JAMES L. SIMS, Lock Box No. 116, Orangeburg, S. C.

A farmer in Condon, Nebraska, advertises for a wife, and specifies that she must be about six feet tall, weigh 250 pounds, have red hair, and be an atheist.

COL. J. G. Clinkscales, of Anderson, is mentioned as a candidate for State Superintendent of Education. It we are to have a new deal, we know of no better man for the position.

MAJOR W. H. Brawley, of Charleston, S. C., has written a letter to the Hon. Samuel Dibble in which he says he will not be a candidate for Congress from the First District this Fall.

The announcement that Judge Cotran would be sent to Congress from the District now represented by Col. Aiken has brought out a legion of candidates for the judgeship to be thus made vacant.

MAJ. W. Z. Leitner, of Camden, is being put forward as a candidate for the office of Secretary of State. He is a noble citizen as he was a brave soldier, and as he lost a leg at Gettysburg it is hoped that his record will help him on to get the office.

A PROMINENT citizen of Edgefield, having been nominated for Governor, the Barnwell People is moved to suggest: "We respectfully say that it would save time and suspense if the people of Edgefield county would meet in convention, decide upon what they want and 'take it.'"

CALIFORNIANS are asking what the Presbyterian general assembly at Minneapolis meant by commending "the stand of the Christians on the Pacific slope" on the Chinese question. The papers say that if the Presbyterians think the Christians out there favor Chinese immigration they are woefully mistaken.

SUCH is the disgust people have for ex-President Hayes, that a thief who a few days since stole his overcoat from a restaurant in Troy, N. Y., on finding out whose it was, returned it to him and fled. Hayes is the man who enjoyed the stolen Presidency and pocketed $200,000 salary really due Samuel J. Tilden.

THE recent accident on the Northeastern Railroad by which so many valuable lives were lost should be rigidly investigated by the Railroad Commission. In our judgement the accident was caused by an imperfectly spiked rail. Let all the facts in the case be brought to light and the responsibility fixed.

COL. Richard M. Hoe, head of the firm of R. Hoe & Co., printing press manufacturers, died suddenly recently at Florence, Italy. This name is familiar to every newspaper man in America, and was a tower of strength among them. What ever machinery this firm put its name on could be relied on as alright.

THE United States, having successfully married off its President, is in about the predicament in which St. Louis is, now that the Maxwell-Prefler trial is ended. If some one could start another story, for instance, that Rose Elizabeth is to found an orphan asylum for the seven hundred babies named after Grover it might prove a blessing to journalism.

A YOUNG man named Kohler, residing in Sheandoah, Pa., recently went into the milk business as a means of earning a living. He had been something of a society swell, and when he dropped into milk his society friends proceeded to turn up their noses at him. He couldn't stand the snub, and committed suicide. The world is better off without such a fool.

THE sticklers for etiquette who are shocked because Mrs. Cleveland went to Grover to be married, and because the latter chose to make the affair private, are gradually cooling down. They are the mugwumps of society, who indorse nothing unless they are allowed to boss the job, but in this instance they are confronted by the frigid fact that it makes no difference whether they indorse or not.

SENATOR Hawley of Connecticut is said to have the presidential "bee" in his bonnet. Well, he is a handsome man, vastly better morally than Blaine, and his record as a soldier, and his fiery denunciation of the South during the reconstruction period, will perhaps cause his party to forgive him for the grave fault of being a native of North Carolina. The Republicans would do well to nominate him; but they will not do it. They will go further and fare worse.

Inexcusable Ignorance. Ex-President Hayes' long-promised article on the subject of "Federal Aid for Southern Schools" has appeared in a magazine. The Nation handles the effort without gloves. It styles it "A plea for some scheme similar to the Blair Bill, based upon the same old vague assertions, of which the fallacy has been so thoroughly exposed." "Four millions of people in the South," says Mr. Hayes, "are unable to read and write." And at this point the Nation adds that the Sage of Fremont does not apparently understand that three-fourths of these people are too old to get any benefit from the most liberal system of schools. "Almost three millions of the young people of the South are growing up without the means of education," says Mr. Hayes. This is the same as saying that half the children of the South have no chance to go to school, whereas the reports of Southern school superintendents show that even in States like South Carolina and Mississippi, where the negroes are most numerous, the proportion of children of the school age who attend school is as large as in New Hampshire. The only bit of evidence, which Mr. Hayes cites in support of his theory, is a statement made in a speech "a few years ago" by Dr. Rufner, then School Superintendent of Virginia, that, in his State, they were not able to educate the people "in any tolerable sense," as he had shown by statistics "a few years" before this speech. Regarding this, it is sufficient to say that Virginia has increased the amount of her school expenditures from $946,109 in 1880 to $1,428,678 in 1885, and now keeps her schools open 118 days in the year, against only 104 in Maine, and but 100 in New Hampshire. There might, perhaps, be an excuse for somebody else who should write an article upon so important a question without making the most elementary examination of the facts; but we do not quite see how an ex-President of the United States, fraudulent though he be, leading a life of leisure, can reconcile such carelessness with his conscience.

