The streets were lively all day with amusing scenes enacted by our color- CHARLESTON, S. C. ed population. The most perfect good humor prevailed among them 'till towards 3 o'clock, when the Xmas whiskey began to take effect. Of course they quarreled, and then a general rough and tumble fight ensued. Pistols were brought out, but they wouldn't fire, and with the exception of several broken noses and battered heads, nobody was hurt. We understand several of the parties have been reported to the Town Council, but as it was Xmas and no special harm done, we hope they will be let off with a reprimand.

The small boys' fun was heightened by masquerade riders of both classes. The day closed with a pleasant party at Mr. J. S. Plowden's.

No doubt the Fair this season will be nore successful than any in the past. Extensive preparations are being made on a large scale to entertain the visitors who expect to attend the Fair.

In addition to the above attraction I will take pleasure in entertaining visitors at the Emporium of Fashion, with an exhibition c'epartment consists of shirts, laundried and unlaundried, of every description, half hose in plain and fancy, collars, cuffs, gloves. handkerchiefs, suspenders, and an elegant line of gents' neck-wear.

To your left is the hat department, where of soft and stiff hats, awaiting your inspect-ion; also a beautiful line of silk umbrellas, with gold and silver handles.

Then in the center of this large store you will find the counters loaded with choice suits for men and youths, of every style, pattern, and quality of goods.

Near the center you come to the cutaway suits, in whip cord, cork screw, cheviots and fancy cassimeres.

Then still moving on you come to the counters filled with double breasted frock coats and vests. After passing this stock you are lead into the boys' department, which is entirely separate from the other department. This stock of boys and children's clothing is not surpassed by any in the city or State. The display far exceeds any of my past endeavors in making this attraction for the boys and their mothers. The styles and textures of these goods can not be found elsewhere in the city. Those who have visited this department are more than pleased with the stock. Just opposite to the boys' department you will find a line of gents' fine shoes, which can be had in any style or shape that you may need. I keep none but the leading makes in this stock. Remember you can find them in all grades. Those who want fine shoes will
