VARIOUS AND ALL ABOUT.

Solicitor Cooper is out with the statement reiterating his candidacy for governor.

The Woman's Missionary Rally Day, as announced at Ebenezer church for the 5th Sunday, has been postponed until some later date.

The jurors are all dismissed at the court of general sessions until Friday morning 9:30 o'clock, observing Thanksgiving Thursday.

Mr. T. L. B. Epps is the newly-elected keeper of the county home, with Drs. F. D. Mower and W. E. Pelham, Jr., physicians.

The number 13 will no longer be considered unlucky by Alderman-elect J. R. Green. He beat his opponent in the town election Tuesday by 13 votes.

Improved very much is the front appearance of Dr. J. A. Meldau's residence lot by the change in the fencing arrangement to correspond with the postoffice building.

Greenwood Journal says the parcel post is destined to reach enormous proportions and will not be long about it, and that the Christmas work is destined to be something prodigious.

Henry Wells told you the talking pictures would please you. They did. The pictures were marvelous, wonderful, best ever seen in Newberry. A good crowd saw them.

Col. E. H. Aull, Governor Cole, L. Blease and Assistant Attorney General Dominick are expected to speak at the great meeting of Red Men in Greenville Thanksgiving day. They are all big Red Men.

The Newberry Drug company has been chartered with a capital stock of $5,000. Officers are W. O. Miller, president; E. E. Stuck, vice-president; J. W. Johnson, secretary, and J. E. Stokes, treasurer.

The last few fires haven't amounted to much. The whistle, though, has to blow as loudly and shriek as wildly at the start for a little blaze in a small house as for a large fire at a big place.

Mr. G. V. Boozer found a set of false teeth on the outside of his blacksmith shop. The owner can get the same by applying as nobody but the owner would claim a set of false teeth. It is a good set and evidently belongs to a lady.

Williams and Curran comedy entertainers, will be at the Newberry opera house Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, with matinee Friday and Saturday afternoons. These comedians are "exceptionally clever entertainers."

Recorder Earhardt at city court Wednesday morning sentenced Nick Bowman, colored, to pay a fine of $25 or serve 30 days for drunkenness. The recorder was heavy in his sentence because of the fact that Bowman has been a persistent offender in this direction.

Recorder Joan W. Earhardt had some business on hand Monday morning. He handled the following case. Jas. Wilson, for being drunk and disorderly, $20. Jno. C. Hipp, for whipping two negroes, $10 each. Jule Rion, disturbance at church, $5. One case of drunk, colored, $5. All paid.

Purcell & Scott's store was broken into the other night, the thief entering through a window. Some small change and a few small articles were taken, including a magazine pistol. The C. N. & L. freight office was also broken into, the robber breaking a pane to get his hand on the latch. Mostly pennies, were the missing articles.

The following clipped from the San Francisco Call, furnishes a very clever illustration of the incongruities of our English language, and easily accounts for difficulties encountered by many foreigners in trying to master our language:

We'll begin with a box, and the plural is boxes, But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes; Then one fowl is goose, but two are called geese, Yet the plural of moose should never be meese; You may find a lone mouse or a whole lot of mice, But the plural of house is hotises, not hlice. But the plural of man is always called men. Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen? The cow in plural may be cows or kine, But a bow if repeated is never called bine. And the plural of vow is vows, not vine.

And if I speak of a foot and you show me your feet. And I give you a boot, would a pair be called beet? If one is a tooth and the whole set are teeth? Why shouldn't the plural of booth be called beeth? If the singular is this and the plural is these, Should the plural of kiss be nicknamed keese? Then one may be that, and three would be those. Yet hat in the plural would never be hose, And the plural of rat is rats, not rose. Then masculine pronouns are, he, his and him. But imagine the feminine, she, shis and shim. So English, I think, you all will agree, Is the most wonderful language you ever did see.