Where the Fight Should be Made. A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun writing from Columbia says the late meeting of the Democratic State Executive Committee in that city was called for the purpose of organizing the Democracy to thwart the farmers in their movement for a new deal, which is tending to disrupt the party. So far as the committee meeting for the purpose of thwarting the farmers or anybody else is all nonsense. The committee could not thwart the farmers if they wished, for the simple reason that the present committee only "holds over," until the convention meets in August, when a new committee will be elected. The simplest way to prevent the "thwarting" of the farmers' movement is for the farmers to capture the convention and elect an Executive Committee to suit themselves. The representation in the convention will be double the representation of each county in the Legislature, or some 300 delegates. The farmers should be able to control a majority of those delegates. We agree with the correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle that this course would be a great deal more manly than threatening to bolt the party unless it does certain things. The farmers claim to constitute the Democratic party in South Carolina, and if this is true they have nothing to fear from the few lawyers, politicians, tradesmen and laboring men who compose the balance of the State. But it may develop hereafter that all the farmers are not in favor of drawing the line too sharply. In any event let the fight of the political farmers and the professional politicians be inside the party lines. That is the place to settle all disputes.

Committee Meeting. The State Democratic Executive Committee met in Columbia last week. The meeting was a full one, only two or three of the members being absent. The chief business which called the committee together was to fix the time for the meeting of the State nominating convention, and issue the necessary call to the county organizations preparatory to the meeting of the convention. The agreement of the committee was reached after considerable discussion that the convention shall meet on the 4th day of August next, and it was determined that a circular should be issued to the several county chairmen, urging an immediate and thorough organization of their county organizations.

Heard From. AMONGST the messages received by President Cleveland, congratulating him upon his marriage, was one from the "headquarters" of the National Greenback party, alleged to be located at Des Moines, Iowa. After expressing their joy over the happy event, they proceed to request him to "make the whole nation happy by ordering the immediate call of one hundred millions of bonds, and thus give new life to business, new hope to a nation of debtors." They might just as well have asked Grover to turn out a hundred bales of new greenbacks, and distribute a car-load of seeds, and present a farm and mule to all men over twenty-one years of age. Such a petition would have been practical.

Imbecile or Liar, Which? Not long since General Sherman was convicted of lying by General Wright, and previous to that time General Wade Hampton fastened a lie on the doughty barn burner in reference to the burning of Columbia, and now news comes from Indianapolis, Ind., that the great prevaricator has again been cornered. It appears that he recently asserted in a public address in that city that he did not attend Vice President Hendrick's funeral because he had not been invited, and also that no place had been reserved in the funeral procession for the army and navy. This statement coming to the ears of Gen. Fred Knefler, grand marshal of the Hendricks obsequies, that gentleman confronted Sherman and told him that he had personally addressed him an invitation, and handed him a newspaper published at the time, showing that the army and navy had been provided for. Sherman, evidently embarrassed seemed glad to escape from Knefler and the gentleman accompanying him simply with the remark that "it had escaped his notice." We regret to see a man of Sherman's prominence in our country's history with so little regard for the truth, but it is about what could be expected of a man who acted as he did, in making war on defenceless women and children. As he stole everything then that was portable, his blooming out now as a liar of the first magnitude only confirms the old adage that a man that will steal will lie.

Carlisle's Presidential Prospects. There is a buzz of talk going on now about Speaker Carlisle being a Presidential candidate in 1888. It is strange how that old woman's superstition about the Speakership of the House being a short cut to the Presidency still prevails. Mr. Blaine thought so—every man who ever sat in the Speaker's chair has thought so. The fact is, the Speaker of the House stands just one chance in thirty of getting in the White House. There have been thirty Speakers, and of these only one—James K. Polk, and he was an accident—ever became President. Mr. Clay comes first with the greatest length of service in the Speaker's chair. He was elected to preside over six Congresses. He had the Presidential rabies badly. Next comes Andrew Stevenson, of Virginia, who was elected four times, and was also bitten by the tarantula. James G. Blaine, Schuyler Colfax and Samuel J. Ray "all follow, each of whom served three Congresses. Everybody knows how Brother Blaine and poor Mr. Colfax raved and cowered when the virus got into their blood. Mr. Randall has more nearly escaped than any man who ever sat in the Speaker's chair; but he, too, has had faint symptoms. Now that Mr. Carlisle has been implicated, a case of more or less developed mania may be expected. But to be Speaker is to take one chance in thirty of ever being President.

