In another column will be seen a communication from Col. David W. Brailsford with reference to the annual meeting of the Confederate Veterans to take place in Charleston. Col. Brailsford is an enthusiastic survivor and is already at any time to give his comrades a good time. Those who attend the reunion in Charleston, and it is to be hoped that Clarendon will be represented by a large complement of men, will have a good time. Everything that a loyal people can do, will be done to make the owers of Lee, Jackson, Hampton, Gary and others have a feast of pleasure. Confederate veterans of Clarendon, Time has frosted your hair and stiffened your joints. but "Time" has not chilled your love and veneration for the cause of your heart. These reunions are gotten up for your pleasure, that you may meet again on earth those who "tented on the old campground." Those noble men who with you placed their lives upon the altar of their country and with a heroism which made the world stand still to wonder and admire created a history which can never be effaced. Every "old Vet" should go to Charleston, it will do him good. He may meet those whom he has not seen since "arms were stacked" at Appointation.
