FEARFUL LOSS OF LIFE.

ONE HUNDRED AND NINETEEN MIN-ERS KILLED BY AN EXPLOSION.

Springhill, Nova Scotia, Thrown into fully Mutilated-Fifty-three Widows and 157 Children Left Unprovided for.

SPRINGHILL, MINES, N. S., Feb. 23. -An explosion occurred in the mines of this place yesterday. At midnight muebe 117. A largely attended public meeting was held last evening and arrangements for a public funeral on Tuesday were completed. Chief Inspector Gilpin arrived vesterday morning, accompanied by Madden and went down into the Mr. Gilpin says so far as the evidence shows the explosion occurred in either No. 7 or 6 balances, and that the force of the explosion in these balances is very great. Most of the timbers were knocked out, allowing the roof to fall, breaking boxes and mutilating men and horses. Tow small fires were smouldering in the debris, but were extinguished at once without any difficulty by the

The explosion, Mr. Gilpin says, did very little damage to property in No. 7 slope, having extended but a short distance beyond the tunnel, and all the deaths in that slope were from suffocation by fire damp. Manager Swift was at the bottom of No. 1 slope about fifteen minutes before the explosion occurred, and intimated to one of the roadsmen that he was going into the place were the explosion occurred. He has not been seen since; probably his body will be recovered when some of the debris is

A boy named Boaton heard the explosion and rushed off to the place where e knew his brother was at work and succeeded in carrying him out uninjured. His heroism is one of the chief topics of conversation. There were plenty of volunteers to search for all the bodies. Men who came to the pit as spectators divested themselves of their rescue of their fellow workmen. Many ghastly scenes were to be seen, both ou the surface and underground. Several of the bodies were so fearfully mutilated that they were placed in bags and brought up to the surface. The explosion is more disastrous to life than any other in the history of coal mining on this continent, It is a singular coincidence that the loss of life equals that of both the Ford pit and Drummond colliery explosions. The number of lives lost at the Ford pit wastifty-three, and Drummond sixty-four. The list of dead reaches 119, of whom fifty-four were married, forty single and twenty-five boys. Ninety-seven bodies have been taken out; 161 children were have been taken out; 161 children were of the centre of the present census year rake the days for the appropriation prevails. in the provisions of this section of the Constitution.

The report, after referring to the constitutions of Massachusetts and Mississippi, says that the fourteenth amendment is broad and comprehensive in its terms whenever the right to vote of any male citizen of any State over twenty-one years of age, and not abridged by crime is denied.

The attention of the committee, the report says, has been called to the legis-The hands, which are as small as a woresources the cry of humanity is going no special attention has been given

A minority report, signed by Messrs Oats, Culbertson, Henderson, Wilson mittee in their report assume that twenty-one years of age, and not disfranchised for crime, are by the constitrade and commerce and withdreaw from the body politic the circulating medium right to vote. This may be true, but we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that the constitution of Mississippi has not gone into operation, and that there is no law by which the committee can legally ascertain the number of voters disfranchised. There has never been any legislation by Congress providing means by which there may be grave matter. Legal proof must be had to a reasonable certainty, and until such legislation is enacted it is utterly futile to adopt a resolution such as re-

Mr. Rodgers reviews the constitutions little sister, Idaho, who was brought into Statehood by this Congress under a cloud of disloyalty to the constitution, after long labor and successful performance of the Casarean operation by the Speaker, now known as "counting a constitutional quorum," and now stands most prominent and deserving of the consideration of the majority of
