ANNUAL DRY GOODS SALE

AT THE

Jenkinson Dry Goods Store,

Saturday and Monday, JULY 13 & 15.

Next Saturday and Monday, July 13th and 15th, will mark the beginning of one of the most important Dry Goods Sales ever held in the history of the trade of Manning.

It will also demonstrate the success, the prosperity and the growth of one of the largest Dry Goods Houses in Clarendon; how from a small beginning, starting as it were beneath the shadows of the largest houses in Clarendon County, we have worked and toiled until we have planted our colors in the front ranks of the dry goods retailers of Clarendon County.

But this question must naturally come home to every sound thinking person, "How was such a successful business built up in such a short time?" My friends, my only answer is, Square and honest dealings have been the beacon lights that have steered us clear of the rocks of shipwreck and disaster, and under these colors we propose to continue to sail our ship—to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto every man his just dues.

Rules Governing This Sale.

First of all we shall expect all who propose to take advantage of the special prices we will offer at this sale to come with the Spot Cash, for under no consideration can we afford to charge goods at these Special Sale prices.

In the second place we want you to come on Saturdays and Mondays if you wish to buy goods at Special Sale Prices.

We will continue to hold these Special Sales on each succeeding Saturday and Monday until further notice is given.

During these Special Sales we will offer our entire stock of Dry Goods, Shoes, Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods, Trunks and Valises and Millinery at SPECIAL PRICES.

And suffice it to say those who come with the cash will not go off disappointed.

In our Dry Goods stock we will have goods piled out on tables to close out which will just simply astonish you. The cash will tell the tale. We will offer during this Sale values in Trunks and Valises that will simply astonish you. If you want a nice Trunk or Valise now is your chance. A large stock to select from at sensational prices.

REMEMBER THE DAYS, Saturday and Monday, July 13 and 15, And each succeeding Saturday and Monday during July. Don't forget your Pocketbook.

IN OUR...

Clothing Stock

We will have about 80 Gent's Black All-Wool Clay Worsted Suits, regular $7.50 goods, that we will run off for the cash at $5 per Suit, special.

A large lot of Gent's Straw Hats AT COST. A full line of Gent's Shirts, Collars and Cuffs at prices that will please you.

IN OUR...

Dry Goods Stock

We will have some sensational prices to offer you in all Summer Goods, as we are very desirous of closing out all Summer Goods at once.

IN OUR...

Notice to Executors, Administrators, Guardians and Committees.

OFFICE OF JUDGE OF PROBATE, Manning, S. C., August 1, 1901.

To Executors, Administrators, Guardians and Committees: I respectfully call your attention to annexed statute. You will please give this matter early attention. Very respectfully, J. M. WINDHAM, Judge of Probate.

Sec. 3964 (1912). Executors, Administrators, Guardians and Committees, shall annually while any estate remains in their care or custody, at any time before the first day of July of each year, render to the Judge of Probate of the county from whom they obtain Letters Testamentary or Letters of Administration or Letters of Guardianship, etc., a just and true account, upon oath, of the receipts and expenditures of such estate the preceding calendar year, which, when examined and approved, shall be deposited with the Inventory and appraisement of other papers belonging to such estate in the office of said Judge of Probate, there to be kept for the inspection of such persons as may be interested in the estate—(under former statutes). Approved the 24 day of March, 1897.

RUBBER HISTORY. Man That Came With Columbus Saw Haitians Playing Ball.

"The world was a long time learning the uses and value of rubber," says H. E. Armstrong in Ainslee's. "For two centuries after the Spaniards saw the gum in the hands of natives of the new world it was little more than a curiosity. Old Herrea, who went with Columbus on his second voyage, made a note of an elastic ball which was molded from the gum of a tree. At their games the nude Haitians made it bound high in the air. The Aztecs were familiar with the gum and called it ule, and from them the Spaniards learned to smear it on their coats to keep out the wet. They had crossed the seas for gold and never dreamed of a time when the sticky milk the uncouth Indians drew from strange trees would be worth more than the treasure of the hills.

