COL. HOYT'S HOME.
Senator Tillman attended the campaign meeting at Greenville, the home of Col. Hoyt, last Monday, and delivered one of the best speeches of the campaign. He answered Dr. Gardner, who had denounced Tillman from the pulpit, and warned the people of the attempt to rally them around denominational flags. Senator Tillman gave Col. Hoyt's home people some warm medicine and from the news we get from that county, it is doubtful if Col. Hoyt gets a majority vote. We take the following extract from the correspondent's report:

This has perhaps been the largest and liveliest meeting of the present campaign. Senator Tillman seemed to have on his old-time steam and the cheering for "Hoyt" and the hustling got the steam up and he spoke with vehemence. Tillman spoke for more than an hour and, as he promised, took up the sermon of Dr. Gardner of Greenville. Tillman made the best speech of the campaign today. He had two primary issues, first whether he was justified in charging the ministerial-saloon keepers "alliance," and many approved of his denunciation and that there was the "alliance." But it was his prohibitionist hand primary noted, and he called me up and said there were 2,500 present and wanted the vote fully noted. There were not over twenty or twenty-five who voted on his call for prohibition, when the dispensary vote was called for the hands went up as if out of a Gatling gun. Fully twenty-five to one was the record; the dispensary had the overwhelming numbers voting and Tillman said this would be the result in the primary. Tillman today made a connected speech and was severe on the ministers going into politics, and talked plainly about Dr. Gardner, who seemed to have many friends in the audience.

The tidings from China are very unsatisfactory. One day a report comes and it is contradicted the next day. On yesterday a battle was reported in which 1200 of the allied soldiers were killed and wounded. The ministers are said to be alive, but no authentic verification of this much desired fact has come yet. We very much fear that the conditions in the East are more serious than many think, and the fact that the Chinese have been laying in great quantities of modern arms, and have been employing European military talent ever since her war with Japan, makes us believe she is prepared to give the combined world a fearful struggle. In our opinion the trouble in the East is yet in its infancy, and should China succumb to superior knowledge of military science, when the powers go to slice up that Empire the real and serious trouble will begin.

There are all kinds of cranks in this world, and the greatest of these, are those men who imagine they are holier than other men, and it is their duty to make men holy whether they will or not. This class of men imagine that they can legislate holiness into their fellowman, and you will find them inventing all kinds of moral questions to pester legislatures with. There is a law now on the statute books of New Jersey which requires every man to go to church on Sunday; of course, the law is ignored, but occasionally some zealot falls back on this obsolete statute to punish some erring brother who has disappointed him in some way, or who has given him some cause for real or imaginary grievance. Just so, will it be if we were to place on our statute books a prohibition law against the sale of liquor; the law would be generally ignored, but once in a very great while, on account of a personal grievance, the violator of the law would be hauled up and punished. In this day of religious liberty and freedom of thought, the puritanical ideas prevalent in the early settlement of this country, appear fanatical, and what was thought to be necessary for the betterment of the moral condition in the year 1600, would be regarded in the year 1900 an unwarranted abridgment of a citizen's rights.

North Carolina's election to amend her constitution resulted in a magnificent victory, and Alabama follows suit. One by one the States are following South Carolina's lead on the suffrage question.

The news from all parts of the United States show a decided brightening of Democratic chances for success this year. Bryan in 1896 had a divided party to lead, today his party is virtually solid, with a great many Republicans who had left their party on account of its foreign policy. A great many Democrats oppose Bryan's financial views, but they regard the money question settled, at least for the present, and they will support Bryan, and their party on the anti-imperialism and anti-trust planks of the party platform. They regard Imperialism and Trusts the paramount issues. There are thousands of voters of both parties who are opposed to a colonial form of government in the Philippines, they claim that a Republican government cannot control colonies and live.

With such conditions it remains to be seen which is the stronger, the money power which is backing the Republican party, or true Americanism which should be the controlling factor in our politics. The South will, as heretofore give Bryan a solid support, and if the Democratic party can increase in the West, there is some hope of victory. Bryan can win without New York if he can secure an increased support in certain Western States. He can win without New York and Indiana, if he can get the electoral vote of Illinois and Wisconsin. Or he can win if he can get New York and Indiana. The outlook is not at all hopeless.

Col. Cole L. Blease, one of the candidates for Lieutenant Governor, is fast coming to the front as the most popular candidate for that position. The people are beginning to find out that he is the man who made a fight on the floor of the House of Representatives to require the school tax money of the white man to be applied to the white schools. His speeches on the liquor question are even stronger than those of the gubernatorial candidates, and at a number of places his argument for the dispensary was stronger than Tillman's, so much so that Tillman complimented him. Blease is a young man of fine ability, which was recognized by the people of Newberry county in nominating him for the Legislature before he was 21 years of age. At the last election he received an overwhelming majority on the first ballot. Blease is a close student and he is known in Newberry among the factory operatives as "a lawyer with a soul." We have no opposition to any of the other candidates for that office, but we believe that Cole L. Blease is the best qualified one of the number. He has legislative experience, and his ability fits him for the place. His record shows him a friend of the people, and whenever opportunity offered itself he would champion their cause. He is a strong advocate of the dispensary system, was a member of Governor Tillman's staff and always a strong defender whenever Tillman has been assailed. We will vote for Cole L. Blease.

