

Manning, S. C.

LOUIS APPELT, Editor.

Wednesday, May 30, 1894.

The gubernatorial race in Georgia between Gen. Evans and Mr. Atkinson is interestingly close.

The Senate investigating committee has reported to the Senate that C. W. Buttz did offer to bribe Senators to vote against the pending tariff bill.

The State has put $30,000 in its treasury by the decision of the court making the tax-delinquent railroads pay the penalty for not paying up at the required time.

The Presbyterian General Assembly has vindicated Miss Sadie Means, the young lady that was disciplined in Columbia for working on Sundays in the telephone exchange.

The Voice of the People is a new reform newspaper in Newberry county. The paper is edited by Mr. F. V. Capers, an experienced journalist and one who has done valiant service for the cause. The paper is owned by a joint stock company of reformers, and we wish it success.

Senator Augustine T. Smyth, of Charleston, has resigned, and it is thought he will become a candidate for Congressional honors from the new first district. Solicitor Jervey has already announced his intention to make the race. Either of these gentlemen will give Charleston a first-class representative.

The News and Courier, in a labored editorial last Saturday pleads with the prohibitionists to let the liquor men alone. It says "there is little or nothing of good to be accomplished by stirring up further trouble and strife over the question of the liquor traffic. Matters are in a generally satisfactory shape as they are; the State is at peace." Of course, matters are in a generally satisfactory shape to that element who are engaged in the liquor traffic, and they will continue to be satisfied as long as they can continue the traffic without restriction and hindrance as in the case at present.

The question is put to us, why it is we do not urge the authorities to enforce prohibition? and our answer is whose duty it is to take the initiative step?

While the dispensary was in existence the prohibitionists were clamoring for total prohibition and said they would see to it that such a law was enforced. The opportunity is here, for it can be denied that liquor is sold in Manning every day and every night. The police know it, but they claim they have no instructions to stop it. The council know it, but claim their authority is questionable and the town can not afford to go into the courts. Under this condition of affairs it seems to us if the prohibitionists are sincere in wishing to drive the liquor traffic from the town they would take the legal steps to prohibit its sale.

A large number of people sincerely believe that the last decision of the Supreme Court put the State under a condition that makes it unlawful for a party to engage in the sale of liquor, but we cannot look at the decision through the same glasses. To our mind the decision prohibits incorporation of granting licenses for the sale of liquor, but nowhere in the decision can we find where parties are prohibited from selling liquor. We do not believe parties are violating the law of the land who are engaged in selling liquor, if the declaration of the court makes law. The court with all of its solemnity declared that a man has a right to engage in a lawful traffic unmolested, and that the liquor traffic is lawful; that before said traffic can be declared unlawful there must be a law making it so, and no such law exists in this State. Now what is to be done, is an enigma we can not solve. If a man is engaged in a lawful business, and the authorities are prohibited from granting a license, we do not see how the man can be interfered with, and he can sell as much liquor as can induce customers to buy regardless of the effect on the community without paying a cent for the privilege to State, county or town. We do not claim to know it all, and give our opinion for what it is worth.

Those desiring prohibition and professing to want the traffic in liquor stopped, especially those who believe it is unlawful to sell liquor, should come forward and make good their professions by putting the machinery of the law in operation. They fought the dispensary upon the claim of principle, but if they do not fight the present liquor traffic their claim of having fought for principle will be regarded as a cloak of deception and that instead of principle, politics was the ruling motive. It puts the advocates of prohibition and the liquor dealers in a compact to destroy the dispensary to gratify a political grudge and to restore the liquor dealers to the position they occupied before the dispensary law went into force.

We cannot, with consistency, fight the present liquor traffic, because we do not believe those engaged in the traffic are violating the law, and upon the same ground must we refrain from urging the authorities from enforcing prohibition. They are enforcing the only prohibition they are authorized to enforce, and that is the prohibition of granting licenses. The duty of bringing the matter to the attention of the courts falls upon those professing to believe we have prohibition, and are sincere in wanting prohibition enforced.

The account, as published in the Columbia Register, shows that the white people of Bluffton are sadly in need of assistance. It says there are about 150 white families on the verge of starvation.

For Governor, James E. Tindal. Who do the people want for Governor to succeed Governor Tillman, is the question now agitating the minds of many in and out of the State. The faction of the Democratic party in South Carolina known as Reformers are in control of the political machinery, and they secured that control after two of the fiercest contests ever known in the history of the State. The opposition did not take kindly to their defeat, and from the inception of Reform control to the present time, there has been a constant irritation between the two factions. The Reform Movement was put here to stay, and it will stay, unless the leaders lose sight of its principles and convert the Movement into a game of grab for leaves and fishes. We are about to have another campaign, and according to the action of the reform conference the members of the faction are to express their choice for Governor at the club meetings. In casting about for a proper man they should take into consideration services rendered, ability and fitness. They should look for a man who has the interest of the masses at heart; one whose whole life has shown his sincerity. The county convention held in Clarendon unanimously adopted resolutions endorsing Hon. James E. Tindal for Governor should be a candidate, and they requested him to make the race. As yet Mr. Tindal has not consented to make the race because he has always been opposed to entering a scramble for a public position. The people of Clarendon have called upon Mr. Tindal to stand for election, and they have a right to command his services. In calling upon him they realize the necessity of having a man at the head of the government who will so administer the office as to allay the bitterness now existing throughout the State, and bring the people back to that friendly feeling which existed prior to the revolution of 1860. They also realize the damage that is being done to the State by this constant warfare and believe if there is not something done to pacify matters and restore peace, the State will be permanently injured and the reform movement will go down in disgrace. We must not stop to ask which faction is doing the damage, but we should do our utmost to repair any damage done, and by doing so, the element of the faction who are sincere in their opposition will come to us and make the reform movement a shining example for other States to follow. In the name of the reformers of Clarendon we call upon James E. Tindal to announce his determination to enter the gubernatorial race, believing the people throughout the State will recognize the valuable service he has rendered the reform movement, his sincerity to better the condition of the masses and his ability to fill the gubernatorial chair with distinction and honor. They will also recognize in Mr. Tindal a man whose whole heart is set upon the rebuilding and success of the reform movement, and who has devoted years at a sacrifice to himself for the cause. Let the reformers throughout the State, when they go to the club meetings discuss the situation, and say whether or not the principles we fought so hard for, can be accomplished sooner by having a man at the lead whose ambition is to do the greatest good to the greatest number. Such a man is James E. Tindal, and we mistake the temper of the people if they are not casting about to place the reform standard in just such hands.

It is entirely unnecessary for us to inform the people of who James E. Tindal is; they know him and know his record as a private citizen, a churchman and a statesman. We will say that if he will enter the race we are satisfied his entrance will be received with delight by a majority of the true reformers in the State. We nominate James E. Tindal for Governor. Is there a second to the nomination?

Blood Poison After Approach of Death, Now Life by Taking Hood's.

Mr. Wm. E. Greenholts Baltimore, Md. "For four years I was in intense suffering with an abscess on my thigh. It discharged freely and several times. Pieces of Bone Came Out. Last February I had to take my bed for four weeks, and then it was I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I soon got on my feet, but was very weak and went to the Maryland University hospital, where they said my trouble was chronic blood poisoning and gave me little hope. I returned home and continued taking Hood's. I have used six bottles and the abscess has entirely disappeared, and I have been in fine health ever since. I know it had not been for Hood's Sarsaparilla I should be in my grave. I have gained in weight from 147 a year ago to 170 pounds to-day."
