

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Rev. W. D. Kirkland, the accomplished editor of the Southern Christian Advocate, will preach at the Methodist Church next Sunday morning.

A delegation of boys from the Hampton Literary Society of Sheridan's Classical School accompanied the remains of young Crum to Graham's for interment.

The Hebrew Benevolent Society, of Orangeburg, S. C., tender their thanks to each and every person who has so kindly rendered them assistance recently in the shape of contributions or otherwise.

We learn from the Brooklyn Daily Eagle of the 5th instant, that our young friend, Rev. H. S. Wannamaker, was ordained as a deacon at a recent session of the New York East Conference in that city by Bishop E. G. Andrews.

We had the pleasure of meeting in our sanctum one day last week our genial friend, Dr. Jno. C. DuBois, of Hudson, N. Y., who is on his way home from a Florida trip. The Doctor has a host of friends in Orangeburg, who were glad to meet him again.

We notice from the Brenham, Texas, Daily Banner that Mr. E. L. Salley, has just been elected Assessor and Collector of that city unanimously, receiving every vote cast, something near 1,000. We are glad to know that our friend is so popular in his adopted home.

A BAD HABIT.—We understand that quite a number of boys and young men are in the habit of fishing near the river bridge on Sundays. We are sorry to hear this, as we think the Sabbath ought to be respected by everybody, and we hope these parties will desist in future from such conduct.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Connor and children, of Charleston, S. C., paid our town a short visit last Saturday and Sunday. They were the guests of Dr. J. G. Wannamaker. Mr. Connor is at the head of the prosperous firm of Wm. M. Connor & Bro., cotton factors, of Charleston, which does a large business in this section.

A CHANGE.—Dr. J. P. Ott, publisher of the Branchville Banner, has associated with him in the publication of that journal Mr. T. O. Edwards, a young journalist of ability. We cordially welcome Mr. Edwards to the ranks of the fraternity, and hope that our cotemporary will be more prosperous in the future than ever.

RAILROAD TALK.—The Barnwell People says: "We learn from Mr. W. R. Walker that citizens of Aiken and Orangeburg counties, in the neighborhood of Johtown, have subscribed enough to assure the building of the proposed narrow gauge railroad from Blackville to Johtown." If this is true, it's bad news for Orangeburg.

ANNIVERSARY MEETING.—The seventh anniversary meeting of the St. Paul's Woman's Missionary Society of Orangeburg Station, will be celebrated next Sunday evening at the Methodist Church at half past eight o'clock. A sermon will be delivered by the Rev. W. D. Kirkland, of Charleston, S. C. A cordial invitation is extended to the congregations of the Presbyterian, Baptist, Lutheran and Episcopal Churches to be present on this occasion.

FIRE IN PINE GROVE.—The dwelling of Mr. Wm. A. Fogle, an old gentleman living in North Pine Grove, accidentally caught fire last Thursday morning and was burnt to the ground. Most of the furniture was saved, but the house is a total loss as it was not insured. This is a misfortune as Mr. Fogle has only one arm, and will find it hard to rebuild his dwelling. Several colored men who entered the yard to try and save the house were severely bitten by dogs on the premises.

THE PETERKIN AHEAD.—Professor McBride, of the South Carolina College, publishes in the Cotton Plant his test of several varieties of cotton for the last three years, giving yield per acre and per cent of lint. In 1885, Dickson's cluster headed the list with 1478 pounds to the acre, making 32 1/2 per cent of lint, or 477 pounds. Duncan's Mammoth made only 30 per cent of lint, while the Peterkin cotton made 1256 pounds to the acre, and 33 1/2 per cent of lint or 480 pounds. That is 1256 pounds of the Peterkin made 3 pounds more lint than the 1478 pounds of Dickson's cluster. While the Professor is cautious and would not draw sweeping conclusions from these results, he thinks they are in favor of the Peterkin, but they also show that the Jones and Dickson Improved are deservedly popular.

