NATURAL HISTORY.

There are forty-eight different kinds of house fly known and classified. The pig is the only domestic animal in which no case of cancer has been | ter from the netting and began fishing

The Spanish mackerel is one of the fastest of food fishes and cuts the water like a yacht. Fish swallow their food whole because they are obliged to keep continually opening and closing the mouth for the purpose of respiration. Siamese cats, both in appearance and character, closely resemble pug dogs. Even their tails have the curious curl so familiar in these stolid dogs. Animals are found to be subject to hypnotic influence. Lobsters, it is said, can be hypnotized by standing them on their heads five or ten minutes. There is no wild breed of fowl to which the Brahma or Cochin can be traced. The gamecock seems to be descended from the Cingalese jungle fowl. The flesh fly produces about 20,000 young in a season. The larvæ are alent of about $3,000, to the college hatched almost instantly from the egg for its general uses his will gives haif and at once begin their work of de-

A Hindoo Superstition. When visits are exchanged by the friends of the Hindoo bride and groom to complete arrangements for the wedding, great attention is paid to omens, which are considered especially potent then. For instance, if the groom's messengers should meet a cat, a fox or a serpent they turn back and seek a more propitious time for the errand. After the bride's father has received the offer he must delay replying until one of the ubiquitous lizards in his house has chirped.-Woman's Home Companion. Ingalls on Butter.

SCIENTIFIC TORTURERS.

Some of the Cruelties That Are Perpetrated In Vivisection.

A certain Dr. Casten, wishing to study the effect of massage upon dislocations, deliberately dislocated the limbs of numerous dogs, says Henry C. Merwin in The Atlantic. Story of a French Cat.

This cat story comes from Pont Ste. Maxence (Oise), and for such a small the Paris Messenger. It would appear that a resident in the place, who is an enthusiastic angler, used to keep live The angler also had a cat who naturally was fond of fish, raw or cooked. This being so, his owner covered his tank with wire netting to keep pussy out of temptation.

But the cat knew a trick or two and went to the nearest refuse heap for some fowl giblets which were providentially lying there. These she took to the tank, let them hang into the waon her own account. When the fish nibbled at the bait, puss would catch it with a nimble claw! The angler, noticing the trick, threw the bait away, but half an hour later puss was at it

We hardly know which to admire most, the cat's ingenuity or that of the concocter of the story.

Gifts For the Mourners. Some delver into the musty old records of Harvard has brought to light an amusing provision with which one of the college's eighteenth century friends coupled what was for his time a very generous bequest to the Cambridge university.

Mr. Thomas Brattle was the testator's name, and his interest in Harvard evidently extended to the individual members of its undergraduate body, for after leaving £200, then the equiva crown to every student belonging to it who should attend his funeral.

Unfortunately no account of Mr. Brattle's obsequies is extant, but there can be little doubt that the occasion "Don't you remember him, my child? was made solemn by the presence of a large number of "chief mourners" and that good wishes for the deceased were generally and feelingly expressed.

> Not Resssuring. "Have-have you any reason to believe that your father will exhibit violence when I ask him for your hand?" inquired the timid youth. "I have never been present on any of these occasions," replied the lovely girl evasively. "And, to tell you the truth, I have never wanted to be present. I suppose I am foolishly sensitive about these things, but I can't help it. I remember that papa took me to a slaughter house when I was a little girl, and I dreamed about it every night for months afterward."-Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Funny Language. The native dictionary of Samoa is interesting in the light it casts upon the Samoan character. I find "an impossibility, such as an old man getting a young wife." Another word means "to beg deliriously for fishhooks." "Unwelcome" is given, "such as a visiting party that is accompanied by neither a handsome man nor a pretty maid."

There are also definitions that show considerable thought and irony. "Meanness," for instance, can go no further than "to climb out on your own breadand all times; so conduct without consideration. Popoga, to look owl eyed, as a person staring when food or property is being divided. "Good brown that will attract the attention of your ing man. To show how difficult the language is for the stranger I may say "Do you suppose I want my custom- that the little word ta means I, we two, to open a vein, to bail a cannon, to wash clothing by beating and to turn a somersault.-Century.

Her Vanity.

Some years ago a marble sculptor had his place of business on Penn avenue near Ninth street. A business man lost his wife, and he ordered a tombstone for her grave from the sculptor. The figure was finished in due time and placed in the cemetery. Several years passed, and the figure had not been paid for. The sculptor was a man of business, not given to sentiment, and he took the figure out of the cemetery, placing it on exhibition in a window at his place of business. It naturally attracted a good deal of attention, and one day a woman in passing stopped to look at it. She recognized the figure, but to make certain went in and asked the sculptor and found that she was correct. The woman shook her head and said sadly, "Ah, Mary Jane was always a vain critter, but I never though she would go this far."-Pittsburg Press. An Inspiration.