DISPENSARY STRONGLY ADVOCATED.
Prohibition Condemned—Blessings of Dispensary Methods.
Mr. Editor: In the discussion of the dispensary law on the stump and elsewhere much stress is laid on the fact that the dispensary law is not enforced, and administration is present brought to blame by opponents and prohibitionists. With an earnest desire to be enlightened we ask, how will a prohibition law be enforced? Theory is not logic, abuse no argument, pro or con. Yet we have failed to see any one opposed to the dispensary give a practical, plain statement of the manner of dealing with the liquor question if they succeed in tearing down, through the legislature, the present law. Oh yes, repeal, but no prohibition! Nothing but the strong, strenuous arm of the State keeps back the horde of liquor men watching and waiting within and without our physical boundaries for the break in the law, by a legislature pledged

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical profession. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, it acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient a new building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. It is a powerful and safe remedy in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for free testimonials.

ed to destroy it. Politics has placed good men in bad company. An unholy alliance caused Sampson to deny to his strength and a mad desire to destroy those he hated brought death and reproach on a strong man. Alliance with Satan drove from Eden the first pair. That ex-barkeepers and blacklegs should be found on the side with Christian people in an effort to break down the wall that keeps them from selling liquor with license or without is proof positive that no high moral principle governs their vote in this issue. They are working for liquor not prohibition and their talk of State pride is painful to hear when we know that they care nothing for the State or its honor, and will again, if opportunity presents, open bars and gambling halls for the ruin of the young manhood of the State. The dispensary law is the best solution of the liquor question yet devised. The strong arm of the State is the only power that liquor men fear, his strength drives them to their knees. Prohibition is a winning card, provided it is impracticable and Utopian. Such laws are a farce unless most rigidly enforced and this would be a worse system than the present one. It would mean a man's life upon a single vote, and a man's life in the far west, where active efforts were made to enforce a prohibitory law.

That we may not be accused of having only a theory on this subject, we will state that we have had in our experience as a legislator, and in the prohibition brought upon an earnest Christian people. About eight years ago in a distant city Sam Jones, after three weeks' powerful pleading and preaching, day and night, succeeded in procuring public sentiment to such an extent that people and city council were in accord, and after a heated fight with the liquor element, passed a prohibition law, and after a certain date all bars, saloons and dens were ordered to discontinue the sale of liquor. The doors of bars were closed on the outside, but liquor sold within. Young boys and negroes retailed it at out of the way places. Operators of factories and mills sold liquor to the hands on Saturday and Sunday, there were carnivals of drunkenness. "Butcher and baker and candle-stick maker" all were in the business. With a fillet of beef came a flask, with dry goods, a pair of gloves, a bottle of whiskey, and hand-boxes even were filled with bottles of liquor and sent in wagons to the suburbs for sale. The hospital was crowded with maimed and wounded men, arms and legs broken in drunken fights. Ladies could not venture to church service at night, fearing the unruly element on the street. The police were powerless. They said they could not raid a man's home and did not seem to make special effort to catch the crowd on the street. At the Farmers' Institute, Columbia, S. C., August 12 to 20, tickets on sale August 12, 13 and 14; final limit August 23, $1.80. Unwilling Statute of Zebulon B. Vance, Raleigh, N. C., August 22. A Minister's Good Work.
I had a severe attack of bilious colic, not a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was not in my medicine chest. My neighbor across the street was sick for a week and two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief. I then bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not feel better. He took one and was entirely cured. For sale by the R. B. Loryea Drug Store, Isaac M. Loryea, Prop.

After many intricate experiments, scientists have discovered methods for obtaining the natural digestants. These have been combined in the proportion found in the human body and united with substances that build up the digestive organs, making a compound called Kodol Digestant. It digests what you eat and allows all dyspepsia to eat plenty of nourishing food while the stomach troubles are being radically cured by the medicinal agents it contains. It is pleasant to take and will give quick relief. D. O. Rhame, Summerton; Dr. W. M. Brockington, Manning.

Robbed the Grave.
A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in my most dreadful condition. My head was swollen, my eyes swollen, tongue swollen, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, gradually growing weaker and weaker. Three physicians had been called. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters; and up my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c. everywhere. Sold by the R. B. Loryea Drug Store.