The Reason Why? The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette is of the profound opinion that Mr. Blaine is a greater man than Mr. Cleveland, and that his unofficial utterances are of more importance than the official utterances of the President. It suggestively says that these unofficial utterances go rattling round the world. As the York New Star says almost any man can attract attention by being sensational. Even the Commercial Gazette has succeeded in doing that in days gone by. There are several reasons why Mr. Blaine's utterances go rattling round the world. In the first place he represents a political party composed of almost half the voters, and whose leaders are bad enough to nominate him for the Presidency. In the second place he is generally picturesque and insolent, and in the third place, people are interested in trying to guess what Mr. Blaine will deny on the following day. We assure the Commercial-Gazette that its leader's utterances go rattling about the world because they are right and not because they are important.

Ideality in Journalism. The New York Herald says it is not prepared to accept the statement, recently made, that the newspapers are killing the magazines, just as magazines have killed books, but it warns professional romancers that they are mistaken if they fancy that imagination is confined to men who write novels and poems. Only a few days ago the Galveston News told of a farmer who had cut down a maple tree a hundred years old and found a live toad in the centre of it. Such a brilliant imagination would stagger Jules Verne could his eyes fall upon it, but it did not frighten the Flushing Journal a bit. The editor of that paper merely stated that he might have doubted the story had he not seen a live codfish taken from the centre of an anvil that was melted down. Novelists and magazine writers must not put on airs about superior ideality if they do not wish journalists to show that they can dispose of them in a single round.

The trial of Rudzinski, the Milwaukee Anarchist, has brought out some strong evidence against the accused. What else could be expected of a man named Rudzinski? "The skins" and "offs" are a nuisance in our politics, and they ought to reconstruct their notions and file down their names before they are chosen to office.

