

CANDIDATE IF PEOPLE REQUEST IT

McLaurin Will be Candidate for Governor—'Need of a Moral Awakening in Business World.'

Hartsville, Nov. 18.—According to a letter received by Evangelist B. F. McLendon, of this place, Senator John L. McLaurin, of Bennettsville, will be a candidate for governor if the people wish it. The following was sent to The Record today:

Enclosed please find letter to me from Senator John L. McLaurin, which I think will be of public interest, just at this time and for that reason request that you publish same.

From my knowledge of Mr. McLaurin's character, and in view of our intimate relations, I am perfectly satisfied that he will not object to my action in thus making his letter public.

It is very gratifying to me to receive this letter. For many men with whom I come in contact express the desire that he make the race next year. Men of his type and ability are needed in public affairs and I am certain that he will measure up to the high conception his friends have of him if elected.

The most striking thing in this letter of Mr. McLaurin's is his reference to the need of a "moral awakening in the political world," and the appeal to the mind and consciences of men.

Respectfully,
B. F. McLendon.

Senator McLaurin's letter follows:

My Dear Baxter: Both of your letters received. I briefly acknowledge number one, and will not reply more at length to number two. I know that you were surprised at the statement I made about retiring from politics, but you must remember that I had not said I would be a candidate for office, only that I was willing to respond to a call from the people. I believe that I could be of some service to this State in connection with a State warehouse system, refunding the State debt, preventing a threatened split in our white people. These are the motives that impelled me to make so many speeches, and to attend a conference, not for the purpose of selecting a governor, but to control the next democratic State convention, and prevent the constitutional restriction designed to subjugate the negro in the general election, being used in the primary to disfranchise white men and place them on the same political basis as the negro. Your life work calls you into close contact with our factory and agricultural population. It is a grand work, and I am sure you will agree with me that all classes of society need a higher conception of the rights and duties of citizenship. Your influence and example sways the course and influences the minds of thousands of people in this State. I state to you the deliberate opinion that factionalism cannot be safely pushed to greater extremes. Last year we came near a split, and if the storm breaks loose again no man can control it. Is it not wise to stop a moment and see what it is all about? Is not returning good for evil a good rule in politics? I think so. The majesty and power of it is great everywhere. A moral awakening in the political world is sorely needed. You can not regulate primaries and legislate away bribery, etc. That must come through arousing the mind and consciences of men. My dear Baxter, you teach men that they are brothers in the church, I am trying to teach them they are brothers in the State, and I am just as willing to serve the people in my way as you are in yours. You are right in saying that no good citizen can refuse to serve the State in any capacity. I only refuse to play the role of office seeker. I did not know, or am I prepared to yet believe, that there is such a demand for my services as you seem to think. If I did I would not hesitate one moment as to my course. I have received many letters like yours, but one can easily be mistaken about those things. With sincere regards. As ever your friend,

JNO. L. M'LAURIN.

A Double Wedding.

Batesburg, Nov. 15.—Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the home of Mrs. W. T. Tarrant of this place was the scene of one of the most beautiful home weddings ever seen in Batesburg when her daughters, Miss Mabel Bates and Dr. Robert Lathan Spencer and Miss Julia Elizabeth and Frederick Lockton Cartledge, were united in matrimony. At the appointed hour the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march were heard from the piano at which Miss Kathleen Tarrant, a sister of the brides, presided. To the first strains of the march the doors of the parlor were thrown open and the little ribbon girls, Marie Rawl and Thelma Bates, took their places at the door, while Margaret Edwards and Carolyn Tarrant passed in and through the parlor to the sides of the altar, bearing the ribbon. Following the ribbon girls came the ushers, Tom Spencer and W. T. Tarrant, who took their places near the ribbon girls, little Rose Turpin Tarrant and Frances Wright, each dressed in white with yellow sashes and carrying large yellow chrysanthemums, in the hearts of which rested the wedding rings. These little girls took places just inside of the altar beside the officiating minister, the Rev. Mr. Mahaffey of Batesburg. After the flower girls had taken their places the brides, Miss Mabel Bates Tarrant and Julia Elizabeth Tarrant, entered, accompanied by the groomsmen, Dr. Spencer and Mr. Cartledge. They advanced to the altar, where they were met by the minister, who performed the double wedding ceremony.

Both brides wore traveling suits. During the ceremony Miss Kathleen Tarrant played very softly "The Melody of Love." Only the members of the families of the brides and grooms were present. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Tarrant and children of Newberry; Dr. and Mrs. M. D. Huiet and Mrs. I. T. Scott of Union; Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Payne and Miss Julia Tarrant of Charlotte, N. C.; Mrs. C. J. Strom, Miss Margaret Jennings and Mrs. Mart Jennings of Augusta; T. B. Spencer of Chester; J. H. Spencer of Greenville; W. H. Spencer and P. W. Spencer of Leslie; S. R. Spencer of Rock Hill and J. T. Spencer of Leslie.

