A fellow is walking on dangerous ground when he talks a whole lot to one girl about another girl being so sweet.

A low stable that bursts right out on a corner close to a handsome public building is not an elevating sight in any city.

Mary Atwood, colored, for the leading of a disorderly life, was sentenced by Recorder Earhardt on Saturday $15 or 30 days.

C. J. Dunston is the winner of the beneficiary scholarship at the Citadel academy in Charleston. Good for Jack.

I believe that the country which God made is more beautiful than the city which man made.—First article of a little boy's creed in an exchange.

Dominick automobile repair shop will be removed on Wednesday to the rooms under the Savoy, occupied by the Harley-Davidson men.

Many people have seen that it is good to see Dr. F. C. Martin living in Newberry to look after their eyesight.

And while the Ford owner gets his rebate the Ford jokester swallows and looks wistful.—Greenville Piedmont. Yes, $50 is better than a joke in Newberry.

Beatriz Michelena is the queenly star of all this strenuous, dramatic, epochal turmoil.—Speaking of "The Lily of Poverty Flat," for Tuesday at the opera house.

The cooking for a big barbecue at Monck's Corner on September 6 will be done by Mr. Albert C. Sligh of Dyson. The 'cue fame of this former Newberrian is spreading in the land.

Emeline Counts, widow of Sim Counts, colored, died in Atlanta and the body was brought to Newberry for burial. The funeral service was held at Bethlehem Baptist church in this city on last Thursday.

The sore of "news" we like to hear is this: Mr. John Peterson, who carries the news, etc., on R. F. D. No. 2, says that Mr. John Norris has enough of last year's corn in his crib to last until Christmas.

Recorder Earhardt stuck it to Abraham Green on Monday for transporting liquor. Abraham pleaded guilty, but as it was his second offense the recorder made it $100 or 30 days. When we got the news Abraham hadn't paid.

A little girl picked up a copy of The Herald and News recently and ran to her mother, saying, "Oh! Mamma; Roosevelt had a fight with Wilson." She had read the headline, "Roosevelt Hits Wilson."

Between the beginning and the end, "The Lily of Poverty Flat" is richly studded with most varied, picturesque and exciting thrills. The story is full of dramatic force. See it on Tuesday at the opera house.

The mayors of South Carolina are invited to assemble with their wives at the Jefferson hotel in Columbia to attend a complimentary breakfast on the opening day of the State fair and harvest jubilee, October 29.—Newberry won't have a front seat in the picture.

Agent T. S. Lefler says the Southern excursion to Columbia on Thursday will not be a repetition of the former excursion. He will personally conduct it and accompany the train to Columbia, seeing that there are enough coaches to accommodate the people all along the line, comfortably.

Beatriz Michelena, one of the most beautiful girls in the world, grand opera star and exquisite actress, a "native daughter," appearing in a motion picture made in California, based on a story by Bret Harte, the man who, in the literary sense, put California on the map, with the feature distributed by the World Film corporation. Opera house on Tuesday, in "The Lily of Poverty Flat."

Death of a Boy.

Lee Gray Adams, 6 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Adams of West End, died early on Saturday morning of mumps and tonsillitis, and was buried at West End cemetery on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, service by the Rev. Gobe Smith.

BETTER SERVICE

Manager H. B. Wells Announces That He Will Improve Service at the Opera House.

Manager H. B. Wells on Saturday returned from Atlanta, where he spent several days in the interest of his moving picture service, which will be improved. Notwithstanding he has been told by outside parties that they wouldn't go to the expense of improving the service unless there was an opposition theatre, Mr. Wells shows that he wants to give the best just as though he had opposition, and some pictures are shown in Atlanta and other large cities that he would not allow in Newberry. His desire is to give a fine, clean show. To that end he has arranged for the following:

Wednesdays—Three reel features divided between Edison and Kalem films.

Tuesdays—World feature films in five reels, as usual.

Wednesdays—"The Hazards of Helen." Admirers of Helen Holmes will take notice of the change to Wednesdays. Other pictures also will be shown Wednesdays.

Thursdays—Vitagraph and Essanay, alternating.

