PRESIDENT Cleveland's veto machine must be in excellent working order. One day last week he vetoed no less than fifteen pension and other grab bills. We bet on our Uncle Grover every time when it comes to laying out a job.

THE Horry Progress says: "Gen. Harlee of Marion is spoken of as a probable candidate for Secretary of State. We hope the General will be successful in his candidacy." With all due respect to the General, we think he is too old and should retire. These times demand young and active men.

TILLMAN and other leaders of the farmer's movement are very despondent over the want of enthusiasm on the part of the Orangeburg farmers in organizing themselves into clubs. If they knew the farmers of this county as well as we do they would not be. Our farmers are all Democrats and they don't like the political trimmings of the Tillman movement.

TWENTY-SEVEN postal clerks on Western railroads who led in a movement to organize all the clerks to resign simultaneously so soon as one of their number was discharged for causes believed to be insufficient, have been fired out by the post master general, giving twenty-seven good Democrats a chance. It seems the ringleaders were under charges and were working to protect themselves.

THE striking foolishness has been resumed in Chicago and several hundreds of men are out because a railroad company chose to employ and pay eight men who do not belong to a union. It would seem that the bloodshed, suffering and failure of the last ill advised movement of this kind would have taught the working men sense. There is discouragement in this evidence that it did not.

THE Rochester Democrat thinks that the President's way of "waiting until he has risen to fame and fortune before marriage" is not a good one. It says: "The majority of men win fame and fortune after they are married." Our contemporary is mistaken. The majority of men do not "win fame and fortune" at all. They just live along through their allotted time the best way they can and die poor and unknown. The man who wins fame and fortune is the rare exception—the one in ten thousand or more.

MR. BLAINE and the obstreperous Frye will hear with much disgust that the fisheries question is about to be quietly settled, and they will be very angry to learn that Secretary Bayard is entitled to the credit of bringing about not only a peaceable solution, but one satisfactory to the New England fishermen. The negotiations conducted by the State Department have resulted in an intimation from Great Britain to grant all the privileges which the United States asks for. If Blaine had been President or Secretary of State we should doubtless have had a fight and gained nothing.

THERE are numbers of towns in Vermont where no Democratic vote was ever cast. Lincoln belonged for years to this class. But one year as they were counting the vote the old citizens who had charge of the ballot box were amazed and horrified to discover in it a Democratic ballot for governor. There was a hasty consultation among the judges, who were all staid and conservative men. Then one of them rose up solemnly, and holding up the ballot to sight, said impressively: "We have found in the box a ballot for the Democratic candidate for governor. Did anyone cast it?" There was no answer. "We thought it was a mistake," said the judge, and threw it on the floor.

REPUBLICANISM and a certain kind of professed Christianity go together naturally and make an exceedingly obnoxious combination. The latest development in which the real man has got the better of the outward seeming saint has come out in Washington. A Republican, and an alleged Christian, was a Treasury clerk, and he was discharged by his immediate superior. Whereupon the pastor of the ostensible church, himself also an alleged Christian, refused to pray for the President. The incident is interesting as illustrative of the pure impudence of these politico-Christians. The creature who presides over this Washington church evidently thinks that the Almighty will forget to bless the President if he does not call his attention to the head of the government. Republican pastors will learn better in the next world.

Served Him Right.

The News and Courier says there are certain Republican Senators who cannot discuss political questions without attempting to revive sectional issues. Senator Plumb, of Kansas, tried it in the Fitz John Porter case last Thursday and in consequence received a stinging and merited rebuke from Senator Butler. The opponents of Porter were aware that they could not prevent the passage of the bill, so Senators Logan, Teller and Plumb vied with each other in saying the most disagreeable and exasperating things about Porter and those in favor of the bill. It was while Plumb was arraigning Southern Senators for voting in favor of Porter that Senator Butler interrupted him. The South Carolina Senator said that he had sat quietly and listened to aspersions heaped upon the character of Senators for voting their honest convictions until forbearance ceased to be a virtue. It was observed that the speaker was laboring under intense excitement and meant just what he said. He denounced Senator Plumb's insinuations that Southern Democrats voted for Porter not to vindicate his devotion to the Union, but as a reward for his treachery, as cowardly and unmanly, and declared he would not hear them repeated in any other forum without holding the person who uttered them personally responsible. Senator Butler's indignation knew no bounds, and he created quite a sensation as he advanced toward Senator Plumb and shook his fist at him threateningly. Senator Plumb realized that he had gone too far, and after remarking in an excited manner that he had heard of that kind of talk before, proceeded with his speech. The thread of his argument was, however, gone. So, after rambling along and threshing over the same straw, he gave way to Senator Blair, of New Hampshire. It was admitted on all sides that Senator Butler's denunciation of Senator Plumb was one of the most thrilling scenes ever witnessed in the Senate, and his Democratic associates commended him warmly.

