A Duel in Words.

The columns of the News and Courier have for some time past been the battleground of a desperate, bloodless, encounter between Capt. B. R. Tillman and Mr. L. A. Ransom, clerk in the Department of Agriculture and correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle. The weapons used were only words, which appear harmless, but in the hands of such ferocious antagonists they proved formidable weapons indeed. Both showed themselves adepts in the use of the scurrilous adjective, and they were handled with a will, in the true Macbeth spirit.

The cause of the strife was one of Capt. Tillman's numerous attacks on the Agricultural Department. Mr. Ransom volunteered a reply, at the same time roundly berating our Moses. This aroused his ire, and he reported that the clerk had "sold his principles for an insignificant public position; had repeated lying rumors concerning him, and had prostituted his position as a journalist. The clerk then came to the front, and with a flourish of trumpets, in thunder tones proclaimed, "Douglas, you lie." Our Moses shook in his lair, but thrusting away his combative spirit, replied that there was a time when a challenge would have answered the haughty Marmion's insolence. Now, he said, it was neither safe nor honorable to fight a duel in South Carolina; adding that it would be cowardly to strike Mr. Ransom, who was much his inferior in strength.

This ended the cross firing of naughty words. Mr. Ransom came out in the Monday's Courier with an article replete with logic and good sense, rebutting the arguments used by Mr. Tillman. Referring to the charge that the taxes for State purposes were $320,000 more in 1885 than in 1880, Mr. Ransom says:

"While I have had no discussion with him, I have taken the pains to see how far this charge can be sustained. I find that it must go the way of all others. He said that the taxes for State purposes were $320,000 more in 1885 than in 1880, and adds that he is relying on the comptroller general's reports to sustain the assertion. I have obtained from the comptroller's office statements showing the expenditures of various purposes for the fiscal years 1879-80 and 1884-85, from which it appears that these expenditures for 1879-80 amounted to $791,700.85 and for 1884-85 to $883,915.90, the difference being $92,215.05. The increase is due to the improvements on the State House, the appropriations to the University and Citadel, and the election expenses. Capt Tillman, therefore, only made a mistake of $27,785.05 in $320,000." The public enjoys pithy, sprightly controversies in newspapers on interesting questions, but when the controversy reaches a stage of virulent abuse and billingsgate, as was exhibited at one time in this instance, we think that the good morals and welfare of the country require that the columns of a public journal should be closed.

Justly Honored.

Capt. F. W. Dawson, the talented editor of the News and Courier is on a visit North, and we are glad to see that he is receiving there, the honors his profound attainments and recent gigantic work for Charleston so justly entitle him to. The News and Courier, with its able leader at its head, has done more for the "City by the Sea" than she will ever be able to repay. In the twinkling of an eye this happy, flourishing place was made almost a wreck. Ruin was on all sides, and its citizens had sunk into a state of despondence and hopeless despair. But when hope was gone, the News and Courier appeared as a beacon light. Amid obstacles insurmountable to any mind, not compounded with nature's noblest and sternest elements, the News and Courier came forth every morning, bright and hopeful, cheering and encouraging the stricken, sorrowing people. And through this powerful agency the citizens of Charleston are regaining confidence and returning to work. With such a hero in their midst as the earthquake has developed in the helmsman of the News and Courier, we may expect to see Charleston soon regain her pristine place among the commercial cities of the South.

Charleston and the State at large feel and appreciate the heroic services of Capt. Dawson, and his able staff in this late disaster.

Northern papers and people unite in bestowing upon him and his paper, unbounded praise.

TAKE CARE OF HOME.

As a sequel to what we wrote last week in reference to the commercial needs of Manning, we desire to bring to the attention of the citizens of Clarendon the importance of patronizing the industries within the borders of their own county.