A pretty girl boarded a crowded street car in Washington, and a pompous old gentleman arose and gave her seat. After some time a number of passengers got out, and the old gentleman sank into the nearest corner with a vreary sigh. "I wouldn't get up again," he murmured, "for an angel." And then, as he caught the eyes of the girl fixed upon him reproachfully, he added quickly, "I mean, madam, for another angel!"-Harper's Magazine.

The eye and the ear have long been regarded as marvels of mechanism, quite the most wonderful things in the plements of a present day laboratory the sensitiveness of all numan organs seems gross enough. A photographic plate, coupled with a telescope, will reyeal the presence of millions of stars whose light does not affect the retina in the least. The microscope, too, with its revelations of the world of the infinitely small, tells us how crude, after all, is this most delicate of the senses. Indeed, we may liken it to a piano where only a single octave, toward the middle, sounds. From the ultra violet to the lowest reaches of the spectrum is a range of some nine octaves of light vibrations, of which, save for our new have been conscious of but one. The ear hears little of what is going on around us. By means of a microphone the tread of a fly sounds like the tramp of cavalry. Our heat sense is very vague. We need a variation of at least one-fifth of a degree on a thermometer to realize any difference in temperature. Professor Langley's little bolometer will note the difference of a millionth of a degree. It is two hundred thousand times as sensitive as our skin.-Carl Snyder in Harper's Maga-

Falling From a Great Height. It will be remembered that Mr. Whymper, who had a severe succession of falls once in the Alps, without losing his consciousness, declares emphatically that as he bounded from one rock to another he felt absolutely no pain. The same thing happens on the battlefield. The entrance of the bullet into the body is not felt, and it is not till he feels the blood flowing or a limb paralyzed that the soldier knows he is wounded.

Persons who have had several limbs broken by a fall do not know which limb is broken till they try to rise. At the moment of a fall the whole intellectual activity is increased to an extraordinary degree. There is not a trace of anxiety. One considers quickly what will happen. This is by no means the consequence of "presence of mind." It is rather the product of absolute necessity. A solemn composure takes possession of the victim. Death by fall is a beautiful one. Great thoughts fill the victim's soul. They fall painlessly into a great blue sky.

Drugstore Humor. A Philadelphia druggist has made the following collection of amusing missives that have been sent to him from time to time: "I have a cute pain in my baby's stummick. Please give bearer something to cure it." "My little girl has eat up a lot of but-

ons. Please send a nemetic by the enclosed boy." "Dear doctor a dog bit my child on the leg please send some cork plaster and cutter eyes."

"Pleas send by bearer one postal card. Also kindly give bearer, my son, some licorice root." Deer doctor wot is good for tirefoy ever send some quick I got it." "Let my Johny have a glas of sody watter. I wud come myself but I am

Ants That Strike. Certain kinds of black ants have little yellow ants which do most of their work for them. Once in awhile these little yellow fellows will go on strike, and the "blacks" try to force them back to work by cutting off their food supply. If that does not succeed, they will attack the strikers in force or make a raid and get another gang of "yellows" into the colony. But the newcomers, as a rule, join the strikers.

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged menses, leucorrhea and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.

WIRE OF CARDU is doing this for thousands of American women to-day. It cured Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Glendeane, Ky., Feb. 10, 1901. Glendeane, Ky., Feb. 10, 1901.

I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my own work without any help, and I washed last week and was not one bit tired. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting fleshier than I ever was before, and sleep good and eat hearty. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to have to lay down five or six times every day, but now I do not think of lying down through the day.

MALARIA Invisible Means bad air, and whether it Enemy to Health comes from the low lands and marshes of the country, or the filthy sewers and drain pipes of the cities and towns, its effect upon the human system is the same. These atmospheric poisons are breathed into the lungs and taken up by the blood, and the foundation of some long, debilitating illness is laid. Chills and fever, chronic dyspepsia, torpid and enlarged liver, kidney troubles, jaundice and biliousness are frequently due to that invisible foe, Malaria. Noxious gases and unhealthy matter collect in the system because the liver and kidneys fail to act, and are poured into the blood current until it becomes so polluted and sluggish that the poisons literally break through the skin, and carbuncles, boils, abscesses, ulcers and various eruptions of an indolent character appear, depleting the system, and threatening life itself. The germs and poisons that so oppress and weaken the body and destroy the life-giving properties of the blood, rendering it thin and watery, must be overcome and carried out of the system before the patient can hope to get rid of Malaria and its effects. S. S. S. does this and quickly produces an entire change in the blood, reaching every organ and stimulating them to vigorous, healthy action. S. S. S. possesses not only purifying but tonic properties, increases almost from the first dose. There is no Mercury, Potash, Arsenic or other mineral in S. S. S. It is strictly and entirely a vegetable remedy.
