FRIDAY IS NOT AN UNLUCKY DAY.

To Begin With, Columbus Started for America on a Friday, and all Sorts of Favorable Events are Connected With the Sixth Day of the Week.

He was an Englishman, as history informs us, who, being iconoclastically inclined, an enemy of superstition, risked his fortune and his life, and lost both, in an experiment to prove if friction the moss-grown superstition concerning Friday.

On Friday, August 21, 1492, Christopher Columbus first sailed upon his great voyage of discovery from Palos, in Spain. On the 11th day of September, which happened to be a Friday, while in mid-ocean, the consternation of his officers and men, the needs of the compass fluctuated and fell off in an inexplicable manner, and it was then that all but Columbus lost faith in the enterprise.

On Friday, January 14, 1493, he sailed on his return to Spain where he landed in safety on a Friday. On Friday, Nov. 22, 1492, he arrived at Hispaniola, on his second voyage to America. It was on Friday, June 13, 1494, that he discovered the continent of America.

Friday, September 7, 1505, Melendez founded St. Augustine, the oldest town in the United States by forty years.

Friday, November 10, 1620, the Mayflower with the Pilgrims, made the harbor of Provincetown, and on the same day signed the august compact, the forerunner of the American Constitution.

Friday, December 22, 1620, the Pilgrims made their final landing on Plymouth Rock.

George Washington was born on Friday, February 22, 1732, in Westmoreland county, Va., near the town of Stratford.

Bunker's Hill was seized and fortified on Friday, June 16, 1776.

Friday, October 7, 1777, the surrender of Saratoga was made, which had such power and influence in inducing France to declare herself in favor of our cause.

Friday, September 22, 1780, Arnold's treason was laid bare which saved us from our country from destruction.

Friday, July 7, 1776, the motion was made in Congress by John Adams and seconded by Richard Henry Lee that the United Colonies were, and of right ought to be, free and independent.

The first Masonic Lodge in North America was organized on Friday, November 20, 1721.

Bismark, Gladstone and Disraeli were born on Friday.

Friday, April 8, 1846, the first known newspaper advertisement was published in the Morning Post in England.