The counties are separated by plain geographical lines, and with local governments distinct, they are, to all intents and purposes, in relation to each other, independent principalities. Each has its own resources, and is dependent upon its population for support and prosperity; and a rich county speaks unmistakably a thrifty prospering people. What is most needed to improve Clarendon, and at the same time to benefit our own condition is the more generous patronage of the home interests and enterprises. Seek your own merchants, mechanics and other trades at home for the necessities and enjoyments of life. Our money should be kept here, and passing from hand to hand, leaves its benefits to the general good. But when taken away from home and spent at other parts for what is kept in our neighbors' store, its benefits are gone from us, our county, and enriches the coffers of the stranger. And the merchant next door, every cent of whose money is invested here among us, to our gain, loses by the transaction. Stay at home to buy, stay at home to sell. Here, in Manning, can be found a ready market to dispose of the farm produce; and where can be found better opportunities to trade? We have a number of merchants whose fine stores and immense stocks of goods, stand in bold prominence, inviting the inspection of the public.

These are home industries that demand our patronage. If the merchant grows rich, the town in which he lives shares in his prosperity. And we cannot have a well to do town without the county at large enjoying its advantages.

It is a costly error, spending our money away from home, where its benefits are lost entirely.

Labor Unions.

The Williamsburg Herald, first copying from the Times on this subject, says:

We have expected that the agitation of the question of labor and capital would affect us here in South Carolina. The field is certainly inviting. Their ignorance and the prejudice they undoubtedly entertain towards their former masters make it easy for any one to play the demagogue to the colored people in anything arraying them against the whites. And under the existing state of things in the South an organization of labor against capital would be about the same as an organization of the blacks against the whites.

But while the field is most inviting for such a movement, in no land has it been less called for. Labor may not be as highly paid for here as in some other places, for we are all poor in the South; but the proportion and profit between capital and labor is as equitable as in any other country. Wages have kept the standard in spite of financial depression, and have been increased. Take the instance of the cotton picking. The same is given now for picking that was given years ago when cotton brought a higher price. The same money, it must also be noted, will purchase more now than it would then. Certainly as laborers the negroes of the South have no right to complain of the pay they receive for their work. The thrifty among them are all acquiring property; only those who are too lazy to work or who spend their earnings "for that which is not meat" are destitute.

Men who come among them inciting them against the whites are their worst enemies, and this they will one day discover if they follow their teachings. Such men, who take advantage of the ignorance and prejudice of these people, and work upon the credulity which welcomed the "forty acres and a mule," are unfit to bless any community with their presence. They should at once be made to understand that this sort of thing will not be allowed. And as the Times remarks, "There is no better time to take these things in hand than in the beginning, before they have taken hold upon the mind of the ignorant laborer and injected too deeply the poison of discontent."

Wiggins' Predictions.

THE PROFESSOR EXPLAINS.

Ottawa, September 28.—Wiggins has issued the following address: To the people of the United States:—The prediction published in the New York press, and asserted to be mine, that a great earthquake will devastate New Orleans, Galveston and other Southern cities along and South of the thirtieth parallel on Wednesday, the 29th inst., is a falsehood. It was originated here by their own correspondents and for their own purpose. I never received any reward except unobstanted abuse for weather or other predictions, my sole object being to protect public property and save human life, and in this I have treated the United States, the home of my ancestors, the same as my own country. Two years ago I foresaw that a great storm would occur in the North and South Atlantic from Sept. 29th to Oct. 1st, 1886, and that an earthquake period would occur in America from August 25 to October 15, the greatest strain being on Sept. 29, South of the thirtieth parallel of North latitude, and so made my report to the Canadian government. This is the sum and substance of my prediction and of my knowledge on the subject, and the newspaper talk of devastation of States, swallowing up of cities, and of ruin generally, has originated with the New York press, for their own advantage and to frighten religious and other lunatics throughout the United States, at the same time abusing me personally. After having saved the lives and vessels of the Gloucester fishing fleet in March, 1883, when the Hull fishing fleet, which launched at my prediction, was lost, I think you will say I am deserving of better treatment. But this will not again occur. Only one newspaper in New York, which I will select, will in future publish my predictions, and then only over my own signature. The New York Herald gives at my name, but it should remember that it was a Governor of Massachusetts, a Wiggins, and my own ancestor, who first raised the standard of American freedom.