THE NEW TOWN OF ELLOREE.—It is gratifying to us to note signs of improvement in any and every section of our county. Our paper is a county paper and is devoted to the welfare and prosperity of our entire county. Therefore we mention with pleasure the splendid outcome of the sale of lots at the Town of Elloree, on the projected and surveyed line of the Eutawville Railroad. Twenty-two lots were sold at the public sale on Saturday last, at prices ranging from $30 to $108, per lot, and the purchasers were among the best citizens and most successful business men of that section. Such men as Drs. Bates, M. J. D. Dantzer, Snider, Davant and Messrs. John Harmon, Thomas W. Ulmer, J. C. Ulmer, Messrs. Parler and Norton, and others have invested their money in the enterprise, and some of them have taken steps, looking to the immediate erection of buildings, and within a few weeks, there will be built a blacksmith shop, two groceries, a drug store, and a hotel. The Railroad is within twenty-five miles of Elloree, and will reach the town by July, and the establishment and the growth of the place is assured. The presence of the railroad, the wealth and beauty of the surrounding country, the thrift of the people, all are guarantees of the success of the enterprise, and the city of Orangeburg so far from looking grudgingly or enviously upon this bright prospect for one of the sections of our grand old county, sends today her greeting and congratulations to the people of that section, and welcomes the birth of her little sister city. Lots are still on sale, parties desiring a safe investment should apply to Rev. W. J. Snider at Elloree. The sale of lots are all made with a guarantee that if the railroad does not come to the place, money will be refunded.

AN INTERESTING MEETING.

The Agricultural Society Sends Delegates to the Columbia Convention.

The called meeting of the Orangeburg County Agricultural Society was held on last Saturday the 10th, instant, in one of the rooms of Sheridan's Classical School.

In the absence of Dr. W. F. Barton, the permanent President, Vice-President John L. Moore took the chair and Mr. J. H. Fowles, Secretary, read the minutes of last meeting. After confirmation of the minutes (Capt. J. L. Moore stated that the object of the meeting was so elect delegates to represent this society at the farmers convention to be held in Columbia on the 20th instant.

Capt. N. N. Hayden asked whether it was proposed to elect delegates to-day and would these delegates represent the county at large? The President answered that the delegation elected here to-day would only represent this society, but the county could send an additional delegation if it so desired.

Mr. T. E. Dukes favored sending a delegation in order that our people may reap whatever benefits the Columbia convention might afford, but he earnestly opposed the idea of mixing politics with it on any action that might be taken by the convention tending in the least degree to divide the Democratic party.

Mr. John J. Antley thought the whole thing would be a muss and have a tendency to split the party. He favored a delegation of good and not bad men. Every profession ought to live and the law should favor all alike. A thousand farmers could not make laws.

Dr. J. C. Holman said that at the last meeting he opposed the movement but thought, according to the action of that meeting, we were obliged to send a delegation. He favored a convention now because it might bring about concert of action among farmers. If they could have a general understanding among them some good might result. He favored the primary plan of nominating officers and said that the people complained that the ring elected their officers and that they could not trust their Representatives. The convention if held would correct this. The people had taken hold of politics and such a meeting as that would satisfy them and leave no room for complaint. He was surprised at the idea that politics was not in this convention—it was political to the bottom and would meet to put a strait jacket on our Representatives.

Mr. John S. Rowe said that the convention ought to be held, but earnestly opposed mixing farming and politics together. Wherever the subject had been broached in other counties the same sentiment was expressed.

Mr. E. R. Walter, said Mr. Tillman's letter stated two reasons why the farmers complained: 1st, The misapplication annually of $35,000 received by the Agricultural Bureau, from which the farmers get no benefit; 2d, An Agricultural College was needed to teach improved methods of farming. We, who were obliged to use fertilizers, had to compete with the farmers of the West who used none. This could not be done without adopting economical methods of farming and for this the education of our youth was necessary. If the $35,000 dollars could be applied to such a college the expense would be comparatively light. The convention would do a great deal if only one of these be accomplished.

Mr. A. M. Salley did not know what was Mr. Tillman's object but, according to the resolution passed at the last meeting, we were obliged to send delegates. He was willing to send five good men and leave them free to act as they saw fit. Such a convention could have no authority except to memorialize the Legislature. His opinion was not worth much, but he could not see how a convention in the spirit of Mr. Tillman could benefit the farmers. As far as he could see all the counties opposed and "set down on" Mr. Tillman's movement but we ought to send delegates to keep harm from being done and if possible to do some good. Mr. Salley offered the following resolution which was adopted:

Resolved, That this society send five conservative delegates to represent it at the approaching convention.

