the exhibit at Buffalo: to be more explicit, the electrical display there, is perhaps the best ever shown. The government exhibit is fine and the exhibit State: nothing from this State is shown and in view of the fact that South Carolina is making great efforts to estab-lish within her borders new industries this cannot be considered less than an unpardonable error. When passing through the buildings where are located the great government exhibits my attention was attracted by the display of tobacco shown from various States. As we are now one of these that grow tobacco of the best commercial grades, I thought to find something here from my State, but nothing of the kind is shown-not a leaf of tobacco as coraing from South Carolina is exhibited, yet by going through our warehouses here n Manning on salesday, as good samoles can be found as shown at the exhibition. Commercially this is against us: all of the tobacco grown in this section is now marketed as North Carolina or Virginia leaf, and we have to pay, in doing this, about one-half the value of the goods by way of commissions. A good arbibit at Buffalo would have opened the eyes of the world to the fact that this is a tobacco growing State and South Carolina is a good tobacco market, then we could sell direct to the manufacturer and save commis-

Farmers' Institute.

President Thos. E. Miller of the State Colored Normal and Industrial Coilege at Orangeburg was here on last Friday and delivered an address to the colored farmers institute. The atshe appeared perfectly well but later a week of speech making, and at the when her daughter went in the room hour Miller had set for his speech, the she had fallen. At first it appeared had previously arranged for a barbacue that her entire body was affected, but in another part of town. No man later it was found that only her left side whether he be white or black cares to was paralyzed. A sociable was given by Mrs. Mayes' daughter Friday night, of a piece he can enjoy himself with barbecued beef and mutton, and he will take his chances on the results. As we have already said the attendance was to hear of her misfortune. Mrs. Mayes small, many of his most appreciative auditors were white men. The speech was a most practical agricultural talk. He told how to prepare lands, and his advice was not from book theory, but from actual experience. He urged them to devote more attention to home made manures, and lispense with commercial fertilizers That they were yearly making the fer-tilizer people richer and themselves and their lands poorer; that they should not plant all cotton, but devote attention to the raising of grain and hogs. He said that clean water and shade is the best preventive against cholera. Miller's speech made a strong im pression, it was teeming with good, sound, practical thought, but when he got on the necessity for an exhibit from his people for the Charleston exposition, his pleading with them to come forward with their handiwork was grandly eloquent. He told his race that they need not look to politics for hope, for there was none, their only hope was in their mussle and on the He said, "Stick to the farm, the towns are already crowded and cannot support all of you; stick to the farm and be independent citizens. Stick to the farm and if you will do your proper part you and the white man will live in harmony, for he needs you and you need him. There is nothing in the towns and saw mills for you but a debased manhood, but on the farm is an inspiration to ennoble you."

After he finished his splendid address he immediately left for St. Paul, where he was booked for another institute, and where he expected a large crowd to greet him.

The Grand Lodge of Colored Odd Fellows convening in Manning made it somewhat of a gala week with the colored people, and which attracted a large and well behaved crowd from all over the County. Thursday was the big day, and the parade with two brass bands was quite imposing. The officers from the various bodies throughand the entire paraphernia was very good indeed. After the parade L. M. Rice Esq. of Greeville delivered the annual address Enough cannot be said in praise of Court room, and therefore had to despense with the hearing the delivery of line of what is said to have been a well prepared address and eloquently delivered.

Before the grand officers were conducted upstairs to the Court room, Providence brass band, a group of musicians who were not instructed by Sousa rendered great strains on the plaza, for the entertainment of the country sisters who responded their appreciation by dancing and keeping ne to the toots of the brass horns. Music hath its charms is a truism well demonstrated when music can be strained through such horns and cause people to stand around all day with empty stomachs waiting untill the band begins to play so that their feet and hands may dance with joy.
