

AN UNUSUAL PAROLE.

Aiken Man Temporarily Released From Penitentiary—To Fix Business Matters.

Columbia, Oct. 20.—Governor Blease has granted probably the most unique parole of his career, when he permitted James G. Seigler, of Aiken county, to leave the State penitentiary until December 1, that he might make possible arrangements with some parties at his home county to assist him in saving all or part of his estate valued at about $50,000, which will be sold at public auction on salesday in November.

Certificate of the clerk of court, John W. Dunbar, affirming that mortgages aggregating $45,000 on the real property of Seigler are on file in his office, has been placed in the hands of Governor Blease.

Seigler was convicted at the June, 1912, term of court for Aiken county, of manslaughter, and sentenced to seven years in the State penitentiary.

In granting this parole of such an unusual nature, Governor Blease said:

"It strikes me that this is a very unusual request, and I must admit that it has given me some considerable worry. First, to do that which is proper in the matter, and next figure out what is proper. Every man, before he commits a crime, should first consider not only what the result will be to himself, but what suffering he will bring upon his wife and children, and if every man is to be released because it would bring suffering and loss to his wife and children, there would be few ever punished, but this request is only for temporary liberty, in order to allow the party the privilege of protecting himself and his family in matters of court, as is set out in the petition; and, as I have stated, it has given me considerable worry to know what is right to do in the preises. I do not wish to set a precedent, and do not intend this case to be a precedent for my guidance or for the guidance of any of my successors, but each and every case in the future, if any should be presented, should be made to stand upon its own merits and be passed upon as the circumstances may then present themselves.

"Upon this showing, the defendant J. G. Seigler, has been granted a parole upon the condition that he do not take a drink of whiskey, wine or beer, nor carry upon his person any kind of a weapon, either openly or concealed, during the term of this parole, and upon the further condition that he report once during each day of his release, in person, to the sheriff of Aiken county, and be kept in the custody of said sheriff of Aiken county in such manner as said sheriff may determine as best for the carrying out of the purposes of this parole, and that he, the said J. G. Seigler, return to the State penitentiary, at Columbia, on or before the first day of December, 1913, for such further action as may then be taken by the governor of the State.

"Parole dated October 17, 1913."

The petition for a parole of this kind was presented by Quitman Davis, father-in-law of Seigler, who is described by the governor as "one of the most high-toned and best citizens of this State."

Request was received by the governor from Judge H. F. Rice, before whom Seigler was convicted, asking that this man be temporarily paroled for the purpose of attempting to save part of his family property. Members of the jury which convicted Seigler joined Judge Rice in his request, as also did a number of good citizens of Aiken county.

Borrowing, Never Returning.

Here are simple questions we want you to answer in your own mind, reader: Suppose some one should ask you to lend him a number of a magazine you and he were reading as he had misplaced his, and you lent him yours telling him to please return it as you had not read it and wanted to read it. Suppose that was weeks ago and you had asked him a number of times to return it, as he had finished reading it, and that every time you had asked him, he had carelessly replied that the "forgot it," "just couldn't think of it," and the like, as though he didn't care whether you ever got it back or not.

Suppose all that and more, wouldn't you feel like telling him that you didn't forget to bring it to him when he asked you and that it was very strange that he couldn't ever remember to return it as easily as he remembered to ask for it? Wouldn't you feel like telling him that after so many repeated failures on his part to bring it back you were compelled to think that he either had the weakest, poorest, most impotent sort of a memory, or was woefully lacking in the common instincts of gentlemanly courtesy and appreciation? Two or three times of forgetfulness in a matter like this may be excusable, but when it becomes chronic it is disgustingly annoying and provoking.

LAND FOR SALE.

I will sell at public outcry on salesday in November, 1913, to the highest bidder, if not sold before at private sale, the four lots in the town of Newberry fronting Glenn street, adjoining lots of Ray Watts and other property of the undersigned. Plats may be found with Frank R. Hunter and further information may be obtained from him or by application to me.

GOD LIVER OIL AND IRON

Two Most World-Famed Tonics Combined in Vinol.

Cod Liver oil and Iron have proved to be the two most successful tonics the world has ever known—iron for the blood and the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil as a strength and tissue builder for body and nerves, and for the successful treatment of throat and lung troubles.

Two eminent French chemists discovered a method of separating the curative medicinal elements of the cod's livers from the oil or grease which is thrown away, but to these medicinal elements tonic iron is now added, thus combining in Vinol the two most world famed tonics.

As a body-builder and strength creator for weak, run-down people, for feeble old people, delicate children, to restore strength after sickness; and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis or pulmonary troubles we ask you to try Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.