Nominations were called for and an election ordered which resulted in the selection of the following gentlemen as delegates: Mr. Eugene R. Walter, Mr. James H. Fowles, Mr. J. M. Moss, Dr. J. W. Summers, and Dr. J. C. Holman; and as alternates, Mr. A. M. Salley, Mr. E. N. Chisolm and Mr. J. W. Hodges.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the delegates go untrammelled.

There being no further business the society adjourned.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Last Friday afternoon a serious and almost fatal accident occurred a few miles from town on the road leading from this place to Rowesville. As Mrs. James Stokes and her daughter, Miss Annie, were driving along the road in a buggy on their way home from a visit to a neighbor, their horse took fright from another horse running up behind the buggy and dashed off. The frightened animal soon left the road and took to the woods, running against a tree and throwing the two ladies out. Mrs. Stokes escaped with a few slight bruises but Miss Annie was very seriously injured, having been thrown very violently against a tree, sustaining very severe injuries about the head and body. When the buggy struck the tree, the horse became detached from it and continued to run until he jumped in a ditch, breaking both front legs. To end his sufferings he was shot. We are glad to hear that Miss Annie was not as badly injured as at first reported, and is now in a fair way for an early and speedy recovery.

ALMOST A FIRE.—Just as the members of the Presbyterian congregation were assembling Wednesday evening, the 7th instant, it was discovered that the roof of the church was on fire. The alarm was sounded and great confusion followed. The fire department responded promptly and succeeded in arresting the progress of the flames, and the fire was completely extinguished before any damage had been done. After the excitement had subsided the services were held. The church has been recently refurnished with carpets, &c., by the ladies of the church at considerable trouble and expense. The building was in great danger at one time, and excitement ran high.

Charleston Presbytery.

Charleston Presbytery met on Wednesday night last at 8 o'clock, in the Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Edwin Muller preached the customary sermon. It was one of his usual fine productions. After service the roll of churches was called by Rev. Jno. R. Dow, Clerk, and Rev. Mr. Morse of Coosaw was elected Moderator. Presbytery then adjourned until 9 1/2 A. M., Thursday. The morning train brought a large accession of delegates. As they arrived, the Committee, Messrs. Hamilton and Thompson distributed them among the various families, as follows: Rev. Doctor's Mack and Thompson and Elder McCreery to Mr. G. H. Cornelson, Rev. Dr. Brackett and Elder Jas. Allen to Mr. J. A. Salley, Rev. Dr. Junkin and Elders Leland and Hutson to Mr. N. A. Bull, Rev. Dr. Girardeau and Elder F. V. Legare to Capt. Jno. A. Hamilton, Rev. Mr. Brockington and Elder O. E. Johnson to Mr. W. B. Thompson, Rev. Jno. R. Dow to Mrs. H. Thames, Elders Mikell and Hutson to Mr. B. W. Izlar, Rev. Mr. Hunt and Elder J. A. Enslow to Mr. H. Riggs, Elder Henderson to C. B. Glover, Esq. The remaining delegates were comfortably cared for by Messrs. M. Glover, W. Wilcock and J. G. Vose. The routine of Church work was rapidly pushed through. In spite of a depressed business year the various churches responded largely in excess of the past year to all work. Westminster Church, (Dr. Junkin) ran over $8,000 in collections for all purposes. Dr. Brackett's reported one hundred and eighty two accessions, and the Ladies' Society of this church was educating four young men. The Orangeburg Church had raised nearly $400 above 1885. The various overtures and reports were discussed ably and acted upon. Dr. Junkin was elected Commissioner to General Assembly with Dr. Girardeau as alternate. Maj. J. A. Leland was elected as elder Commissioner with Prof. Sheppard as alternate. Dr. Thompson preached eloquently at night to a full house. Friday was a busy day, and it was evident that the delegates were making an effort for home. The evening train carried at least one third of the delegates away. At night Mr. Brockington, delivered a scholarly sermon, and Presbytery went into session which lasted until near midnight. It became known that an adjournment would follow and the ministers all go home, when one of the church officers made a strong appeal for the remaining delegates to stay. Rev. Drs. Girardeau and Mack, Rev. Messrs. Morse and Hunt, and Elder Henderson remained. Dr. Mack by a previous understanding was assigned to preach at the Baptist Church, Rev. Mr. Morse from custom was to preach the usual morning sermon in this church, and Dr. Girardeau was held back for night. Mr. Morse's sermon and Dr. Mack's were fine efforts. The Doctor is a most successful worker. In a ministry of twenty-five years he has been the accredited means of leading four thousand persons to a new life. The children's afternoon service was a success. The church was full, Dr. Mack, Mr. Morse, Rev. Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Hunt each assisted. The Song Service was delightful. But the climax was at night, when the Rev. Dr. Girardeau entered the pulpit with Dr. Mack and Mr. Muller a sea of expectant eyes greeted his kindly eye. The choir rendered an exquisite voluntary, then the preacher requested that all would sing, "All hail the power of Jesus' name." It was a glorious burst of praise. Dr. Girardeau's theme was, the office of the Holy Spirit. His discourse lasted one hour and a quarter. The audience was spell bound. To attempt to sketch this magnificent sermon would mar a production, admitted by all to be superbly scholarly. Grade by grade, height upon height, submit upon summit, until grand in the attitude of genius and splendid in the lustre of faultless dress he rose to the pinnacle of glorious eloquence. Seldom are such sermons heard. Our people were all delighted beyond expression. The delegates left on Monday morning for home.

