Secretary of State J. T. Gantt is another State officer who was assistant to his predecessor, and is now serving his first term in his official capacity. His re-election seems practically assured. There is little doubt too that Comptroller General A. W. Jones will be again in office when the ballots are counted. He too was elected to the comptrellership after serving as clerk in that office. BURGLARS AT AIKEN.

ORANGEBURG, S. C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6, 1904.

Stole Eight Hundred Dollars in Jewels and Other Valuables.

A dispatch from Aiken to The State says that city was visited last week by a bold robber or gang of robbers. No clue has been found to the rascals. As burglars "scooped" the town last December and entered the residences of J. W. Platt, F. B. Henderson, L. Bradwell and Mrs. Edward King, leaving no clue to their identity, so did they last night and left no trace; only in this instance but one place

No clue whatever to the theif or theives has been dis-Columbia authorities to ascertain if covered. Whether the thief really naders is, of course, mere conjecture.

Some think that the town is again suffering from a visit from crooks who or make their mark, drunkards and often follow carnival companies, such as showed in Aiken last week. When was just after such a show in Augusta and no trace of the $1,600 worth of valuables lost then has ever been men on the watch and it is possible and 11 o'clock may be caught.

The thief was captured in Aiken Wednesday night. One of the serenaders was found to be Smart Loyd and the boy who was seen to go around the house was Robt. Pearson. The other two serenaders were ascertained to be two followers of the carnival company which showed here last week. When arrested Pearson had in his possession one of the missing purses, containing $15.00 in money, the diamond ring and the sapphire pin.
