The association met in the Presbyterian church last Friday afternoon and was conducted by Mr. Joseph Sprout, Jr., and Mr. Horton Rigby. An interesting and an appropriate talk was also given by Rev. Mr. McDowell on the sad and sudden death of Mr. Ned Harvin, one of the active and devoted members of the association. It was only the Sunday before that Mr. Nettles, while arguing upon his congregation to prepare for death, alluded to the number of sudden deaths that had recently occurred in our community, warning us of the uncertainty of life. The minister paused and asked: "Who next shall fall?" Mr. Harvin, in his strong robust manhood, as the words fell upon his ears, little thought that either he or his Sabbath school, his soul would appear at the bar of God—warned into eternity without a moments warning. The association will meet in the Baptist church next Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock and be conducted by Dr. G. L. Dickson and Mr. E. L. Wilson on the subject: "The joy of the Lord for his people."

E. D. HARVIN KILLED!

CRUSHED BENEATH CAR WHEELS IN SUMTER.

"The Lord Gareth and the Lord Taketh; Blessed Be the Name of the Lord."

Ned Harvin was run over by the mill train in Sumter and his leg cut off! He was the shocking news that reached here last Saturday evening while people were congregated at the post office waiting for their evening mail. At the announcement of this terrible news, a spontaneous prayer, "God have mercy!" went up from the hearts of all. The news of this terrible accident went flying about the town and in a few moments groups of men with interested eyes could be seen here and there discussing the fearful vision. Strong words were said which would talk about it, and the poor little parentless children were deeply sympathized with.

When the train arrived the details of the accident were learned. The train had started off from the Sumter depot, and Mr. Harvin, being a little late, anxious to get home to his children, undertook to catch it. He ran and caught up with the train, but for some reason he lost his footing and was thrown under the wheels, which passed over his leg leg in two places, severing the limb in two. The train was stopped almost immediately, and a colored physician who happened to be at the depot and saw the accident, ran to the unfortunate man, and with the assistance of others endeavored to arrest the flow of blood. He then was taken to the Jersey House, and all that skill and loving hearts could do, was done, but three o'clock, the Angel of Death came to him and relieved him of his suffering. We are informed that he came to consciousness for a short time, which was devoted to prayer for his children. The body was brought to Manning Sunday evening and was met at the depot by a large crowd of citizens. It was then taken to the home of the deceased, and on Monday morning the funeral took place in the Methodist church, of which he was a member. Rev. James McDowell conducted the service.

The funeral was largely attended. The deceased had a large family connection and a host of friends, and never have we witnessed a more touching procession. On arriving at the church, the magnificent casket covered with beautiful flowers, was borne by the pall-bearers, who were: J. H. Rigby, P. B. Monzon, F. O. Richardson, J. H. Lesseur, Dr. George C. Dickson, W. H. Rigby, Dr. C. W. Barron, A. B. Galloway.

Following the casket was the aged mother and two of the deceased's children and the large number of relatives. A heart of stone would have melted at that eighty-year-old mother followed up the aisle her baby-boy, and the now parentless children as their little hearts gave way to sobs of agony. The church was full, not only with people, but with sorrow.

Mr. McDowell opened the service with hymn 619.

He then read various appropriate passages of scripture, and at the close he offered up a most touching and beautiful prayer.

The friends and comrades of Col. Henry L. Benbow will be pleased to learn that he joined the Presbyterian church last Saturday.

ONE BY ONE THEY ARE PASSING AWAY.

To the Memory of D. Oscar Brunson, Who Departed This Life Last Friday at His Home at Davis Station.

It is with a sad heart that Clarendon records the death of this noble man, but more than all will be to the comrades of his who followed the fortunes of Robert E. Lee in the shifting vicissitudes of a soldier's life, and privation which none know but those who followed the Southern Cross, with numberless odds of the enemy in front, and suffering and starvation in the rear.

D. Oscar Brunson left Clarendon with the Sprout Guards, afterwards Co. I 23rd S. C. V. His general character and gentle heart always cheered the darkest hours of a soldier's life. He always looked upon the sunny side of life, and like the good Samaritan, he was ever ready to assist the needy as a soldier. He was as brave as the bravest. The writer, who stood by his side in the front ranks of his company on the 17th day of June, 1864, at Petersburg, Va., witnessed the grandest struggle between the North and the South, and on this line D. Oscar Brunson was seriously wounded and carried on the back of his comrade to where he could get assistance. We see him after he returns home to see his cities in ashes, his fields desolate, and every home a house of mourning. But he hastens to assist his comrades in reforming their shattered ranks, preparing and caring for the women and children of our desolate land. "The Reaper, Death, has claimed our comrade, and taken a prize from our midst!" but beyond these dark, sombre shadows, we see the smiling face of Him who never errs, and in behalf of the comrades of old Company I, 23rd S. C. V., we extend a soldier's sympathies to the family of our comrade, assuring them that his memory will ever live in the hearts of all his comrades, who are assured that a few more remnants are left who

"Not far beyond, we all shall camp, Beyond life's little line; To join the army of Robert Lee, That rests beneath the pines."

THE COTTON MANUFACTURERS' VISIT.

The Malady of a Lunatic at the State Asylum Takes a Suicidal Form—A Drunken Father Shot by His Son—Other State News.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 9.—There was a most unfortunate affair at the state lunatic asylum yesterday. A white patient committed suicide by hanging, using his suspenders as a rope. The unfortunate man was Z. F. Watley, who was sent to the asylum from Edgefield county on October 31, 1881. He was about 45 years of age, and had been confined for thirteen years. When he was first sent to the asylum he was very violent and his malady took a homicidal form. This was shown by his attack upon a patient, whom he killed, and attendants in the early days of confinement. Recently he has been well-behaved and the authorities never dreamed at his malady would take a suicidal form, else he would have been watched day and night. Yesterday when the attendant to his room, Watley was found hanging at the end of his suspenders, of which he had made a rope, to the grating of his window, dead. He had evidently climbed up on the window sill fixed the noose and then slipped off. He must have died from slow and willful strangulation. When found he had been dead for four hours.