A SAD DEATH.—J. Hammond Crum, a First Grade Student of Sheridan's Classical School, died, after a short illness, on last Tuesday morning at the residence of Mr. I. Wesley Bowman in this city. We have seldom known the death of one so young and comparatively a stranger to our citizens to cast a deeper gloom over an entire community than that of Mr. Crum. Every one seem bowed and deeply grieved because of the hopes, so suddenly blighted, entertained of one so gifted in all the elements and talents that make up a perfect man. We can only speak of him here as a student of two years acquaintance with our citizens, but this character and this short period of contact exhibited the index pointings of a noble manhood. His reputation was built up upon a high sense of honor, strict devotion to duty, unswerving love for right and truth, implicit obedience to rightful authority and a tender sensitiveness for the feelings of others.—traits of character which few boys of 18 years possess so well defined and developed. Perhaps the saddest element in the death of Mr. Crum is the fact that he lacked only three months of completing his school course necessary to enter College. He had every assurance from his teachers that his examination in June would be a successful one and that neither himself nor parents need feel any uneasiness upon that score. With such marked success thus far in life and possessed of such noble traits of character, it is hard to predict what kind of manhood the allotted years of human life would have developed in this young student. Mr. Crum was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crum, of Barnwell County, who have our profoundest sympathy in this hour of their deep bereavement and, in giving it, we would say that their grief is not without hope, for such noble fruit as appeared in the character of their son could not be produced by the carnal mind.

TO CROSS Santee.—The Sumter Advance says: "The editor of the Manning Times, says, he saw a letter on Monday last from the President of the Eutawville Railroad, to Capt. R. R. Briggs, telling him that the bridge over Santee River is now being built and that the Road in contemplation from No. 41 on the South Carolina Railway to Sumter, would be completed to Summerton in Clarendon County before the end of the present year. We suppose from this, that the Road will be completed to this place in a year from now. Let it come, and come quickly."

C. D. KORTZON,
City Treasurer.

Received as information.
The following petition of the Board of Health was read:

To the Honorable, the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Orangeburg:

GENTLEMEN.—Owing to my connection with the "Health Department," I think it my duty to call your attention to what I consider a very serious unsanitary condition of the City, and to submit for your consideration such suggestions as will, if adopted, be a safe-guard against any serious outbreak of disease in our midst. Sanitary measures, to be effective, should be carried out at those times when most people see no cause for anxiety, and often, therefore may appear to involve unnecessary expense and worry. Such measures, when most successful, may be least appreciated. "If the expected disease does not appear, the warnings will be considered to have been a false alarm, and the precautions taken to be excessive" but, how when the warnings are unheeded, the precautions are not taken, epidemic disease breakout, many lives are lost, and the authorities see when it is too late, that these misfortunes could have been prevented.