He has consequently removed to Columbia, where his offices are located in the Palmetto building. Mr. Norris is a thoroughly well-posted life underwriter, popular and energetic, and his successful conduct of the Manhattan's general agency is a foregone conclusion.

Help Your Favorite to Win

E. M. Lane & Co., Gilder & Weeks and J. T. Mayes & Co.

are Demonstrating Their Generosity by Giving Special prizes This Week.

Misses Louise and Vida Counts and Mrs. Geo. Senn won the special prizes last week given by Copeland Bros., O. and T. E. Salter and Robinson's 5 and 10 cent store. Misses Katie Spence and Louise Melton tied for the close run on third place. This week is like another puzzle—who will win the special prizes?

Every contestant is a "live wire". When a young lady stops trying we take her name from the list—for who wants to waste their perfectly good votes on a "dead one". Any one in the list below has a fair chance of winning and is putting forth every effort to head the list at the time of the final count—Friday 12 o'clock, December 19th.

Four Big Prizes.

There will be four lucky ones at the close as we are giving four valuable prizes, well worth anybody's effort and time to win. To make a one word description of each we would say "music," "comfort," "luxury" and "convenience."

Several ladies have been heard to express their desire for one of those second prize. The capital prize is an $800.00 H. P. Nelson Player piano, which is tunefully reposing in the pharmacy of Gilder & Weeks. The boys in the drug store say they hate to see that piano leave but Friday, December 19th, it will have to bid farewell to its present home and leave for the home of some happy contestant.

Now who is going to be that extremely happy contestant. Your subscription or advertising or job printing may be the means of securing this capital prize for your favorite.

Notice to Merchants.

When your work has been solicited and you promise to give her the votes when you pay for same, don't neglect to do so, and just pay at the office, without telling the manager who you want to have the votes; but say "this work was solicited by Miss or Mrs. ———— and I wish her to have the benefit of it, here is my check." A better plan is to buy these coupons from contestants and pay for your work with them as they are redeem-

"dear little wristlet watches" for a Christmas gift. If she be a contestant help her win the fourth prize.

Every lady has enough vanity about her to want to wear a diamond ring—if she has one she wants another—That diamond we are going to give as third prize is a beauty. It will be placed on exhibition next week.

Ask any of the ever accommodating clerks in West-Martin Furniture store to show you that handsome suit of solid quartered oak bed room furniture, valued at $100.00, to be given as Carolinians as Consuls.

Washington, November 24.—The senate today confirmed the nominations made by the president last week of South Carolinians for promotion in the consular service, namely: Julius D. Dreher, to be consul at Toronto, Canada; Lewis W. Haskell to be consul, at Belgrade, Serbia, and Douglas Jenkins to be consul at Riga, Russia.

able for their face value till December 31, 1915.

Merchants who advertise with The Herald and News will double their profit in advertising, as we expect to double our circulation. A merchant can not hope to reap much harvest from an advertisement planted in a newspaper that has a very small circulation—The Herald and News has always been able to boast of its splendid circulation but now by the efforts of the contestants the circulation is being doubled.

Three Special Offers.

First—"Job work or advertising." For every club of $25.00 in orders for job work or advertising to be done in the future, and not to count for work already done or contract advertisements, turned in, we will give 100,000 extra votes.

Second—"New subscriptions." For every club of fifteen one year new subscriptions we will give 75,000 extra votes.

Third—"Renewals." For every club of twenty-five one year renewals of subscriptions, we will give 75,000 extra votes.

This Week's Special Prizes.

The three contestants turning in the most money by 12 o'clock Saturday, November 29, will receive the three prizes mentioned below.

Your choice of a fountain pen or box of stationery will be given by Gilder and Weeks.

E. M. Lane Grocery company is giving a prize consisting of assorted groceries, Chase and Sanborn's seal brand coffee and tea and Beacham's catchup.

The other prize is a sack of U. S. A. brand flour given by J. T. Mayes and Co.

These prizes are not given as 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, but the contestants have 1st, 2nd, and 3rd choice of the above prizes.