Fridays—V. L. S. E., alternating, which means Vitagraph, Lubin, Selig and Essanay. This is the greatest and richest combination of moving picture houses in the world, and as the films are high Mr. Wells will have to make a small advance in the price for Friday nights, which will hereafter be 10 and 15 cents. Prices for the afternoon shows will remain the same, 5 and 10 cents. This latter arrangement is made for the accommodation of grown people who prefer paying the 10 cents.

Saturdays—Beginning the latter part of next month, alternating pictures will be between Knickerbocker and Lubin. There will be the usual Ham and Bud features as usual. As the booking houses are closed temporarily there is no vaudeville available at present.

On account of feature pictures not appealing to children Mr. Wells will run his regular program on Fridays from 3 to 4 for children under 12, who will be admitted free as usual.

What Makes the Clock Go?

We have mentioned the mysterious clock at Mays' drug store. It is said that one of these clocks has been running 39 months. The mystery is, what makes it go? It is a case of perpetual motion. Seemingly all the mechanism of the clock is a glass dial with the hour marked thereon, and two hands marking off the minutes and the hours. A magnetic compass is attached to one of the hands, and the clock itself finds the correct time and keeps it.

The man who gave us the above information, also has given us the following explanation as to what makes the clock go:

"There are no pendulous oscillations cognizable, but the elongated indicators of aluminum construction perambulates a circumscribed radius with a circumferential activity, thereby registering accurately the subdivisions of its circumference. The energizing impulse necessary to accomplish the resultant activity is not sufficiently accelerated to destroy the molecular cohesion of its atomic constituents. Its synchronization is promulgated by the dissemination of actinic rays, and the nocturnal and diurnal deflections are equalized by contraction and expansion."

Special Services at Lebanon.

A series of special services at Lebanon church ended last Thursday night. On Sunday toward the middle of the meetings, the annual celebration of Children's day took place. The marked interest that the children took in these exercises, together with the Christian activity of adult members of both the Sunday school and the church who are now piloting the church along, and the increased attendance to the special services throughout the community and also of surrounding communities strengthens the evidence that Lebanon church has lived, is living and shall be.

The chief feature of these special services was the preaching of the pastor, Rev. W. R. Bouknight, who handed out the gospel to the people in simple and plain language. The arguments of the pastor upholding the nearer perfect lives people should live were convincing and therefore, were effective in the minds of many of the people. During the meetings there were twenty conversions and four added to the membership of the church.

The pastor has done much work during the last two months. At three of his other churches on the circuit he has held special services, doing a good deal of the preaching. When he started at Lebanon church he seemed not to be "fagged out" yet, for the much good accomplished was in evidence.

H. L. S.

REV. J. E. JOHNSTON DIES SUDDENLY AT PHOENIX

Beloved Minister Passes Away—Funeral at Damascus Saturday Afternoon.

Greenwood Journal.

His friends in Greenwood were greatly shocked this morning to learn of the sudden death of Rev. J. E. Johnston at 12 o'clock last night at his home near Phoenix. Mr. Johnston, with a number of his neighbors, had gone to the assistance of Mr. Jeff Witt in the attempt to extinguish a fire in the latter's residence and died while on his way to the well on his own piazza for a bucket of water. He fell as he climbed the steps and expired almost instantly. Dr. Pratt Henderson, who was only a few feet distant, rushed to his assistance, but found him dead.

The funeral services were conducted at the residence Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Dr. E. J. Smith and interment made in the Ninety Six cemetery at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Johnston was one of the best-known Baptist ministers of this section of the State. He had served six years as pastor of Bold Spring, Damascus and Mount Moriah churches and during that time had made friends of all his acquaintances of all denominations throughout the country. He was a good preacher and a universally beloved man. His death has cast a gloom over the section of the country where he was held in the highest esteem.

Mr. Johnston was a native of Newberry county, having been born near Bush River church 46 years ago last October. He married Miss Ellen Suber of Newberry, and is survived by her and one son, J. E., Jr., who is 14 years of age.

Mr. Johnston received his collegiate education at Furman university and was later graduated from the Baptist Theological seminary at Louisville, Ky.

Sudden Death of Rev. J. E. Johnson. Greenwood Journal.

The sudden death of Rev. J. E. Johnson, on last Thursday night, at his home near Phoenix, in this county, came as a shock to his many friends and admirers in the city and county. He was a man of good parts, and had a strong hold upon the churches that he served, and upon the people in the communities where these churches are located, without respect to their denominational affiliations. He was doing what many preachers who serve country churches do not do these days. He lived in the country among his people, and in this way became thoroughly identified with them.

