

Bill Arp's Baby Girl Goes to College. These are solemn times now—there is nobody dead or dying, but there is a lost child, and that is nearly as sad. We know where she is, for we sent her there; but it is hard on the old folks to send their youngest child away, especially when she is a girl and the last of the litter. It took us a few days to realize that she had gone. Sometimes she goes to spend a night with a schoolmate, and it seemed like she was there and would soon come back, but she doesn't. Her piano is closed, and its dark rose-wood case looks darker now. There is a feeling of sadness around the house. The sewing machine is having a rest, for she made her own clothes, and she cleans up the house and sets the table and lights the lamps and helps her mother, and when the cook quits she can make as good a biscuit as I can. She loves her home and loves me, and when I am grumpy or sad she knows it and rubs my head with cologne and combs my back hair and cheers me up, and I get well, but I am sick right now and she is not here.

Too Much Ice Water. "The funniest experience I ever had," said Colonel L. A. Leonard, of Cincinnati, recently to a Morning Journal man, "was during a visit I recently made to New York in company with my sister. We went to the Grand Union hotel, and I requested the clerk to give us a couple of adjoining rooms. I understood the clerk to say that we were assigned to rooms Nos. 98 and 101. We were conducted to the rooms, and I was shown to No. 99. Shortly afterward my sister informed me that she could not succeed in getting any one to answer the bell, and requested me to ring mine and order a pitcher of ice water for her. I rang and requested the boy who responded to take a pitcher of ice water to room No. 101. Before going down stairs, a few minutes later, I asked my sister if she had received the ice water, and was informed that she had not. I rang again and told the second boy to take a pitcher of ice water to room No. 101. I went below and soon returned, and was surprised to learn that no ice water had been delivered in my sister's room. "By that time I was interested and told my sister that I would see that she got some ice water if I had to go after it myself. So I rang once more and told the bell boy that a pitcher of ice water must be taken to room No. 101 right away, and he said that he would surely attend to it. After waiting some time I made inquiry of my sister again, and she said no ice water had come, and begged me not to bother myself about it, as it seemed to be a hopeless task. But I replied that water was cheap, and she should have some sure. I went to the person in charge of our corridor and preferred a request that a pitcher of ice water be sent to room No. 101. I received a promise that it should be attended to instantly. But it wasn't. My next attempt was to prevail upon the elevator boy to take a pitcher of ice water to room No. 101. He declared that he would do so on the next trip. He failed. In despair I went to the office of the hotel and asked the clerk if it were possible to have a pitcher of ice water sent to room No. 101. "Certainly," was the answer; "that can be done without any trouble." I have been trying to have it done ever since I came here, and I haven't made the rifle yet," I said, "and if it is a possible thing I would like to have it done." "Later I stepped into the elevator, and the boy there asked me if I were going up to the 101 floor. "Yes, I responded. "Why? "A hundred and one will throw you out of the window if he catches you," said the boy. "What are you talking about? I asked. "Why, there is a bride in a room in 101, and you have been firing ice water into their room all the evening and the man is wild. He swears he will murder you." "Upon investigation I found that my sister's room was not 101 at all but was 96. My room was 99, and, as my sister's room was next to it, I thought it was 101. There I had sent about ten pitchers of ice water to 101, and didn't know it. "I had left a call in the once or twice and 101 for 4 o'clock the next morning when I was down stairs last, and never thought to have it changed. So at 4 o'clock the bride and groom were awakened by a thundering knock at their door, which made them furious, and they were firmly persuaded that the early call was a part of the ice water fiend's scheme to annoy them. "I escaped with my life, and was glad of it." BUCKLE'S ARNICA SALVE. The most interesting case of the term was one against Senator L. S. Bigham, against whom there were two indictments, one charging him with assault with intent to kill and carrying concealed weapons, the other for forcible entry and detainer. The case is a family affair and grows out of a dispute concerning land between himself and his sister. There was quite an array of able lawyers in this case, Messrs. Woods & Wilcox and Harle & Hancel assisting the prosecution, and Johnson & Johnson for the defense. A great deal of interest was manifested by the business men of the city, and the court house was crowded during the entire hearing. Feeling ran pretty strong for and against the accused senator. There was a great deal of testimony that was very amusing to the spectators. Senator Bigham is a man with many striking peculiarities, and these were caricatured by the prosecuting witnesses. The case was a surprise to many, as the Senator was found guilty. The charge of assault and battery with intent to kill and carrying concealed weapons was continued. His sentence was thirty days in jail or $500 fine. The case was not pressed, they having agreed to close their places of business on Sunday and to remove the screens in front of their doors. When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
