OFFICERS BRING BODY OF AUSTIN

Several times the posse thought they were on the eve of the fugitive's capture, only to find themselves foiled by this veritable wizard of the jungle.

Monday morning a number of men were placed on picket duty along the route that Austin would likely take, and the negro, as expected, did make his appearance in full view of Sheriff Morris, J. L. Carlton, his deputy, and others, and but for one man losing his head and screaming, warning him back into the bushes, Austin would have undoubtedly fallen, said Sheriff Harter. Austin has visited at night three negro houses and the home of one white man, a Mr. Jarrel, a former employer, during the last few days.

Mr. Jarrel stated that he asked for food about midnight Friday night, which he gave and which Austin ate sitting on his doorstep; that Austin told him in a rambling incoherent manner of a "gang fight" he had had in South Carolina and had been presented with a fine present. He stated, according to Mr. Jarrel that they were after him to put him in jail; that they had no intention of killing him, but they wanted to kill those who were in jail that he had things about quieted down and wanted a lawyer. He asked for some rations on leaving, which Mr. Jarrel gave. Having no weapon on which he could rely, he was in the negro's power, although the negro made no threat, leaving his gun in the yard.

Saturday night Austin, it is said, applied at three negro houses for food, which he got. He also asked for shells so the negroes say. These visits were promptly reported by the negroes. Since these occurrences all houses have been guarded in expectation of another visit.

Caught in His Trap.

A student had been bragging of his various accomplishments, until one of the company, losing his patience, said:

"Now, we have heard quite enough of what you can do; just tell us what you can't do, and I'll undertake to do it myself."

"Indeed; well, I can't pay my bill, and am very glad to find that you can do it," replied the student.

Amid the hilarity of the company the guest redeemed his rash promises. —Tit-Bits.

No Flies Crawl on Our Meats

If this does not appeal to you it should. For we read every day that flies carry more diseases and cause more deaths than most anything on earth.

Our market is purely sanitary, no flies can enter therein. Wouldn't you rather have a half a pound of pure, sweet, clean and tender meat that you can eat than a pound that is not clean and so tough you cannot eat it? Then come to see us and be satisfied.

Having added a market to our grocery business makes it so you only have to buy at one place.

We appreciate your patronage. You need the goods, we need the money, and we guarantee to please you. Yours,
