods of rain, with an accasional rattle of hail Now, after several days of drizzly weather (just such weather as makes the planter tremble for his fodder and his cotton forms) it has cleared off beautifully, and this morning (Monday) we have the promise of another day reminding us of some of its melting predecessors.

Within a circle of a few miles of our town we have been informed, of an unprecedented number of instances in which lightning has discharged itself upon the earth, rending trees, killing stock, and occasionally doing damage to houses. But one instance has oc curred however, in which human life has been destroyed in this way, and that has been already noticed. We heard the other day of a gentleman going out to look for several missing cows, and found them all dead under a tree which had been manifestly struck by lightning. Recently we heard of a very singular freak of the electric fluid. which killed on the spot, ten hogs for Capt. J. D. McPaddin under the following circumstances. The ing along a small track, the track was make, at a constitute to distribute from each other, eight the number being within thiny yards of the tree upon which the fluid descended, another was at about the distance of forty yards, and the last, at least seventy yards off and in a path making from the one in which the others had fallen. This seems to have been done by one discharge, the fluid choosing to pursue the earth, rather than enter the ground, and to deflect from the original path which it had taken.

We have often seen small spots of growing crops killed by lightning, but we never before heard of half an acre destroyed, which we have been informed upon undoubted authority, is the fact on the plantation of Mr. J. II. MONTGOMERY, a few miles below this place. A stream of electricity, a few days since, fell upon one of his cotton fields and destroyed at least half an acre of the weed, as above stated. Another gentleman had a horse and mule Orleans, at the St. Nicholas Hotel in New killed in his stables, the lightning striking a tree first a little distance off. In our town, we have been informed, a chicken was killed by the fluid just below the door of a house, the house itself being untouched and without conductors.

We record these things, as matters of interest to us all, and in order that facts may be laid before the public in regard to a subtle and often destructive fluid, whose habitudes (so to speak) are still in some respects involved in mystery.

Tomatos all the Year.

By following the simple and easy receipt, given below for preserving and keeping tomatos fresh, persons may have that excellent vegetable ready prepared for the table at all seasons of the year. We have tried the plan and find the tomatos thus prepared, at a bare nominal expense, to be equal to those fresh plucked, when in

"Take ripe tomatos, wash them in cold water, and boil them for twenty minutes; have your cans (or bottles) prepared in the mean time by placing them in cold water in a boiler; put your tomatos in the cans with a very little salt and pepper, and set the boil ler with them over a slow fire, where let them remain until the water boils, at which time cork and seal them hermetically. By this simple process you can have the vegetable always ready for your table, with all the fresh ness and flavor of the season."

Most vegetables may be kept in like manner.

DEAR BANNER: Fresh from the cooling breezes and sea-baths of Cape May, we are more inclined to write poetic or romancing lescriptions of that celebrated summer retreat than to communicate "news items" from the hot and dusty city. But a more graphic pen than ours is alone capable of depicting "Scenes of Cape May." While therefore we leave you to imagine the deasures we have lately enjoyed, we wish that you had been a participant in them. Riding-bathing-eating, and carrying on flirtations form the chief occupations of the hundreds who have this summer, congregated there. How would your Senior have liked such a life !

As regards "news" we are a "Know Nothing," The war between Mayor Conrad, and the rumsellers is still going on.