Civil War in Dakota.

Dakota has had the misfortune to become the temporary abiding place of Hugh J. Campbell, who learned politics in the school of the Louisiana carpet-baggers. He is the leader of the movement that aims at having South Dakota secede from the remainder of the Territory and form itself into a State. A paper State of this sort already exist, and has put in its claim to representation in the United States Senate. The organization was authorized by no act of Congress, and there is not the slightest prospect that it will receive the recognition of that body, and yet late reports indicate that Campbell and his fellow adventurers propose attempting to set it up by violence, with the full knowledge that their effort will be resisted by the territorial authorities and result in civil war. Campbell has had himself made major-general of the militia of the so-called State, and is said to be actively drilling a considerable force of men. This insane movement gives a good illustration of the desperate recklessness and lawless disposition of the people who were thrust on the South as rulers during the reconstruction era. If Campbell really intends to have a fight it is to be hoped that he will gather as many as possible of his fellow carpet-baggers around him. They have never been punished yet, and a considerable amount of delayed justice would be done if the crowd will engage in a little rebellion in Dakota.

Gov. Thompson Resigns.

William E. Smith, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, has tendered his resignation to President Cleveland, to take effect to-day, in order to accept the position of solicitor for the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railroad, with headquarters at St. Paul, Minnesota. The President has selected as his successor Hon. Hugh S. Thompson, Governor of South Carolina, and sent his nomination to the Senate yesterday. Governor Thompson is a man of ability, and is in entire accord with the President's policy on all public questions. He has been prominently identified with the educational interest of our State, and is now serving out his second term as Governor. He will resign that office, and expects to be able to assume the duties of his new office as soon as he shall have been confirmed. Gov. Thompson's resignation makes Lieutenant Governor Shepherd Governor, and Gen. Jas. F. Izlar Lieutenant Governor. The position tendered Governor Thompson is an important one, and we think he is perfectly right in accepting it.

The following from the Georgetown Enquirer has our hearty endorsement: "We were treated in the Sunday News to two Jenkinsonian accounts of balls—one at Spartanburg and one at Laurens. The costumes of the bells are described with nauseating minuteness. Every cross-road town in the State, at which a country dance to the tune of a wheezy fiddle is held, feels constrained to rush into print and parade in the columns of our metropolitan contemporary the color, quantity and quality of the dresses worn by the "charming and beautiful" dancers. When will this wave of vulgar and apish ostentation subside and leave us in our old-time dignity and simplicity?"

General News.

During a game of ball at Jonesville, Union, between two colored clubs, a difficulty arose between B. Rice and S. Palmer, in which Rice struck Palmer in the back of the head with a bat, from which he died.

President Cleveland's salary per month is $4,166.66, which he draws regularly the last of every month. The President's Buffalo friends say he was worth between $50,000 and $75,000 when he was elected.

A negro from Atlanta, claiming to be a doctor, is now practicing medicine about Laurens. Many of his patients have not survived his treatment. He examines his patients in the palm of their hands for all diseases.

Governor Alger of Michigan is accused by his enemies of seeking to further his political prospects by giving presents to hundreds of pretty girl graduates. But although the pretty girl graduates can do almost anything else, they can't vote as yet.

Ex-Mayor Dabessos, of Long Island City, has been released from the Queen's county jail after three years' imprisonment by the New York law putting an end to imprisonment for debt. He was confined under a judgment for over one hundred thousand dollars.

A check for the full amount of his expenses at Deer Park was on Tuesday sent by President Cleveland to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company. In the letter enclosing his check the President expressed his appreciation of the attention himself and Mrs. Cleveland had received.

The British bark Arkon collided on the 28th of May with an unknown vessel and was abandoned by the crew. The mate has been picked up at sea. He was eight days without water, food or clothing. The captain, his wife and son and ten seamen got off in another boat, but it is feared they are lost.

A story comes from Oconee that on Tuesday a colored man named Bill Boston grossly insulted an elderly and respectable white woman while she was alone. On the return of her son, Mat Scurry, a youth, he was informed of the facts, and he sought the negro and attacked him with a knife, cutting his jugular vein in twain.

John P. St. John, John L. Sullivan and other famous Johns have been invited to the John picnic to be held at Ross' Grove, Allegheny county, next Wednesday. Every town represented has been invited to send its largest and smallest John. John Lawrence, of Canada, weighing 450 pounds will be there. Hundreds of men named John will attend.