General News. It is estimated that the recent wreck at Santee trestle will cost the Northeastern Railroad Company $60,000. Mr. Willie Driggers, near Summerville, shot himself in the head five times several days ago, but none of the wounds are fatal. A colored woman found dead near Inman, Spartanburg County, on Tuesday, is supposed to have been murdered by her husband. Col. Christopher F. Hampton, brother of Senator Hampton, died at his residence in Columbia on Tuesday last in the 65th year of his age. The press stand fell at the St. Louis fair grounds on Monday, killing Charles Dyer, assistant sporting editor of the St. Louis Republican. The boiler at the saw mill of Dodson & Co., in Hampton County, exploded Wednesday, killing the engineer, Mr. T. D. Richardson and badly scalding his son. Messrs. Childs and Drexel, of Philadelphia, presented the International Typographical Union in session at Pittsburg with $10,000 unconditionally on Tuesday last. President Cleveland has written parties at Buffalo that he no longer considers that city his place of residence and will transfer his citizenship to Washington. Mr. J. H. Ezell, of Spartanburg, was sawing a pine tree, 92 inches through, cut from the Cowpens battle field and his saw cut through a musket ball, which was evidently used in that battle. C. A. Price, express messenger on the Northeastern railroad train which went through Santee trestle on Tuesday, has died of the injuries he received in the accident. The total number of deaths is seven. The rains of last week caused higher streams in York than prevailed during the late freshet. The cotton crop has been badly injured and bottom crops ruined. The same report comes from most of the upper Counties. Annie Bree, wife of a noted gambler in that city, has been brought to San Antonio, Texas, from El Paso in an insane condition, caused by domestic troubles. She imagines that she is the bride of President Cleveland. The police force of East St. Louis, Illinois, has been mustered out on account of the discovery of a conspiracy on the part of two or three professional burglars and the police to plunder the town and divide the proceeds. An Abbeville negro boy a few days ago was out minding a cow. He tied the rope around his body and sat down to play. The cow suddenly started home on a run and dragged the boy with her. His leg and several ribs were broken. Joe Brown, white, formerly a citizen of Newberry County, was killed on the 8th of May last, near Gallatin, Tennessee, by being shot in the breast four times by John and James Dunham, with whom he was drinking and playing cards. John Hitz, late president, and Charles E. Prentiss, late cashier, of the German American national bank, of Washington, convicted of making false entries on the books of the bank, were on Saturday sentenced to five years in Albany penitentiary. Jim Black, a colored boy, while playing on the railroad turntable at Sumter several days ago, met with an accident which caused his death. A number of boys were pushing the table when the boy's foot was caught and his leg terribly crushed. Bread riots are threatened in Conception Bay, N. F. Crowds of unemployed men are parading the streets. The police with rifles and fixed bayonets so far have prevented shooting. The British war ship Lily has been ordered to Conception Bay. At 6 o'clock on Thursday evening last the streets of Aiken were enlivened with a shooting affray between Mr. McEee Williams and John Ganey. Five shots were fired, Ganey receiving a slight flesh wound in the groin. The Mayor laid a fine of $10 each on the belligerents. Mr. Sam Williamson, living three miles from Greenville, on Wednesday unearthed a pot on his place containing over $3,000. During the war the place was owned by an aged bachelor refugee from Charleston, and it is said he had his money buried. He died and his body lies buried on the place. The coroner's jury that enquired into the recent disaster at the Santee trestle heard a mass of evidence chiefly from railroad men, all of which was to the effect that the trestle was sound and the track in good condition. No hint of an explanation of the accident was given. An open verdict that the disaster resulted from unknown causes was given. Dr. Sunderland received a fee of $50 for performing the President's marriage ceremony. It was a brand new bill which had never apparently been in circulation. It was handed to the doctor by Colonel Lamont immediately after the President's departure. Dr. Sunderland made his wife a present of the bill, and she will keep it as a memento of the occasion. Miss Cleveland's forthcoming novel, "The Long Run," will be issued next week. It is a love story, the hero being a somewhat eccentric clergyman, the heroine an unconventional young woman, and the locality a summer resort. It is said that Miss Cleveland recently received from the same publisher $900 for a ten-page introduction to a book published by him. The night express on the Georgia Central railroad was wrecked at Rogers, eighty-five miles west of Savannah, Tuesday morning. A block of wood tightly wedged between the rails at the switch threw the engine and three cars from the track. Fireman Charles Maddox was killed and Engineer Wm. P. Prendergast severely injured. It was a deliberately laid plan to wreck the train. A negro who borrowed money enough of a Raleigh merchant to get a marriage license explained his action by saying that he had a pretty good sized cotton crop, and had heard that the farm hands talked of demanding more wages. He had therefore looked about, and having found a healthy widow with three able-bodied children would marry her next Sunday and put the children to work on the farm on Monday.

Holliness Hand Bills. During the session of the South Carolina Holliness Association, recently held in Anderson, there was scattered about the streets a little red hand bill, typographically displayed, which was headed as follows: "Bound for Eternity! which route will you take?" The body of the bill was divided into two columns, describing two routes. The first column read as follows: "Great Salvation Railroad, from Earth to Heaven. Scenery, unsurpassed, via Mt. Calvary, the River of Life, Paradise Garden, the High Rock, etc. Through the Valley of the shadow of death by daylight. To the Grand Central Depot of the Universe, in the City of Gold, without change of cars. Express trains at all hours. Depot: Corner Repentance and Faith avenues. All cars first-class. Fare: thy sins. No half passes. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved."—Bible. "That soul that on Jesus now leans, for repose, I will not, I will not, desert to his foes; That soul, though all hell should endeavor to shake, I'll never, no never, no never, forsake." PRINCE OF LIGHT, President. The second column read as follows: "Damnation Railroad. Quick route to hell. Many miles and much time saved by this line. Terrific scenery! Through Dismal Swamp, Murderer's Gap, Hangman's Gorge, etc., reaching the valley of the shadow of death at midnight, plunging its passengers into eternal hell. Main depot: Corner of Unbelief and Disobedience streets. Specials from Ingersoll Park, Dime Novel avenue, Theatre street, Blasphemers' Hall, Smokers' Furnace, Sample Room square. Lightning train from Suicide avenue. Extra trains on Sunday. This railroad connects at Libertine Landing with all night boats to perdition. Fare: thy soul. "He that believeth not shall be damned."—Bible. "My thoughts on awful subjects roll Damnation and the dead; What terrors seize a guilty soul Upon a dying bed." PRINCE OF DARKNESS, President. Then across the bottom was the following: "Come, for all things are ready. It is either holiness or hell!"—Bible. To be had from G. R. West, Spartanburg, S. C.
