Be Sure You Read.
The man who would like to know something about astronomy must lay out a little scheme of study for himself, get the books which are necessary and have them at hand the moment he is at leisure. The man who wishes to familiarize himself with political economy, with politics or with industrial questions, which are now of such importance, must find out what textbooks he ought to have, secure those textbooks and keep them by his side.
The man who wishes to know literature does not need to lay out an elaborate plan which fills his mind with discouragement by its very magnitude, but he does need to decide what author he is going to read next, and he does need to get the book and keep it within easy reach.
Almost all the great classics are now published in such portable forms that a man can carry a play of Shakespeare, the essays of Bacon, the poems of Tennyson or of Browning, a translation of "Faust," Matthew Arnold's criticisms, Emerson's essays or John Burroughs' charming transcriptions of nature in his coat pocket and substitute them for the newspaper which is thrust in his face by an eager newsboy and which he buys because he has nothing else to read.—Success.

One Hopeful Sign.
While I was living in California, writes an Englishman, I had the opportunity of noting the extreme consideration shown to employees by California employers. I cannot recall an instance of a cruel and cutting rebuke from one in authority to a clerk or servant during the seventeen years of my stay. A friend of mine had a clerk who was always forgetting important duties. Letters would be forgotten, important entries on the books omitted, and messages even were sometimes not delivered. Said my friend to me one morning: "Really, I must speak to John." So John was summoned, and I wondered what manner of rebuke would fall upon his head.
"John," said my friend, "it is most astonishing what a very bad memory you have, but I believe that in time it will improve, because I have noticed that you have never once forgotten to draw your salary on the first of the month."
John took the hint, and after that my friend was more faithfully served.

Antiquity of the Water Pump.
The water pump of today is but an improvement on a Grecian invention which first came into use during the reign of Ptolemy Philadelphos and Energetes, 283 to 221 B. C. The name, which is very similar in all languages, is derived from the Greek word pepo, to send or throw. The most ancient description we have of a water pump is by Hero of Alexandria. There is no authentic account of the general use of the pump in Germany previous to the beginning of the sixteenth century. At about that time the endless chain and bucket works for raising water from mines began to be replaced by pumps.
In the seventeenth century rotating pumps, like the Papenham engine with two pistons, and the Prince Rupert with one, were first used. Pumps with plunger pistons were invented by Morland, an Englishman, in 1674, and the double acting pump by De la Hire, the French academicien.

Funny Speeches.
Grose relates that Caulfield, meeting Mr. Thomas Sandly, said: "My dear Sandly, I'm glad to see you. Pray, is it you or your brother?" It was a Spaniard who remarked ingeniously that an author should always write his own index, let who will write the book. Edgeworth relates the story of an English shopkeeper who did pretty well in the direction of the bull proper when, to recommend the durability of some fabric for a lady's dress, he said, "Madam, it will wear forever and make you a petticoat afterward." This is quite equal to the Irishman's rope which had only one end because the other had been cut away.—Temple Bar.

Keeping Butter.
Good butter will keep sweet for many weeks when it is placed in a crock after being made into rolls wrapped in strong cheesecloth or old muslin and then covered with a brine strong enough to bear up an egg. Saltpeper and sugar may be added to advantage while the brine is still hot in the proportion of a teaspoonful of the former and a tablespoonful of the latter to every four quarts. The brine must, however, be poured upon the butter until it is entirely covered.

To Varnish Bronze.
To make a brilliant black varnish for bronze make a bath of equal parts of nitrate of silver and nitrate of copper. Dip the articles to be treated into this liquid and allow them to remain there for some time. Upon withdrawal heat them over the flame of an alcohol lamp until the black potina color has been reached.

The Dead One.
An old colored woman was "taking on" the other day over the death of her husband as she was going from the church to the back which was to take her to the cemetery. A white woman who knew her happened to be passing and said sympathetically:
"Which one of your children is dead, Aunt Eliza?"
"The one in the hearse," moaned the negro.—Atchison Globe.

Oxygen.
Oxygen forms one-fifth of the atmosphere, eight-ninths of the waters and, taking all together, one-half of all the materials of the globe, so far as they are known. As carbon is the basis of all the organic substances of the world, so oxygen, the supporter of life and combustion, represents its living energies.

It is easy enough to smile when you tread upon roes leaves, but try it when each step leaves blood prints upon the thorns. Some of the lines in your face may curve downward then.

Something to Brace Up On.
It was along about noon when a well dressed man lined up against the bar. He had the air and looked the part of a high liver, but there was every sign of a bad night. He stretched himself, rubbed his head and said to the bartender:
"I want something to brace up on."
"All right, sir. What'll it be?"
"Get the large lemonade glass and break five eggs in it."
Chapman, the bartender, looked at him suspiciously and hesitated.
"That's what I want," he ordered.
Chapman broke five raw eggs in the glass and waited for further orders.
"Now a pint of champagne."
Chapman opened the bottle, and the customer poured it on top of the eggs and, taking a spoon, stirred the mixture thoroughly, and then drank it. Then he paid his bill and walked out.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Prunes as Medicine.
That the fruit possesses very considerable virtue in this respect is conceded by most eminent authorities, and for this reason as well as on account of their food value they are included among the foods suitable for invalids, children and those whose digestive powers are rather inactive. Their influence is mild, which fact makes them desirable for the not over robust.

