Open longs the honor of the first British victory of the present war, as Belmont was the first lattle after which the British stoutly dispute the passage of Tugela advanced instead of retreating. The fact that General Methuen was forced to fight a second pitched battle near the scene of the first shows the Boers were not demoralized at Belmont, but quickly rallied, and with unabated courage met the splendid assault of the British naval brigade at Gras Pan. The excellent military qualities dis-played by the Boers in these two fights were no doubt partially derived from the training of Commandant Albrecht, a former officer of the Austrian army. Presumably General Methuen has alnearly 50 miles from Kimberley, and doubtless an action will have to be fought at Modder river before "Dia-ever, is said to be far too cautious to be caught by such a trick, and, it is added, it can be confidently anticipated that his column will sweep steadily forward in spite of the determined resistance he will meet with. The conclusion must be accepted, however reluctantly, that the Boers are deliberate in their misuse of white flags. On top of General Methuen's warning War Correspondent Who lins Just Ar- and other evidence comes the statement of Correspondent Knight, who has rived at Cap.
