the party's interest. The rules of the party require every voter to be sworn, and the oath is prescribed, yet we know that it is a common practice for managers to neglect this requirement, and permit voters to cast their ballots without being sworn. We have also known where managers neglected to certify to the returns, and where they permitted men to vote at one box when their names were enrolled at another box, all of these things are "irregular," but with no dishonest motive. The man who voted without the formality of taking the oath, Years of Suffering.

"I sufferep for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured." says John S. Halloway of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by The R. B. Loryea Drug Store, Isaac M. Loryea, Prop. would not have voted differently had the oath been administered to him. The returns of managers would not have been different had they certified the returns, nor would those men who were permitted to vote away from their home clubs voted otherwise than they did, had they voted where their names were enrolled. As we before said, we do not believe there is dishonesty, but that the elections are conducted in an irregular and slip-shod are the great food consuming nations. manner, and in order to prevent confusion the State convention at its next meeting should do self. A triffing dispute between a Kurd and an Armenian on a street in Constantinople the other day led to an amusing instance of justice as it is dispensed by the Turkish police.

A tobacco box was found on the pavement, as alleged, by a Kurd. An Armenian claimed the box as his own. Neither would give in, and the dispute waxed warm. From words they were near coming to blows when a policeman came up, but he could not decide the question of ownership.

At last the Armenian suggested that the policeman ask what was in the box. "Tobacco and cigarette paper," said the Kurd promptly