A dish of well cooked rice and prunes, made dainty and attractive for serving, is a dish to serve to the invalid, breakfast, luncheon or a dessert, especially for the child or invalid, and should be added especially to our list of replacing meat and potatoes and heavy, unseasonable desserts.

A Man of Experience.
"You are quite sure, Uncle Bushrod," she queried, "that Judy has no idea there are only books in those two boxes you took this morning over to the courthouse in the cart?"
"Miss Ma'y," answered the old chap, with dignity, "I done had three wires, an' Judy's de las, I reckon. An' I jes' tell you dis, honey, I don' trus' no colored 'oman's tongue."—Mrs. Burton Harrison in Lippincott's.

Bodily Proportions.
The proportions of the human figure, says an anatomist, are six times the length of the right foot. The face, from the highest point of the forehead, where the hair begins, to the end of the chin, is one-tenth of the whole stature. The hand, from the wrist to the end of the middle finger, is also one-tenth of the total height. From the crown to the nape of the neck is one-twelfth of the stature.

Warts are curious things. They come and go mysteriously, although their going is frequently marked by exasperating delays, and there are almost as many infallible cures as there are cures being that they are useless when applied to the particular wart you happen to have. They are only good for other people's.
"In my opinion," said a clubman, who was discussing the subject with a friend one day, "a wart is merely the outward correspondence of some mental excrescence. Get rid of that, and it goes away."
"Let me give you a bit of my own experience," he continued. "Last year I had a wart on my little finger, on which I had tried everything I could hear of, but without effect. It only grew larger.
"In the excitement of preparing for the trip and of the journey itself I forgot all about my wart, and when I looked for it about six weeks later it had vanished without leaving the slightest mark. I simply forgot it, and it had no mental condition to feed on. I see you have one on the back of your hand. Forget all about it for a few weeks, and it will go away of itself."
"Yes," said the other clubman, shrugging his shoulders, "but I can't afford to take a trip to Europe for the sake of curing one wart."—Youth's Companion.

Too Late For Regrets.
Tired of life and the ever present necessity of earning his daily bread by working he had taken a dose of carbolic acid and laid down to die.
But the meddlesome doctors pumped him out and saved him to society.
"Oh, Horace," moaned his wife, leaning over him, "why did you take that awful stuff? Laudanum would have been less painful and so much surer!"
—Chicago Tribune.

Ironmaking.
The first mention of ironmaking in Pennsylvania goes back to 1692. It is contained in a metrical composition entitled "A Short Description of Pennsylvania," by Richard Frame, which was printed and sold by William Bradford in Philadelphia in 1692. Frame says that at "a certain place about some forty pound" of iron had then been made.

Antipofanthy.
In Switzerland and Italy good people go about with little cards containing pledges against swearing. These are presented whenever the bearers hear some one indulging in profanity. The penalty for violating the pledge is a small self imposed fine, to be paid to charity.

The Children's Friend.
You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup, complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes: "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." The R. B. Loryea Drug Store, Isaac M. Loryea, Prop.

His Wants Were Few.
"What'll you have?" he asked severely at the breakfast table, for he had been out late the night before and she had not yet forgiven him.
"I think," he replied meekly, "that I would appreciate a gentle smile and a pleasant word about as much as anything."
—Exchange.

How Old Spiders Live.
Old spiders, which have neither web nor the materials to make one, often hunt about to find out the webs of other spiders, younger and weaker than themselves, with whom they venture battle. The invader generally succeeds, and the younger spider is driven out to make a new web, and the old spider remains in possession until a stronger spider invades the web and drives it out. When thus dispossessed, the spider seldom ventures another attack, but tries to subsist upon the few insects that may fall accidentally into its clutches and eventually dies of hunger.

The Blind Leading the Blind.
Little Ina had always lived in the country until her parents moved to the seat of the State Normal college. Ina was sent to the "practice school" of that institution, where during one hour of each day she was taught by members of the senior training class.
When asked how she liked the school, she replied, "I love my regular teacher dearly, but I don't much like it when those false teachers come in."—Harper's Magazine.

The Greatest Surrender.
The greatest surrender in the annals of warfare was that of Metz on Oct. 27, 1870. As a fortified place Metz, with its surrounding forts, was practically impregnable, but had generally permitted it to be completely surrounded and cut off. The surrender included 3 field marshals, 66 generals, 6,000 officers of lower degree, over 400 guns, 100 mitrailleurs, nearly 60 standards and 173,000 rank and file.