The parlor was decorated in a color scheme of white and green. At one side of the room facing the door was erected a temporary altar covered in white, while the walls to the back were a bank of Southern smilax and white wedding bells.

Immediately following the ceremony there was held a reception for the wedding party. Receiving at the front door were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones. From here the guests were ushered to the parlor, where they were met by Mrs. J. R. Unger, who presented them to the receiving line, composed of Mrs. W. T. Tarrant, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Cartledge, T. B. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Tarrant, J. H. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. I. Edwards, W. H. Spencer, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Huiet, P. W. Spencer, Mrs. E. S. Rawl, S. R. Spencer, Mrs. C. J. Strom, J. T. Spencer and Miss Margaret Spencer.

In the front hall, which was beautifully decorated in Southern smilax and red hearts, Miss Kathleen Tarrant and Miss Amine Cartledge presided at the registers, while at the arch just back of this hall the guests were met by Miss Edna Bates and Mrs. T. D. Payne of Charlotte. The guests were in turn presented to Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jones, who received in the present room. From here the guests were invited into the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor. In the dining room Mrs. J. B. Hollman and Miss Katherine Cullum presided. Here a salad course was served by Misses Grace Buster, Annie Rutland, Myra Steadman and Rosa Mahaffey. As the guests passed from the dining room favors in the shape of hand painted hearts bearing in the corners the initials of the brides and grooms and on the bottom the date 11-12-13 were pinned on by Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Gibson. In the back hall coffee and tea were served by Mrs. J. A. Watson and Mrs. A. S. Jones.

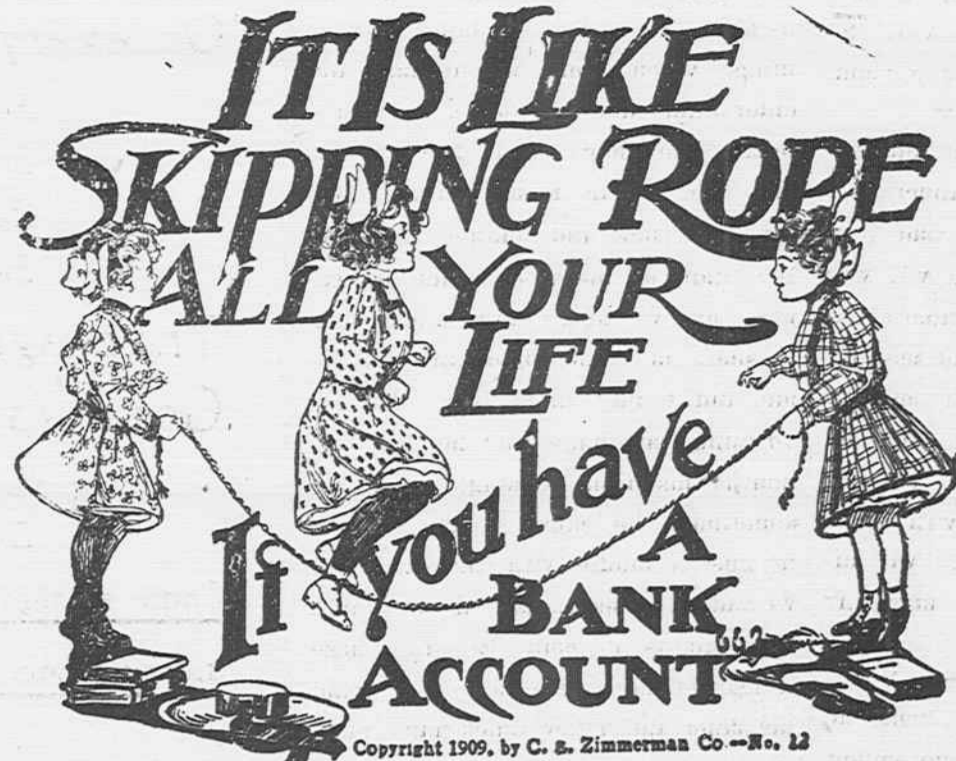

The brides are among the most popular of the Batesburg younger set and have a score of friends who wish them much happiness. Dr. Spencer is a dentist of Bennettsville and is secretary of the State Dental Examining board. Mr. Cartledge is connected with the Batesburg Cotton Oil company and is known in the State.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Cartledge left for a trip through Florida, while Mr. and Mrs. Spencer left for points North. After their return Mr. and Mrs. Cartledge will be at home in Batesburg to their many friends and Dr. and Mrs. Spencer will be at their home
