SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

Lynn, Mass., February 9th 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham. a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and exurgent cases. By tradition and ex-perience many of them gained a won-derful knowledge of the curative prop-erties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvestfields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies exressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses pecu liar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price, as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too Pinkham continues this great work, and much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from vised how to regain health. At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

This remarkable woman, whose restore the family fortune. They maiden name was Estes, was born in argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and httle credit. Their first laboratory was the aitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the mediate of the m cine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for adviceand there were thousands-received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter - in - law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With women assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. probably from the office of no other

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, The three sons and the daughter, and the fitting monument to the noble with their mother, combined forces to woman whose name it bears.

bold a Grave.

The grave in which lies the body of the man she called husband was yesterday deeded away by Mrs. V. J. Dubois, of Des Moines, for $40 to Mrs. Mary Dubois, of Denver, whose claim as wife of the same man has been substantiated by the courts. With the transfer goes the Desmois wo-man's claim to the body of the prominent and wealthy Des Moines contractor, E. T. Dupois, who was found to have three wives, one in Des Moines, one in Denver and one in New Orleans. It is said that Dubois also had family connections in New York and Philadelphia. It was only that the title might rest with the legal wife that the transfer was made. Mrs. V. J. Dubois, firmly beliving that the other women were imposters, had purchased the lot in the cemetary, and the possession of the grave remained with her until the courts decided that the legal rights rested in Mrs. Mary Duhois of Denver, and she then parted with the remains of her supposed husband for 840.

HOME FROM WAR.

Startling Scenes Enacted in the City

I was passing the empty university last Saturday morning. Minute snow was lashing through the air before a bitter wind, but it thawed as it fell, and people went slopping through the ifilthy puddles, in galoshes, as is the ashion here. Training in disord r through the dirt and wind, mixed up with the market people and the little open droskies that dash up and down the streets like our handsoms, came a string of soldiers slowly making their way westward, They had just passed the booths where the butchers and othe loyalis s slaughtered the students. They had reached the point were the Cossacks shot blindly into the procession that had accompanied the funeral of the student Baumann. There they halted because the cross road in front was blocked with traffic and a few passersis formed, and the place heals permanently.

They were not to be called a column, nor were they organized as an advance party. They were not organized at all, but a few calvery came first, their hairy little horses throw-.ng up a steam into the wind; then a few infantry, not more than a batalion, I think, covered with filta, their uniforms torn and patched, some in luw caps, like our own men, some in high furey caps matted with mud and snow. Behind followeds rambing line of carts, and it was the sig. t of the men stretched inside them with dirty bandages round their heads, or arms, or feet which showed to us what the party really was.

They were the soldiers returning from the war-the van of the great and ruined army coming home. At last they had completed the 5 000 or 6,000 miles of their j urn'y through the siberian plains and were alive in the heart of their own country. And this is how they were received.

The municipality had intended to arrange some sort of festivilities at the station. They had intended to give little presents to the men-chocolates and cigarettes, I suppose—and little decorations for the officers with the inscription: "To the Defenders of the Country." Whether those festivities were ever held and those little presents given 'I cannot say. The papers had announced that si: sudiers would begin to arrive on Sunday. The govercment took care that they should ar rive on Saturday. The presents may possibly have been rushed cut in carts to meet them, though it would be more like the Russian officials to retain the offerings of their patriotism for themselves.

But so little interest was taken in the whole thing that the evening pa pers continued to announce that the army would begin to arrive next day, and as far as I can discover no further notice of any kind was taken of the defeaders of the country. So they drifted westward of the dirty streets and dissappeared into their tarracks.

The reservists among them appear to have been dismissed at once. At all events the crowds of beggars who with threats and curses violently ce mand the milk of human kindness up on the streets have been increased by many tattered creature who limp about in traces of departed uniforms, and as they pass the people say "A soldier from the war."-Moscow Correspondence New York Sun. .

THE BLOOD DISEASED

When a Sore or Ulcer is slow in healing it is the best evidence of a diseased condition of the blood and a disordered system. They show that the bodily impurities, which should pass off through the natural channels of nature, are being retained in the system from some cause. The blood absorbing the waste matters becomes steeped in poison which finds an outlet through the Sore or Ulcer, keeping it inflamed, painful and festering. As the blood constantly discharges its poison into these places, they eat deeper into the surrounding flesh and tissues, growing larger and more the surrounding flesh and the poison one matter was out the heled. The poison one matter was out the poison one matter the poison of the poison one matter was out the poison one matter the poison of offensive in spite of all the sufferer never seen any sign of it since.

affected. Washes, salves, powders and such treatment are desirable for the reason that they are cleansing and also help to relieve the pain, but they are in no way curative. The blood is filled with poison, and until it is removed the sore cannot heal. S. S. S. is the only cure for these evidences of impure blood. It goes down to the root of the trouble and cleanses the circulation of all poisons and impurities. S. S. S. enriches the blood and reinvigorates the different members of the body so that the impurities and waste matters can pass off as nature intended.