The elections in Nova Scotia were carried overwhelmingly in favor of dissolving the union with Canada. Upon hearing the news a wealthy old sea captain trimmed up the highest tree on his place, and raising the United States flag at the top, exclaimed: "That is our next question to vote on, and you will find before long two-thirds of us that way of thinking."

At Vincennes, Ind., on the 18th there was a single graduate of the public schools, a colored girl named Grace Brewster. Eight white girls who were in the same class refused to graduate with her, and she appeared on the stage alone and read her essay to a great crowd which gave many a festation of approval. Five of the white girls are daughters of Republican fathers.

Herman Reedle was digging a well at McAlester, I. T. He arranged a charge for blasting, lighted the fuse and was hoisted toward the surface forty feet above. When half way up the rope broke and he fell to the bottom. He tried to grasp and extinguish the fuse, but too late. The charge exploded, Herman was blown nearly to the top of the well and fell back dead with every bone in his body broken.

Charles Patterson, a notorious chicken thief of Richmond, Va., was in the habit of killing and dressing the chickens he stole before quitting the premises. Unfortunately for him he fell asleep while picking chickens on Monday night, and in the morning the owner found him calmly snoring by the side of eight well-dressed fowls and a pile of feathers. Richmond roosts will not be disturbed by Charles for many moons.

A Clinton, Iowa, special says in an encounter between saloonists and prohibitionists four of the former, named Forsee, Fedderson, Hart and Rhodes, were shot, none of them being fatally wounded. The marshal, judge and Frank Hillerman was jailed, charged with doing the shooting. The saloon element were threatening to lynch the judge and Hillerman, and declare the jail will be blown up if necessary to get them.

General Gordon is increasing his lead over the Hon. A. O. Bacon for the Georgia Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Saturday week Gordon had fifty-four instructed delegates and Bacon forty-four. Last Saturday the score stood Gordon sixty-eight and Bacon fifty-two. Sixty delegates will be chosen this week and the friends of both aspirants will put forth their best efforts to capture the County delegations. It will require 170 votes to nominate.

John P. Chase, of Augusta, Me., is a veteran of the last war who has, perhaps, more wounds than any other soldier living. He passed through most of the war without receiving a scratch, until the conflict on Seminary, or Weed's Hill. He was serving a gun of the Fifth Maine battery, when the explosion of a shell crippled him for life, and he was supposed to be dead, having received forty-eight wounds by fragments of the shell. In spite of all, he recovered, and for two years has been a messenger in the Maine house of representatives. His pension has been increased to $46 a month by special law.

Rev. J. P. Thatcher was shot and killed at Mondoville, Marshall county, Va., on Wednesday. Mr. Thatcher was pastor of an independent church, with a good following, known as Holiness church, and was also chief of police of the town. He went to arrest Eugene Johnson, a chronic law breaker, who was charged with assault with intent to kill. Johnson was in his house, and his wife refused to let Thatcher enter, and when he insisted she attacked him with a hatchet. He disarmed her and took her into custody, and as he was leaving the house Johnson came up with a double-barrelled shotgun and fired, the load taking effect in Thatcher's heart, killing him instantly.

WARD'S WOES.

MAXEY'S GA., January, 1886.

For twelve or fourteen years I have been a great sufferer from a terrible form of blood poison which ran into a secondary, and finally it was pronounced a tertiary form. My head, face and shoulders became almost a mass of corruption, and finally the disease commenced eating away my skull bones. I became so horribly repulsive that for three years I absolutely refused to let people see me. I used large quantities of most noted blood remedies and applied to nearly all physicians near me, but my condition continued to grow worse, and all said that I must surely die. My bones became the seat of excruciating aches and pains; my nights were passed in misery; I was reduced in flesh and strength; my kidneys were terribly deranged, and life became a burden to me.

I chanced to see an advertisement of B. B. B., and sent one dollar to W. C. Birchmore & Co., merchants of our place, and they procured one bottle for me. It was used with decided benefit, and when eight or ten bottles had been used I was pronounced sound and well.

Hundreds of scars can now be seen on me, looking like a man who had been burned and then restored. My case was well known in this county, and for the benefit of others who may be similarly affected, I think it my duty to give the facts to the public, and to extend my heartfelt thanks for so valuable a remedy. I have been well over twelve months, and no return of the disease has occurred.

ROBERT WARD.

MAXEY'S GA., January, 1886.—We, the undersigned, know Mr. Robert Ward, and take pleasure in saying that the facts above stated by him are true, and that his was one of the worse cases of Blood Poison we ever knew in our county and that he has been cured by the use of B. B. B.—Batonio Blood Balm.