"Jose, king of Portugal, in 1555, comes down to us as the warner of a pair of boots sent out to Para to be covered with a water-proof gum. Yet 500 years were to elapse before a Connecticut Yankee should make a pair of boots of rubber which would not decompose. Dr. Priestly, author of a work on 'Perspective,' now forgotten, recorded that caoutchouc (pronounced kachook) was useful in small cubes for rubbing out pencil marks; hence the name rubber. The India linked with it refers to the savages who gathered it in the Amazon wilderness. Dr. Priestly's cubes were half an inch long and sold for 3 shillings, or 75 cents, apiece—a stiff price, for the finest rubber today is $1 a pound. Its price for ten years has ranged from 62 cents to $1.00.

"The conversion of the gum to useful purposes made but slow headway. The first waterproof cloth in 1797 was made of an Englishman. It was tented, and, of course, it would not stand heat. In 1823 Charles Mackintosh of Glasgow discovered naphtha and, dissolving rubber in it, produced a varnish which, when spread on cloth, made it really impervious to water. Most of the rubber used in the world still comes from equatorial South America, and the forests where the Indians gathered ule are as dense today and almost as little known to white men as in the time of Cortez."

Why They Were Selected.

It has been recorded that General Henry Knox, in 1783, was the "greatest" of 11 distinguished officers of the army, weighing 280 pounds. Noah Brooks, in his book entitled "Henry Knox," gives the following incident relating to the general's full habit: "With a Captain Sarjent, he was selected to present the bare case of the starving and naked men at Valley Forge to the attention of a committee of congress. One of the congressmen, wishing to show his wit and sarcasm, said that he had never seen a fatter man than General Knox nor a better dressed man than his associate. Knox managed to keep his temper and remained silent, but his subordinate retorted, 'The corps, out of respect to congress and themselves, have sent as their representative the only man who had an ounce of superfluous flesh on his body and the only other man who possessed a complete suit of clothes.'"

There is something uncanny about a boy who can save money.—Atchison Globe.

MOST COSTLY OF DRUGS. Some Sell at Retail For More Than Their Weight in Gold.

"The price of many drugs used in medicine is astonishing to those who are not acquainted with the subject," remarked a druggist. "There are several that are worth their weight in gold (about $20 an ounce), while $2, $3 or $5 an ounce are quite common prices in pharmacy. I filled a prescription the other day that cost $25. But there is one drug that I can recall which is worth much more than its weight in gold. That is pseudo-phosphigmine. I don't think that it has a popular name. It is too rich for that. In the pharmacist's list it is quoted at $1 a grain, or $437.50 an ounce. The seed from which the drug is made grows in India and Brazil, as well as in parts of South Africa. This seed, tradition says, was once used by native chiefs as an amulet. The ordeal generally resulted in the death of the man upon whom it was tried and so was considered as a great truth finder. The prepared drug is sometimes used now in prescriptions for the treatment of heart disease.

"Another drug which takes the palm for costliness is, curiously enough, the one which is perhaps the most widely known by name of them all to the general public—namely, musk. Its retail price at the present moment is about $50 an ounce, $500 a pound apothecary, or 2 1/2 times the value of pure gold, 24 carats fine. It is obtained from the musk deer, a very rare animal, and is contained in a follicle, of which there is only one in each animal, so that an ounce of the drug represents approximately one of these precious animals. As it is largely used for scent, the demand constantly exceeds the supply, and the price has been steadily advancing. There is no reason why it should not go to $250 or $300 an ounce during the next few years, as the musk deer is gradually vanishing from the face of the earth."—Kansas City Journal.

A Kindly Joke.

Judge Braxfield, famous in England for his love for hanging criminals, when on circuit always put up near Perth with a crowsy who was devoted to chess. The laird had rather the better of his lordship at the game. In the revolution of the circuits Braxfield found himself trying his hospitable friend, who had got awkwardly mixed up in some abduction of cattle. The evidence was clear, the penal was convicted and the judge passed the solemn sentence of death. Then, bending down, he chuckled to the unfortunate prisoner—the accommodation in the provincial courts was cramped—"And now, Donald, my friend, I think I've checked you for once." But Braxfield delighted in a kindly joke.