He had good opportunities for special training, having been a student of both Furman university at Greenville and the Southern Baptist Theological seminary at Louisville, Ky.

He was a god man, filling a very important pastorate. His losses, not only to the churches that he served, but to the county and to the State, is great. It will be no easy matter to fill his place. His people will greatly miss him, as he was the one to whom they looked for comfort in times of sorrow and bereavement, and who was ready at all times to share with them the pleasant things of life.

It is a rather remarkable coincidence that his predecessor, Rev. J. S. Jordan, who served the churches to which he was preaching, and who lived in the same community, died suddenly. He, too, was stricken while in apparently good health and passed away in a very short while.

Funeral of Rev. J. E. Johnson.

A large number of sorrowing friends attended the funeral of Rev. J. E. Johnson at the Ninety Six cemetery this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Dr. E. J. Smith conducted the services. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.—Greenwood Journal. An account of the death of the Rev. Mr. Johnson, as well as a tribute from the Greenwood Journal, are to be found in this issue of The Herald and News. The relatives and friends in Newberry, the former home county of the deceased, are deeply grieved at the sudden death of this good man and minister.

Death of a Little Boy.

Homer Y. Shealy, aged five and a half years, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shealy of near Mollohon, died of typhoid fever on Saturday night and was buried at Rosemount on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Service by the Rev. Dr. A. J. Bowers.

Hotel Changes Hands.

The Newberry hotel is to pass under new management on September 1. C. P. Pelham, who has had charge for several years, will go on the road for a tobacco house, and W. W. Bullock, a well known traveling man, will succeed him at the Newberry. Mr. Bullock will give the house a complete overhauling and will make it attractive to the traveling public.

Death in Atlanta of Newberry Lady.

Mrs. Elizabeth Epting Dickert, widow of W. H. Dickert, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James F. Edens, in Atlanta, on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, at the age of 75 years, after a lingering illness since the death of her husband, who was buried in Newberry on the 8th of last, February. Mrs. Dickert's body was brought to Newberry on Monday and carried from the 12:15 Southern train to Rosemont cemetery, where it was buried by the side of Mr. Dickert's grave, service by the Rev. Edw. Fulewider, the following acting as pallbearers: J. D. Wheeler, G. B. Sumner, R. T. Caldwell, L. I. Epting, J. B. O'Neill Holway and T. J. Hayes.

Mrs. Dickert was the daughter of the late Capt. George and Elizabeth Epting and was born and reared three miles below Little Mountain, in Lexington county. She lived for years in this city with her family, when Mr. Dickert was in business here, before removing to Atlanta. Mrs. Dickert and the family made many friends here. She leaves nine children, thirty grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, besides a large circle of other relatives. Her surviving sons and daughters are as follows: Messrs. David M. and Jeff Dickert, Mesdames Mary Boinest, Sarah Spense, Lottie Ethridge and James Eden, all of Atlanta; Messrs. George and Lee Dickert of Macon, Ga., Mr. D. C. Dickert of Alexandria, Va.

She is survived also by four sisters and one brother, namely, Mrs. David Boland of Little Mountain, Mrs. Noah Sease of Chapin, Mrs. Adam Hipp of Columbia, Mrs. Martha Sumner of Newberry and Mr. John Epting of Little Mountain.

Still Inventing.

Mr. J. J. Eargle, expert machinist and Newberry's inventive specialist, will retire from the active business of a machine shop and devote his time to his inventions. Ever since people saw that fine miniature locomotive engine constructed by Mr. Eargle they realized that he had inventive genius as well as mechanical ingenuity, which time has proved. The Herald and News lately spoke of his improved cultivator. He has also invented a lamp chimney which will prove to be as great an improvement on that necessary and useful article of household utensils (aside from the electric light) as the lamp was over the tallow candle. The virtue which carries importance and benefit with the use of Mr. Eargle's chimney is in the groove that fits the burner to perfection. The chimney is held so securely to the lamp that it will not fall off even when held upside down. There will be no toppling over of chimneys, as is the case with the straight ones now in use. In breakage alone the new lamp chimney will be a great saving, to say nothing of the comfort and convenience of its security.