It is to the present privy system of our City that I wish to call your attention. This system is known as the "accumulative form." Listen to what Dr. W. H. Ford, President of the Philadelphia Board of Health, and a high authority, says about it: "Of all forms of excremental pollution of soil none prevails to a greater extent, is more dangerous in its effects upon health, and discreditable to sanitary management than privies of the accumulative sort."

To be healthy it is necessary breath pure air, drink pure water, a diet pure nutritious food. It is hardly less important that the ground should be secured from every source of contamination. For air and water are more or less directly influenced by the soil, and if the latter becomes defiled, the former are in danger of becoming polluted from this source. Of all the forms of soil contamination, that by excremental matter is the most frequent and dangerous.

You can readily understand, how, with the present system, the liquid portion of excreta, (by soakage), trickles into the neighboring wells and pollute the water, and the solid decomposes and arise from the ground in the form of gaseous vapors, polluting the air we breathe. Of course, we can and do use disinfectants, but you might as well use "perfumery in the place of soap and water" as to substitute disinfectants for cleanliness.

We may mention the following as the principal diseases arising from soil contamination: Intermittent, typhoid and bilious remittent fevers, cholera and dysentery. The first, third and fifth diseases prevail in our town every year, and while the first and third may be due to malaria, the fifth is, in my opinion, due to the want of a proper method of removal of excreta.

Now for the remedy. I would recommend the jail system, this is cheap, simple, practical and safe. It consists in providing every water closet with one or more "pails" or "tubs" with tightly fitting lids and iron handles. The lids render removal inoffensive and the handles enable one man to manage them.

At certain stated intervals the scavenger carts can call for and transport the pails to a safe distance, empty, cleanse, disinfect and return them. The excreta could be manufactured into manure and sold for more than it would cost the town to remove them.

This or some other (similar) system will have to be adopted sooner or later, or disease will demonstrate its necessity more forcibly than I have done.

W. C. WANNAMAKER, M. D.,
Chairman Board of Health.

We fully concur with above. M. G. Salley, M. D., A. G. Townsend, George Boliver, D. N. Smith, H. Riggs, B. Williamson, Members Board of Health.

Referred to the Committee on Streets with instructions to report at an early date.

Petition of resident citizens in the vicinity of Russell Street and Rail Road Avenue was read as follows:

To the Honorable Mayor and Aldermen of Orangeburg:

GENTLEMEN.—Your petitioners respectfully show, that a very large and thickly settled part of the City, embracing stores, dwellings, railroad depot, college, &c., is so far removed from the present location of the steam engine and truck, that the help to be derived from these, in event of fire cannot reasonably be expected. That the location of the hand engine and the reserve truck (the old machine) at or near the railroad crossing is most desirable. That the erection of a plain comfortable building for the purpose would strengthen the energies of our colored firemen. That we would get large and valuable help from twenty or more colored men (not members) to man our hand engine, as they live near the crossing. That the new fire well will be utilized promptly by a short run in case of fire, instead of (as now) a run of over half a mile. All of which we earnestly call to your early attention, praying an early favorable reply March 12, 1886.

C. B. Glover, Jr., H. E. Hall, Jas. R. Tucker, Jas. C. Dickson, President of Enterprise F. E. Co., M. Walls, Jehu G. Postell, W. E. Faulconer, Thos. A. Izlar, Wm. M. Sain, John A. Zeigler, J. W. Patrick, M. B. Treadwell, B. J. Loyd, Charles Lawton, Wm. Wilcock, F. N. Brunson, John A. Hamilton, F. N. Brunson, I. W. Mordica, Henry Kohn, President Young America Steam Fire Engine Company, T. A. Jeffords, G. W. Wilson, W. B. Treadwell.

Referred to the Committee on Fire Department with the instruction to confer with the Board of Fire Musters and report at an early date.