Trifling With Charon.

Just as Charon was about to make the ferry slip the ex-distiller audged him in the ribs. "If it isn't too much trouble," said the latter, "I wish you would put me with the arrivals from Boston." "But you are from St. Louis," protested Charon. "Wouldn't you feel out of place among so much culture?" "No, indeed. I always feel at home in the midst of refined spirits." Thereupon the ancient ferryman tossed the ex-distiller in the Styx.—Chicago News.

NOT BURIED AT SEA. The Humane French Boatman and the Dead Englishman.

A long expected French lugger was seen making for the roadstead, and the Lowestoft free traders were on the alert, anxiously seeking an opportunity for communicating with her crew. While they waited for a lapse of vigilance on the part of the excisemen, a boat was lowered from the lugger and rowed toward the shore. A curious crowd of beach men and excisemen assembled to meet her, and as she came in on the crest of a roller it was observed that she contained a coffin. The French boatman had a mournful tale to tell. On board the lugger had been an Englishman suffering from an illness which soon proved fatal. In his last moments of consciousness he had begged the captain not to bury him at sea, but to keep his body until a resting place could be found for it under the green turf of a churchyard in his native land. Sympathy with his sad fate and the knowledge that the lugger was not far from the English coast, had induced the captain to consent, and now he had sent the body ashore for burial. In spite of his broken English, the Frenchmen's spokesman told his tale well.

Both excisemen and beach men—especially the latter—loudly expressed their admiration of the captain's conduct. A parson was summoned, and in a little while a mournful procession made its way from the beach to the churchyard. Even the chief officer of the excisemen was present and is said to have shed tears. "That night the local 'resurrectionists' were busy, and at dawn the churchyard contained a deserted grave. A little way inland, however, in the midst of the marshes, a smuggler's store received the addition of a coffin filled with silks and lace—"Highways and Byways in East Anglia," W. A. Dutt.

GONE TO THE VERGE.

He Thought He Had Reached Friendship's Limit. This young man is not so confiding as he was, and his ideas of friendship are not so exalted. Yet he takes it philosophically and is willing to place a heavy credit in favor of experience. "I started in a small way," he tells, "and I had an idea that my business would expand rapidly. But I find a

His Objection.

"The great actor objected to their taking his name from the drama programme and placing it on the list of burned cork stars." "I wonder why." "He said he didn't want to be black-listed."—Chicago News.

Having a Purpose in Life.

Ambition to achieve has saved many a man and woman from an early grave. From a health point of view a definite purpose in life, something which the mind is bent on accomplishing, is a factor which is too rarely considered. The will power which holds one to a set task oftentimes wards off physical weakness and weariness better than the drug or medicine which the physician prescribes. "I must accomplish this before I die," has been the expressed purpose of more than one of the world's great workers.—A. S. Atkinson in Woman's Home Companion.

SORES AND ULCERS.

Sores and Ulcers never become chronic unless the blood is in poor condition—is sluggish, weak and unable to throw off the poisons that accumulate in it. The system must be relieved of the unhealthy matter through the sore, and great danger to life would follow should it heal before the blood has been made pure and healthy and all impurities eliminated from the system. S.S.S. begins the cure by first cleansing and invigorating the blood, building up the general health and removing from the system A CONSTANT DRAIN UPON THE SYSTEM. When this has been accomplished the discharge gradually ceases, and the sore or ulcer heals. It is the tendency of these old indolent sores to grow worse and worse, and eventually to destroy the bones. Local applications, while soothing and to some extent alleviate pain, cannot reach the seat of the trouble. S.S.S. does, and no matter how apparently hopeless your condition, even though your constitution has broken down, it will bring relief when nothing else can. It supplies the rich, pure blood necessary to heal the sore and nourish the debilitated, diseased body. Mr. J. B. Talbert, Lock Box 24, Wisconsin, Miss. says: "Six years ago my leg from the knee to the foot was one solid sore. Several physicians treated me and I made two trips to Hot Springs, but found no relief. I was induced to try S.S.S., and it made a complete cure. I have been a perfectly well man ever since."
