The question is often asked of us "is there such a thing as illicit whiskey selling in Manning?" We do not believe there is to any great extent. There may be a few persons, white and black, who are making Saturday night and Sunday barrooms of their persons, but they are such that a man would have to be hard pushed to get a drink, or buy from their barrooms a man low enough to make a barroom of his person, is low enough to make up any kind of a mixture and sell it for whiskey. Therefore he will not be trusted to any extent.

It is always pleasant to grasp the hand of that genial and popular knight of the road, Mr. Morris Clark, representing the firm of Weathers & Sons, Atlanta, Ga. Reports come to us that destructive tigers are roaming in and around Reinal and it is said they are not even Reinal. We do not see why these dangerous animals are reported to prow about in a decent community. Do not the law-abiding citizens of that section know that many of the patrons of these tigers get their "whorewhiff" from the fights, swamps, and other places of that kind? The last one of these tigers should be treated as outlaws and captured and the full penalty of the law put to each and every one of them. We are told that two negroes and a white man are now being held in that section and it must be stopped.

How about that pair of spectacles you are needing so bad? Now is your time to get them at Brochnton's.

We had occasion to visit L. W. Folsom's jewelry store in Sumter last week and the many pretty articles in jewelry and silverware fairly bewildered us. We can safely say that Folsom's establishment is one of the handsomest and best equipped in South Carolina. If you want to purchase a birthday, wedding, or holiday present, Folsom's is the place to get it. His store would do credit to a city. He is a man of some means and Mr. Folsom deserves much credit for having so successfully established his business, because it proves conclusively that honest dealing, together with an intelligent understanding of the wants of the people, is what is appreciated by the purchasing public.

In the opera house building in Sumter is an establishment recently opened which will be received with delight by the good housewives throughout the county. It is the "China Hall," with Freeland & Rogan as proprietors. In this establishment everything in the crockery, tinware, wood and willow-ware lines can be found, and at very low prices. They also carry a full line of stoves. Captain Freeland, one of the proprietors, is well known to many of our readers, and we have great pleasure in praising in his new enterprise. Mr. Rogan was for many years a commercial traveler in the line the firm is now engaged in, and he thoroughly understands the business. We expect to see his lady proprietress in the line of the establishment. We are glad to see the establishment of Freeland & Rogan, and will assure them of meeting with gentlemen who will take pleasure in showing them the many beautiful articles for house use in their store.

Elsewhere our readers will find an advertisement from the Sumter tobacco warehouse, and we break for him a connection with this institution are not only correct, but they are brimful of punks and energy. They propose to make the Sumter tobacco market for South Carolina, and already they have a warm place in the hearts of our Clarendon growers. Mr. John A. Brogdon, the general manager, is a hustling business man, and if placed in a square dealing will do the work. The Sumter tobacco warehouse will be a grand success. Associated with Mr. Brogdon is Mr. Mescham, the auctioneer, who is a tobacco man from the ground up, and he is heart and soul interested in the work of making the institution second to none in the State. Mr. H. Clem Moss has charge of the weighing and the boxes, and this alone is a sufficient guarantee to the farmers of Clarendon. He is well known to our people, and any words of commendation from us would be superfluous.

Wilson, president; J. J. Wilson, secretary and treasurer; and R. E. Jaques, manager, and they propose to do a general wholesale grocery business throughout this State. Everybody in this county knows Captain Thomas Wilson, and he has been a member of the Sumter tobacco warehouse since the very beginning. The manager of this concern is well known to many people in this and neighboring counties as the man who never forgets a face once seen or a name once heard. Mr. Jaques is a veteran grocery man, and is a hard worker. The secretary and treasurer of this company is John Wilson, one of our own boys, the son of the president. He is a lawyer by profession, which will add greatly to the efficiency in this new enterprise. We know that we are voicing the sentiments of the people of this county in wishing the Carolina Grocery company a grand success.

BETTER TIMES AHEAD. Return of a Prosperous Period for Farmer and Merchant.

Look where you may upon the streets of Manning from daylight to sundown, and you will see the farmers bringing in their cotton. The lots of the various business houses present an animated and variegated scene. The merchants are kept busy receiving, weighing and shipping the fleecy staple, and the farmers, who bring the same to market, seem to be a happy lot—some of them with a smile on their countenance broad enough to stretch across two bales of hay. One of them remarked that he had always been a farmer and would remain one from the rising of the sun to the drying up of the Santee swamp, and that that meant a good deal.

What a vast difference there is between the farmer of last year and this. Last season, when cotton was selling at four and four and a half cents, he wore one of those woe-begone, tired-looking countenances that was something terrible to behold, and he seemed to have good reasons therefore—cotton going down and down, provisions remaining at the same old prices, no prospects of bettering his condition, and no hopes of ever throwing off the yoke of indebtedness. But this fall all is changed. He is as happy and proud as a boy with a new pair of red-topped brass-tipped boots. Looks healthier, has a pleasant smile for everyone he meets, his stock looks fatter and sleeker, his children—who had almost become accustomed to wearing their every-day clothes on Sundays—can now wear their Sunday clothes every day because he knows he is now enabled to buy more, his good housewife is happy from dawn to dusk, and does her work with a light heart and sings as merrily as a lark, and his lander is well stocked.

The reason for all this is easily found. Cotton is selling now at 8 1/2 cents, with a fair chance of its reaching 10 cents before Christmas, while provisions, clothing and dry goods remain at almost the same prices—if not lower—as last year. Our merchants also have a happy-go-lucky smile for everybody they meet, and they know the reason for it. They know that they will not be forced to call on their creditors and liquidate their indebtedness, thus enabling them to buy their goods direct from the manufacturers at the low cost of buying goods on the home credit system and paying a high rate of interest to the middleman. Surely an era of prosperity has set in in Clarendon, and long may it continue so, for our farmers have had a long and weary struggle of months hanging over their heads and have been fighting hard and long to keep the wolf from the door. But now that good times seem to be ahead of us all, let them not in the hour of their prosperity, forget their old friends and comparatively high price of cotton, forget to sow oats, and last, but not least, let them not forget "hog and hominy."