By Alderman Williams: Inasmuch that felvers prevail to an alarming extent in the Northern and North-eastern portion of our City along the creek or branch, known as the "Old Grave Yard Branch" since the erection of the dam and stoppage of the stream by Mr. Cornelson by the placing in said stream a Hydraulic Ram for the purpose of supplying his factory with water from said branch, and inasmuch that numerous complaints have been made by citizens residing along the said branch or water course, now, therefore.

Resolved, That the City Council declare the said obstruction a nuisance and that Mr. Cornelson be required to abate said nuisance at once. Carried.

The Mayor appointed Aldermen Williams and Cannon a special committee to confer with the Board of Health in this matter.

On motion the Clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for lumber that Council might need from time to time. Minutes were read and confirmed, Council then adjourned.

C. D. KORTZON,
Clerk of Council.

A Quarter of a Century Ago.

ORANGEBURG, S. C., April 11, 1886.

Editor Times and Democrat:

As I walked along Russell street to the depot to-day, the scenes passed through my mind of the thrilling events that occurred along the same street and at the depot, twenty-five years ago to-day. Yes, on this same day, the 11th of April, 1861, Orangeburg County sent her first offering to the Seacoast to defend our State and country. On that day, four companies from the town and County gathered near the Courthouse, formed in companies and marched to the depot to embark on the cars. Can I ever forget that scene at the depot, where kind good-byes and loving adieus were taken. No! never while this heart shall throb can I forget the sad partings I witnessed that day. These four companies consisted of the Edisto Rifles, the Jamison Guards, the Glover Guards and the Keitt Guards, companies A, B, C, and D, of Hagood's First South Carolina Volunteers, about three hundred of the best young manhood of Orangeburg County. To-day as I walked along the same street and to the depot, at the same place, I asked myself the question, how many of that gallant band is left? The Edisto Rifles was officered by Capt. John Glover, Lieutenants Jas. F. Izlar, John Fe'nder and Samuel Kennerly. Of this grand company's officers only one, our old friend, Jas. F. Izlar, is left. The Jamison Guards was commanded by Capt. Daniel Livingston, Lieutenants Jos. Knotts, Dempsy Jones and Frank Pou, all of these have passed away but Mr. Jones. The Glover Guards was officered by Capt. Samuel Kemmerlin, Lieutenants L. H. Zimmerman, T. H. Cooke and John Stroman, these, Capt. Kemmerlin and T. H. Cooke is all that are left. The Keitt Guards was officered by Capt. James Collier, Lieutenants John Sellers; David Jamison and O. M. Dantzer, of this company's first officers only Lieutenants Sellers and Jamison are left. And what of the uncommissioned officers and privates who marched away from home and loved ones on that day? How many of them was left on many a bloody battle field and along our coast and away in some far, far away hospital, of those who passed through the four years of hardship and suffering, many came back with disease and old wounds that have since carried them away until, now the number is getting small, and the few that is left are now on the sunset side of life. Other counties and other commands have their survivor's reunions, but Orangeburg has never called a meeting of her Survivors yet. I trust the day will yet come when all of her war-scarred Survivors will come together and unite in erecting some suitable monument to the memory of our departed comrades. A SURVIVOR.

THEY HAVE COME AND GONE.—We are called upon this week to chronicle the departure from our midst, of the Horse Shoe Bed Spring Company, who for the last two months have been supplying our County with the famous House-Shoe Bed-Springs. These gentlemen came to us highly recommended, both as workmen and business men, and most creditably have they sustained the recommendation. Their springs have given entire satisfaction to all. In fact we venture the assertion that those who have purchased them would not be without them for double their cost. They have by their courtesy and fair dealing, won the good opinion of our people and take with them our best wishes for success. They go to Lexington, Va., and we most cordially commend them and their excellent springs to the people of that section.—Christiansburg, Va., Messenger.

The Horse-Shoe Bed-Springs manufactured and sold here by Messrs. Turner, Terry & Bros. are giving entire satisfaction to all who are using them. Do not fail to buy a set when the agent calls on you. All are invited to come and see us and witness the process of manufacture.
